SENATORS BEATEN IN BOTH GAMES

Bandon Team of Coos Bay League Overcomes Salem Sunday Afternoon

Two hard fought games were lost Sunday at Oxford park by the Salem Senators to the Bandon nine, champions of the Coos Bay league, the score of the first being 8 to 5 and the second 3 to 1.

These probably will be the last games of the season for the local boys, according to Manager Harry Wenderoth, who says some of the players are preparing to leave soon to attend college.

In the first mix Sunday Salem started with two runs in the second inning and held the lead until the last of the eighth when Bandon scored four runs from three hits and an overthrow. The second game was a hard luck affair for the Senators.

Swartz and Carson were on the firing line for the Senators and both pitched good ball. Harper pitched both games for the vis-

MONEY IS UP FOR COMING SMOKER

Boxers in Training for Card to Be Staged in Salem on September 28

An aggregate of $250 in cash has been deposited to secure the appearance in the ring of the principal actors in the boxing meet to be staged by Company F, Thursday night, Sept. 23.

Chick Rocco of Portland and Phil Hayes of Salem are to meet in a special six-round event. Rocco is a rugged battler, and the best of them have found him a puzzle. At that, it is doubtful whether he has gone against a dynamite pill such as Hayes. This is not the main event, but it will be as interesting to Salemites as the niftiest main offering anywhere.

Jack Davis, welterweight of Seattle, and Billy Gardau, who appeared in Salem at the last smoker, will be the top-notchers for 10 rounds. Davis is now in training at Independence. Gardau is to box in Bend next week, and then ret'e down to train for the Salem match. They will weigh in at about 149 pounds, though no weight is specified.

GOMPERS SAYS LABOR ASPECT LOOKS BRIGHT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 11.—After reviewing the major strikes in which the union members of the American Federation of Labor have engaged during the past year, President Samuel Gompers and the executive council of the federation, in annual conference here today sent a message to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, declaring that the "advantageous settlement of the miners' strike marks the turning of the tide that will usher in the fulfillment of labor's hope and aspirations."

Asserting "that the meetings of the executive council promise to be of great significance to the general labor movement and to all elements in our industrial, financial, educational and political life," the delegates today deferred until a future session, consideration of the day's proceedings.

The council then sets forth that it is the "firm belief of organized labor that irresponsible persons and hirelings of interests hostile to organized labor are, and have been setting influence at work that would enable the financial and industrial interests to blacken the character of labor and subject them to such treatment as is being given labor by the government."

To Go After Radicals. Regardless of this belief, the statement continues, "it is our firm conviction that the commission of crime and wrong doing should be punished through our criminal process and criminal code and not by the high handed, and unconstitutional injunction method which deprives the citizen of all safeguard that a democratic government has guaranteed its people against unjust charges, unconstitutional trial and excessive punishment."

Plans for labor educational program for the next year and reports of the disruption by alleged radicals of the American Federation of Labor unions among stenographers and bookkeepers particularly in New York City, are scheduled for tomorrow, according to Matthew Wolf, vice president of the federation.

Discussing the case with newspapermen late today, Dr. Sawyer declared the increased elimination of wastes through kidneys, noted in the morning bulletin had given the attending physicians a feeling of increased hopefulness. Mrs. Harding, according to Dr. Sawyer, had a lower temperature during the day, was less restless and had been able to take nourishment.

ered. Likewise, he admitted a report from the director of agriculture of California, showing the falling off in fruit shipments during the month of July because of the railroad tieup, the need of cars to move the crops and a petition of California fruit growers to the interstate commerce commission setting forth their need for cars.

Mr. Richberg, in a three-hour argument attacked the government's bill, declared the acts involved in the calling and prosecution of the strike were entirely lawful; that the injunction was one the court had no power to grant because it is unconstitutional and violates the Clayton act; and claimed that if the bill is stripped of its conspiracy charges all that is left is a bill to enjoin criminal acts by unknown persons who may or may not be members of the unions.

Says Wrong Step Taken

The attorney general, Mr. Richberg declared, citing authorities, has no right to use the power of the government to prevent labor from doing any lawful thing to fight the "open shop" movement.

The government itself, he said, comes into court as an employer within the meaning of the Clayton law because the federal courts are operating railroads under receiverships.

If a conspiracy actually exists, he continued, the government should seek relief through the proper channels in the criminal courts, and he denied the right of government by injunction to deprive the defendants of the constitutional safeguards they would have under such criminal proceedings.

MOTHER GAVE FULL CONSENT FOR SON TO BECOME SOLDIER

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 5.—As a special feature of the recent citizens' militia training camp at Fort Douglas here, officers in charge made arrangements whereby the younger citizens, with parental consent, were allowed to take rides in army airplanes.

ANDERSON LEAVES

Gus Anderson left Monday for Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., to take up another year of his law and sociology course. He has been at home for about a month, greeting friends by night and doing a man's job in the Hunt factory by day, where he has worked of summers for a number of years past. Mr. Anderson has more than made good in the university life. "It's fairly humiliating, the honors they've given me, and they've passed by so many other good men to hand things to me," he says of his past two years there. He is the manager of the Northwestern Glee club, among other signal honors given him. The club will take a trip to the Canal zone this winter and has an assured contract to go to Denver, and may come here and to Portland and Seattle if proper arrangements can be made. Anderson was manager for the Willamette Glee club three years ago and one of the liveliest figures in all the social history of Willamette.
