

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Banker Visits Here— W. A. Chess, cashier of the First National bank of Monrovia, Cal., was in Salem yesterday. He and Mrs. Chess are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mars of Jefferson. Mrs. Chess and Mrs. Mars are sisters.

Calumet Sales Good— "Hod" Eller, representing the Calumet Baking Powder company in western Oregon, reports that "last year the state of Oregon used 15 carloads of Calumet, and up to August 1 200 more cases were sold than last year. The Calumet company made 90,000,000 pounds last year, a gain of 18,000,000 over 1920, due to heavy advertising.

Here From Eugene— Mr. and Mrs. George Goodall arrived yesterday from Eugene and stopped for a visit in Salem. They are on their way to Portland for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Goodall are visiting at the T. L. Williams home on Saginaw street. They formerly lived in Salem.

Ice Cream Makers Busy— The busiest man in Oregon next to the one-armed man with the iteb, is the ice cream maker for the last two hot days. P. M. Emmons to Northwest— Ralph W. Emmons, graduate from Salem high school last June and one of the best debaters in the annals of high school forensics in Oregon, will leave today for Evanston, Ill. where he will enter Northwestern university. He will take his degree in the college of Journalism. Upon arriving in Chicago he will spend several days with his sister, Miss Mary Emmons, who is a student in American conservatory of Music under Butler, eminent violinist.

Miller Funeral Held— The funeral of Milford Miller, who was drowned Sunday, Sept. 3, was held yesterday at St. Joseph's Catholic church. Burial took place in McMinville, where the Miller family formerly lived. Rev. J. R. Buck officiated at the funeral service.

Three Licenses Issued— Monday was the good day for marrying, three licenses having been issued from the county clerk's office for as many happy couples to become man and wife. The licenses were to Albert Frank and Mary J. Smuck; Louis D. Fogarty and Stella Peck; and Samuel McDonald and Ascenaith Reed.

Case Deferred— By stipulation between the attorneys, the cases of Robert Malcolm Ramp, Nellie Ramp and M. S. Ramp against E. J. Osborne, Homer Ross and The Oregon Rubber company, have been given until November 1 for the filing of briefs and transcripts in an appeal to the supreme court. The case grew out of the collision on the Pacific highway, last summer, between a car driven by Osborne and one driven by Ramp, wherein Osborne's companion was killed, and all the Ramp family were injured and a woman riding with them died of her injuries. The charge was made that the Osborne car was being recklessly driven at a very high rate of speed.

Funeral Today— Funeral services for Julia R. Hixon, who died Sunday at a local hospital, will be held today at 3:30 o'clock from the Rigdon chapel with interment in the Odd Fellows cemetery. She is survived by a brother, Leonard B. Hixon of Salem, and a sister, Mrs. Belle Price of Portland.

No Illness at Newport— Mrs. Carey F. Martin, daughter, Frances Mattie, and son, Carey F. Jr., who are spending the month of September at Newport, write that the weather by the ocean has been most delightful thus far this month. They have had only one day's rain and no wind. Mrs. Martin as well as Mrs. James McGilchrist received hasty inquiries from alarmed relatives in Salem when the report was published in a local paper that septic sore throat was common at Newport. Neither could find any foundation for the erroneous report. No cases could be found.

Will Live Here— Mr. and Mrs. J. Keith, of Clatskanie, are new Salem visitors who have "fallen" for the state capital blandishments and are preparing to make this place their home. They have been touring the middle west and the coast for a number of months, making very certain that when they do decide to settle, they've seen it all and know what they are getting. Salem has looked so good to them that they are ending their journey here, and are going to settle down for good. Mr. Keith is an electrical engineer and Mrs. Keith is an accountant.

Gregory of the Buttercup factory, says that these two days are about the best part of the whole year. Popping out of the nowhere into the here as they did, with no warning and with every fang and claw unfurled, they have simply driven the public "crazy with the heat" to get ice cream and cold stuff to cool off. The cream factories have been running night and day to keep as close as possible to supplying the market, with only reasonable success, for the demand was almost without precedent for so short notice.

Livesley Will Speak— The Kiwanis club luncheon today is to be addressed by T. A. Livesley on the subject of "Europe." Mr. Livesley spent three months in the war-land, returning to Salem less than a month ago, and he brings some of the very latest industrial and political "dope" from the lands of the frog-leg and the wooden shoe and the welenwurst and the mutton-

ASSEMBLY OF CHURCH ENDS

Conference Declared to Be Most Successful in History of State

The Oregon conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, that had been in session for six days, closed Monday noon after holding what is said to have been the greatest meeting of its kind in the history of the church in Oregon.

It was the largest in numbers by 25 members. It was attended by a larger proportion of its active members than most of the annual meetings. It was one of the most congenial and the best entertained since the first little gathering of seven deer-skin-clad ministers gathered in 1849, to represent the whole country west of the Rocky mountains.

Sunday Devotional Day. Sunday was entirely a devotional day, with mass meetings held at the armory in the morning and evening, at the First Methodist church in the early evening, and at all the city churches for the regular morning preaching hour of 11 o'clock. The conference love-feast was first in the day, at 9:30 at the armory, followed by a powerful sermon by Bishop W. O. Shepard. Every inch of seating and standing room was occupied, and hundreds were turned away. The church was again crowded in the evening, to hear Dr. J. M. Walters of Eugene in another striking sermon.

On Monday morning the final business session of the conference was held. A number of matters were taken up, the printing of the conference minutes, the reports of committees, the presentation of resolutions, the appointment of a number of special committees and individuals for the coming year, and the biggest personal thing of all the conference, the reading of the lists of appointments.

Changes Are Few. There is no change in any of the Salem pastorates, and in general, there have not been many changes. Bishop Shepard prefaced the reading of the list by saying that in some ways it had been an especially difficult task to make the assignments, there were so many who for themselves and for their families had needed or at least hoped for the big school town privileges—and there weren't enough of these to go around.

In some cases, he said, men who might wish these attractive positions for themselves or for their families were nevertheless the very men who were most needed out on the firing line of the frontier, and he had had to make the assignments on the basis of the good of the church, just as a general in time of war must send some men to the difficult, dangerous places and others might stay in barracks. The general tone of the conference, following the assignments, was that of cheerfulness even in the face of occasional disappointment.

Resolutions Passed. Several resolutions were presented and passed, relating to various subjects. One of them relates to the use of public funds for private or sectarian schools as follows: "Realizing the many attempts to secure public money for religious institutions, and above all the open demands made for state support of parochial schools, and the actual attempts for such schools in various states, we, the annual Oregon conference, request that the following resolution be passed, signed by the bishop and secretary, and forwarded to the senate and the house of representatives: "To the senate and the house of representatives of the United States of America, in congress assembled: "Be it resolved, that we, the Oregon Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, do hereby endorse the proposed constitutional amendment to prohibit sectarian appropriations and urge its immediate passage."

Laums Mill - Port Klamath section, The Dalles - California highway, grading and surfacing 19.1 miles.

Madras - Wasco county line section, Dalles - California highway, grading and surfacing, 9.37 miles grading and 15.64 miles, surfacing. Keno - Hayden Creek section, Ashland - Klamath Falls highway, 22.17 miles rock surfacing. Hayden Creek - Klamath Falls highway, 22.17 miles rock surfacing.

Hickman have taken in furthering the work of the conference. Denver Pastor Lauded. "We desire to express our appreciation of the stirring messages brought to us by the Rev. L. Oren M. Edwards, D. D., pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Denver, Colorado, on the subject of "The Good News of God." He has left with us a clearer understanding of the need of a comprehensive evangelism, personal in its application, which shall unite in one the finest scholarship with deep spiritual experience and evangelistic fervor."

First church of Portland will be host to the conference next year. Schools Are Opened at Woodburn and Hubbard. Two important Marion county schools opened Monday for business for the new year—at Woodburn and at Hubbard. A good enrollment is anticipated.

Several other schools open next week, some on September 25 and practically all the schools in the prairie country, beginning with Salem and covering almost the whole valley, will make their first bow on October 2.

Three Suspected Yeggs Taken to Oregon City. Dick Morgan, Ed Davis and John Augustine, three men believed to be yeggmans, who were picked up recently by Salem police with a quantity of jewelry in their possession, were yesterday taken into custody by Oregon City officers and taken to that city where they will answer to charges of burglarizing the Boland home. Jewelry that was found in their possession was identified in Salem by Mrs. Boland after Chief of Police Moffitt had, by a ruse, gotten information from the trio that they had entered the Oregon City home.

Morgan and Davis are men about 40 years old, while Augustine is a lad in his teens. He is a native of Argentina.
