

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Canning Did Not Escape—Officials of the state penitentiary call attention to an erroneous Oregon City dispatch that appeared in the newspapers yesterday to the effect that Edward Canning had escaped from the state prison. Canning is still safe behind the prison walls. Canning has made no attempt to escape and officials do not know how the report became current. There has been no escape from the state prison for more than a year.

Robert Boardman, was taken suddenly and unaccountably ill Tuesday, and in spite of all that medical and nursing skill could do, passed away Tuesday night at the Boardman home on South Thirteenth street. The infant seemed especially strong and hearty.

9 OPINIONS HANDED DOWN

Paternity Charge Dropped Against Paul Yates; Fix Guardians Fee

On ground that the state had no right to appeal to the supreme court in a case of the kind under consideration, and without otherwise passing on the case, the supreme court yesterday dismissed the appeal of the state of rel Belle C. Boreland, appellant, vs. Paul C. Yates. The plaintiff in the case alleged that the defendant Yates was the father of her child. In Judge Taxwell's court in Portland Yates was found not guilty, was discharged and his bail released. The trial as without jury. The opinion of the supreme court was written by Justice McCreight.

Winthrop Hammond, Portland merchant, will receive only $25,000 for his services as guardian of Thomas Prince, an incompetent person, according to an opinion of the supreme court yesterday, on Hammond's appeal of the case from Judge Taxwell's court. Hammond put in a claim for $100,000. The lower court allowed him a fourth of that and this judgment is upheld by the supreme court. He was appointed guardian January 3, 1918, and the guardianship was terminated by the death of the ward, 77 years old, February 3, 1920.

E. D. Johnson and Harry M. Johnson, appellants, vs. John J. Berns et al; appeal from Tillamook county; submitted on motion to dismiss; motion to dismiss denied in opinion by Justice Harris.

Petitions for rehearings denied in Walters vs. Waggoner; Bristol vs. Jennings; Stroug vs. Moore; Duly & Caul vs. Hicks. Motion to advance allowed by Troby Bros. vs. Ochoco Irrigation district. Stipulation entered to dismiss May vs. Berechid and United States Lumber and Box company vs. Chenoweth.

THINGS BUSY AT THE GREAT STORE

The People's Cash Store is Transformed and Immense Crowds Are Coming

The managers of the People's Cash Store did not stand upon the order of going to work, but went immediately to work making alterations and preparing for their larger business, as soon as they got possession of the corner store, formerly occupied by the Portland Cloak & Suit company.

The walls were broken through on all the floors, bringing the whole establishment into working connection, and allowing of rearrangements that are very beneficial to the buying public in the way of convenience.

New fixtures were put in; 25 people were added to the force of clerks and other employes.

A waiting room has been added for the use of the public, with a free telephone and other conveniences.

A large mezzanine floor has been added, housing a great stock of ready to wear goods and millinery for the ladies.

The men's department was enlarged, including clothing, shoes and furnishings.

Thousands of dollars worth of new merchandise has arrived from all the fashion centers and market places of the United States.

An Opening Sale
A great opening sale is being planned, to be announced in detail immediately; an event that will bring many people to Salem, and which will allow the thousands of visitors to the state fair to see Salem's greatest department store in full action; with great things accomplished in the past few weeks, and with still greater things in the making, for the good of this city and this section.

AMEND LICENSES OF OSTEOPATHS

Alteration Allows Performance of Operations and Dispensing of Drugs

I. H. Van Winkle, attorney general, has advised the state board of medical examiners in an opinion that the statute providing that the license of an osteopathic physician and surgeon shall not authorize the holder to prescribe or use drugs or to perform major or operative surgery, is modified by an amendment passed in 1917. The amendment provides that persons holding licenses to practice osteopathy in Oregon are authorized to perform major or operative surgery if that is embraced in subjects covered by examination of applicants for licenses.

The opinion further holds that the amendment of 1917 did not repeal the provision of the old law that the license of an osteopathic physician and surgeon shall not authorize its holder to prescribe or use drugs, except to the extent that the licensee is privileged to use anesthetics and antiseptics.

Postoffice Employees Making Use of Annex

While the postoffice has not yet been officially moved, the

YOU, TOO, MAY LEARN

If you are one of the many many otherwise interesting people who cannot play the piano there is really no excuse or reason for it.

Plan now to go up to Waterman's Piano School, Room 3 McCormack Bldg., over Millers, and I will promise you that positively within three months you can play not only for your own amusement but maybe "the life of the party" and play anything that any one may set before you. The method is remarkable in its simplicity and thoroughness. If I hadn't spent seven years and much money to learn to play before I heard of Waterman's, I should certainly take a Waterman course myself.—By a prominent Salem musician—name on request.

ral carriers are actually making use of the new addition. They had done much of their work upstairs, shooting themselves up through an almost vertical stairway. Now all they have to do is to walk into the new annex and sort out the mail.

The upstairs is being cut off and the floor sealed by the elimination of the inside working stairway. Fred Erickson, local contractor, was given this contract, along with two others, putting up concrete steps to the back door of the annex, and opening a new parcel post window into the mail public lobby. He is at work now, on the job; and the reorganized postoffice will soon be turned over to its owners, the public.

Thomas J. Williams, district agent for the internal revenue service has asked for the room upstairs recently vacated by the rural carriers. He has been occupying the special civil service examination room, which is used so frequently that he had almost a lease on it. It is expected that he will now have permanent quarters in the old postal room, and will have room to expand all that his department will stand.

START RIGHT

The untrained man or woman works long hours for uncertain wages and with little chance of bettering his or her conditions.

The trained man works pleasant hours for a good salary, with every prospect of advancement, according to his ability.

It is largely a matter of a right beginning. NOW is the time to secure a training that will lead you successful.

New classes in all subjects will be organized October 2nd, the Monday following the close of the Oregon State Fair. Let us tell you about these courses.
