JACK DAVIS IS FIERCE HITTER

Boy Who Boxes Billy Gardeau Rated Hardest Plugger on Pacific Coast

Billy Gardeau, the Boise boxer, is to be in Salem Monday to finish his training for the big boxing show Thursday night. He has been working steadily at Portland with some out-of-town battles on the side, and is in the best of condition.

Gardeau is a deceiving boxer, in that his well-aimed blows, that do not travel far, go straight to the vulnerable points, and he wastes little energy in wild swinging. The short-legged or short-armed man is out of luck in boxing Gardeau.

Davis is almost as tall, but

seems heavier built in the shoulders. He is rated as the hardest hitting welterweight on the coast. He is of the rushing, give-and-take type.

Bayer is working out steadily with Davis and Chick Rocco, who is to meet the Salem lad, will need all his fortitude and courage in their six-round match. The work against the long-armed, powerful Davis is putting a finish to the Bayer attack that the crowd is going to approve.

Crites and Webb should be here on Monday, or Tuesday at the latest, to finish their training. This eight-round event should be as pretty a contest as any one could wish to see. Except that Rocco is known to be an astonishingly durable battler, the Bayer-Rocco match might be expected to end with Bayer as the winner before six rounds. The main event stands a good chance to end in almost any round. The Davis heavy artillery, if it is well enough aimed, might put out any opponent.

Rumor says that Leslie Sparks will be named for this place.

G. A. R. Day at Fair Will Be September 29

FRIDAY, Sept. 29, has been named as G. A. R. day at the state fair. On that day all wearers of the Grand Army badges will be admitted free as the guests of the fair board and of the state. An assembly is to be held at the grounds at 2 o'clock, which is to be addressed by Comrade Stevens of Portland for Civil War veterans and by Col. Carlle Abrams, representing the Spanish-American and World war soldiers.

The drum corps of Portland, made up of veteran musicians of the Civil war will furnish the music. The fife and drum as military instruments have almost passed out of history, but these old men who once marched at the head of the million young men who made up the Union armies, are still on the job—and they certainly draw the crowds.

The G. A. R. has a delightful home on the grounds, built last year and dedicated to its use. All visiting comrades are urged to make this place their headquarters while attending the fair.
