GRAND
"The Prodigal Judge", A big special.

"Women Men Love," the big special six-reel picture which is showing at the Bligh theater starting today, brings William Desmond back to us in a role such as made him a front rank favorite in the old Triangle days. "Women Men Love" is the story of a man who loved his weak and beautiful wife so well that he went down to and finally brought her back to the throne.

Adolphe Jean Menzou was decorated by the Queen of Italy for his presentation of "Good Bye Bill," an all soldier musical comedy. It was at Cornell that he made his stage debut in a sketch for the benefit of the students. He started pictures as an extra in "The Man Behind the Door" in 1911 and has since supported Marguerite Clark, Norma Talmadge and Owen Moore. His most recent part is with Mabel Normand in her latest picture, "Head Over Heels," which comes to the LIBERTY theatre for two days, commencing Friday.

Jane Novak makes a heroine of the utmost charm in "Colleen of the Plings," her first R-C production.

tion, scheduled for exhibition at the LIBERTY theatre on Sunday. "Colleen of the Plings" is full of the keen, nerve-tingling action audiences like so well and has a full measure of heart interest as well. A superb cast supports Miss Novak.

Hirsutely speaking, Mitchell Lewis is an extremist. As "Beauregard," the French-Canadian trapper in Irvin Willat's production, "The Siren Call," which will be seen at the OREGON theatre Thursday, he wore shaggy hair and a thick stubby beard which almost covered his face. Immediately afterward he had to wear his hair extremely short for another picture.

Two hundred Los Angeles school children collected pas as "extras" in scenes shot recently at Metro's studios in Hollywood for the production of Irvin S. Cobb's "The Five Dollar Baby," in which Viola Dana is starring at the OREGON theatre. They were given their pay checks by Director Harry Beaumont at the conclusion of a studio dinner served by Miss Dana. When they lined up for pay Mr. Beaumont said:

"So you're the five-dollar babies!"

"No," said the first boy, receiving his money. "We're the seven-fifties."

$17,033 NEEDED BY ASSOCIATION

Y. M. C. A. Budget Decided Upon—Study Classes Are Adopted

The Salem Y. M. C. A. budget for the coming year calls for the expenditure of $17,033 in carrying on all the activities now in sight. Of this sum, about $12,000 is expected to come from memberships. The other is from more or less incidental sources of revenue, that fluctuate but always produce enough to be fairly calculable.

These figures were agreed upon at the board meeting Monday noon. They represented all the activities carried on last year, with some of the necessary expansion because of the growing numbers of members.

Wednesday night, the annual election is to occur. A modest dinner is to be served at 6 o'clock to which those who can give special attention to the coming campaign are especially invited. Following that comes the election to which all Y. M. C. A. members are eligible. Six directors are to be elected to succeed a like number retiring at this time because of the expiration of their elective terms.

General class work is to be organized Wednesday night in all the departments.

Three important study classes were voted at the Monday meeting to be started about the middle of October. These are a class in salesmanship, like the one that was such a success last spring with T. E. M. Crocker in charge; one in public speaking with the probability that the director at Portland, an outstanding instructor, will be secured for the work; and one in foremanship and production. A committee is going to Portland this week to see the public speaking director about an engagement here.

Two other classes are to be organized after these three are finished, one in advanced salesmanship practice, and one in own your own home development. All these courses will use the textbooks developed by the national Y. M. C. A. schools, that are now teaching more than 100,000 young men all over America.

CLOVERDALE

CLOVERDALE, Or., Sept. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Hulen are again leaving this neighborhood. They have rented their farm here and next week will move to their farm near Aumsville.

John McKinney met with quite a serious accident recently. While driving some sheep along the paved road towards Aumsville his horse slipped on the wet pavement and fell. Mr. McKinney's arm and leg were broken in the fall. He was taken to his home in Salem.

George Mason made a business trip to Salem Thursday. Everett Wood and his mother, Mrs. F. A. Wood and Mrs. Helen Butzky visited the state fair Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hulen accompanied some Turner friends in a motor trip to Forest Grove last Saturday afternoon, returning home Sunday.

Ex-Service Man Will Visit Home in England

DALLAS, Or., Oct. 2.—(Special to The Statesman.)—A. E. Long, former service man who was in the World war in Europe as a member of Uncle Sam's forces, will leave soon for his old home in Gosherton, England, for an extended visit at the home of his parents. Mr. Long has been employed on the M. A. Lynch ranch near McCoy and was in Dallas this week making the necessary applications to County Clerk Floyd D. Moore for a passport.

Big Horst Ranch is Made Refuge for Oregon Game

DALLAS, Or., Oct. 2.—(Special to The Statesman.)—The large hop ranch of E. Clemens Horst, comprising nearly 1000 acres, has been made a game refuge for a period of five years beginning immediately. Polk county already has a number of such reserves, and more are likely to follow the action of the Horst people.

DANCER AND POET LET IN

Isadora Duncan and Serge Yessenin Detained By Federal Officers

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press) Isadora Duncan and her exuberant young poet husband Serge Yessenin were permitted to land in the United States today after the department of justice had detained them 24 hours to learn whether the dancer, who arrived from Moscow yesterday, was a courier for the Russian soviet government.

Isadora was in a bad humor tonight and she didn't reveal much happiness over finally being allowed to enter this country.

"They held me because I came from Moscow," she said. "What did they ask me? Oh, they wanted to know if I was a classical dancer. I told them I didn't know, because my dancing is personal. They wanted to know what I looked like when I danced. How did I know? I never saw myself dance."

It was officially stated that broadly speaking the department of justice detained the dancer because of her long residence in Russia and gossip had connected her with the soviet government and because it was suspected that she might be a courier for the soviet on her ostensible dancing tour of this country.

Day Fretful One
It was a fretful day for Isadora. She was kept so busy and nagged so much she complained that she didn't have a bit of nourishment all day except one cup of coffee at breakfast time. First she said, immigration authorities hauled her around the pier and bothered her with questions about her luggage. Then she was rushed to Ellis island with her husband and the inquiry consumed most of the afternoon. Her New York lawyer, Nathan S. Goldberg, and her American manager, S. Hunok waited all day in ignorance. They complained that no one would tell them what charge, if any, had been filed against the dancer. They loafed around the Ellis island corridors all afternoon, watching the immigrants, the sparrows on the lawn and the status of Liberty.

Good News Spread
After a long wait Isadora and her smiling young husband, who is 10 years her junior, walked out of the inquiry chambers and spread the good news. Isadora was petulant and hungry. The roses she carried were drooping and dying and her bobbed henna locks needed brushing. On her feet were bizarre Russian boots and her gown, trimmed with white lamba wool, was a stunning thing of black and red and grey stripes over an orange bodice.

She had very little to say, but young Serge, who looks quite like an American and much less than his 28 years was laughing and chatting and having lots of fun swapping some of his knowledge of French and Russian for American slang.

Dancer is Bored
They sat upon the upper deck of the Ellis island ferry—Isadora and Serge—on the way back to Manhattan and their hotel. Isadora gave one bored glance at the famous sky-line softened by the haze of twilight and turned her head. But Serge gave it his attention. He said it was great, the most beautiful city he had ever seen. He even threatened to write a poem about it.

HERBERT HOOVER KEEPING WATCH

He Is In Touch With the Condition of Dr. H. J. Minthorn, Very Ill

The Portland Journal says Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, is keeping close watch over the condition of his benefactor, Dr. H. J. Minthorn, who is near death at the Portland sanitarium. "One of the physicians attending Dr. Minthorn stated that he received a message from Hoover Wednesday, asking that he be advised instantly of any change in the condition of the patient," says the Journal.

REDUCE YOUR FAT WITHOUT DIETING

Years ago the formula for fat reduction was "diet"—"exercise." Today it is "Take Marmola Prescription Tablets." Friends tell friends—these friends tell others. eration several days ago, and although he appeared at first to be recovering, a relapse set in and he is not expected to live. A sister of Dr. Minthorn's first wife was Hoover's mother, and when Hoover's parents died, Dr. Minthorn took charge of the boy. Herbert Hoover, when he was a school boy, lived for several years at the home of Dr. Minthorn in Salem—in Highland addition, near the Highland church. He was also with the Minthorn family when the doctor was superintendent of the Salem Indian school, when it was first moved here from Forest Grove, in the late eighties.

GOING TO NEW ORLEANS

DALLAS, Or., Oct. 2.—(Special to The Statesman.)—R. S. Krasnon of this city who was elected a delegate to the National American Legion convention at New Orleans at the state meeting at The Dalles will leave this week for that city. Mr. Krasnon expects to visit other places of interest while in the south and may make a visit to his old home in New York. "Shufflin'" Phil Douglas, who has been barred from professional baseball for offering to quit the New York team if the proper amount of money was paid him, no doubt is in favor of "high wine" and beer. Drink has been the cause of his downfall.
