SEALS SHUT OUT ANGEL CLUBMEN

Double-Header Taken from Vernon, Giving Frisco Big Lead

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—McWeeny held Los Angeles to five hits and handed the Angels a shutout. San Francisco winning 2 to 0. Lyons' wild throw to first in the opening frame of Kelly's easy boundary started things for the Seals. O'Connell's single sent Kelly to third and he scored on Elliott's single. See's ground-out scored O'Connell. The Seals scored again in the fifth.

Oakland 1-11; Vernon 0-8
OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 5.—Oakland took a double header from Vernon here today, 1 to 0 and 11 to 8. The first game proved a hard fought battle, with the breaks in the Oaks' favor. In the second both teams staged a slug-fest, knocking out two pitchers each. Schneider knocked two homers over the left field fence.

FIGHT TO TIE IS RESULT YESTERDAY

the fourth when Ward lashed a home run over the fence above the left field bleachers. And finally, with Bob Shawkey getting better and better so that the Giants could not even threaten to score, they had seen the Yanks tie the game in the eighth inning on two-base blows from the bats of Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel, brother of the homerun hero of the first inning. Nor were the innings that brought the scores the only ones of high endeavor.

Thrill Are Felt
Several times the crowd had the fine thrill of watching an infielder hurt himself at a hard hit ball, be knocked to the ground by the force of it and then jump up and throw out the batsman at first base. The experience came three times to Frankie Frisch, the fast second baseman for the Giants. Another time he went far back of second base and pulled down a drive from Everett Scott's bat with his bare hand. It bowled him over but he came up with his grip still on the ball.

Once Heinie Groh, the Giants' third baseman, leaped after a ball and caught it while sliding in the dirt. This may have saved the Giants from defeat for a moment later, through an error by Bancroft and single off Pipp's bat the Yanks scored a run.

The game was a pitchers' battle between Jess Barnes, the tall

Giant right hander, who twice defeated the Yanks during the 1921 world series, and Shawkey, one of the star Yankee veterans. Shawkey after the second inning, improved steadily and the Giants made but three hits off his service in the last eight innings.

Barnes in Trouble
Barnes, spotted to a three-run lead before he even walked to the box, was often in trouble. But with perfect support at all times he would have won, as the Yanks earned but two of their runs while the Giants cleanly hammered all three of their guns across the plate. Both Groh and Frisch had got on base with singles before Meusel's home run sent them across the plate.

It would have been a heart-breaking game for either Shawkey or Barnes to lose. Each was found for eight hits, although four off Barnes went for extra bases; each issued two passes and the detailed pitching analysis reveals that Shawkey pitched 146 balls while Barnes threw only one more to the plate.

Shawkey Gets Better
But Shawkey, hit hard in the first inning when the Giants scored all their runs on Meusel's homer and wobbled for the next two innings, steadied up and was practically invincible for the remaining seven innings. A double play, Scott to Ward, Ward to Pipp, killed off a Giant rally in the second after Stengel and Snyder started with singles. Cunningham, running for Stengel, who retired because of a Charley horse was left on third when Bancroft flied out.

Shawkey passed Groh and Young in the third but fanned Kelly for the final out.

Thereafter for seven innings only four Giants reached first, three on hits and but one of them got as far as third base.

Frisch beat out a bunt in the fifth, stole second with the aid of a wild pitch and got to the far corner on another wild pitch, but Scott grabbed Irish Meusel's smash and threw him out to end the inning. Only three batters faced Shawkey in each of the last four innings and the Giants' last faint chance to win went glimmering in the 10th when Bancroft was thrown out at second trying to stretch his hit to center.

Barnes Gets From Under
Barnes, on the other hand, pulled himself out of several bad holes by his skillful change of pace. Mixing his tantalizing slow ball with a curve that cut the corners sharply, he choked off several budding rallies, whiffing Ward in the sixth and Dugan in the ninth with a man on second each time.

Jess was hit harder than Shaw-key toward the end of the game. But except for the fourth, when Ward knocked his home run, and a brace of doubles by Ruth and Bob Meusel in the eighth that tied the score, he held his rivals in check.

Barnes pulled himself together in the sixth after apparently losing control. He issued three straight balls to Pipp forcing Ward to fly out, walked Meusel and fanned Ward on a called strike after the count had reached two and three.

Yanks Are Threatening
The Yanks threatened in the ninth, but again Barnes rose to the emergency. Scott singled, after Ward fanned, but was forced by Shawkey. Witt then singled to left and the Yank hopes were high until Dugan fanned with the count two and two. The Giants made a strong threat in the 10th when Bancroft drove to center field. Witt grabbed the ball on the first bounce and with a fine throw, caught Bancroft as he tried to make two bases on the hit. Then the Yanks went out, one, two, three and the umpires called off the fight.

It was just the day for a pitcher's battle, hot and sultry as mid-summer. Almost every rooter in the bleachers peeled off his coat and so did the fans in the upper grandstands. But those in the more select seats down below kept their coats on.

Receipts Break Record
The crowd was bigger than any day during the 1921 series, and the money paid to sit in on today's game—$120,554—was the highest sum ever deposited into baseball's coffers for one game.

It was the third crowd that has seen a tie in the world series games. The first was in 1907, when the Chicago Nationals and Detroit Americans quit fighting after 12 innings had produced a 3-3 deadlock in the first game of the series. In 1912 the Giants and the Boston Americans played their second clash to a 6-6 tie in 11 innings.

Both Shawkey and Barnes took their time this afternoon and the game dragged along for two hours and 41 minutes. Shawkey massaged the ball with great care before every pitch and Barnes' lazy floater reminded one of the slow motion pictures. It was the best thing he had. Shawkey relied on a curve that broke beautifully after the third inning.

Ruth Gets Double
Barnes tried exceedingly hard to fool Babe Ruth with his slow ball. For a time he succeeded, but in the eighth inning the Babe choked his bat, and when Jess eased one of his slow ones toward the plate, the famous home run slugger hooked it to left field for two bases. Pipp's long fly to center field permitted him to reach third, from where he scored when Bob Meusel slapped a two-bagger, flying close to the turf in center field.

Ruth attempted to steal home, just before scoring on Meusel's hit in the eighth. He dashed in and appeared to have succeeded in his daring attempt until Meusel fouled the pitch against the right field stand.

Has Spectacular Day
Ruth and Frisch stood out among their team mates in all around work. The "Fordham flash" was the only Giant to knock out two hits. On the defense he had another spectacular day, robbing Scott twice of hits, once in the second on a great diving stop of the shortstop's smash toward right field and again in the fourth when he nailed a fly in short center after a hard run, rolling over after the catch.

Details of the pitching analysis show that Barnes pitched 57 balls and 37 strikes while Shawkey twirled 50 balls and 32 strikes. Twenty-two foul strikes were knocked off Shawkey's delivery and 12 off the Giant.

The Yank outfield gathered in seven flies to but three for the Giants while 17 infield outs were credited to the Yanks and 21 to the Giants.

Battle Spirit Wins
Battle spirit, the like of which was displayed in today's tied world series game between the Giants and Yanks, is what keeps baseball at the top of national sports, is the belief of McGraw and Huggins, the rival managers. "It was battle spirit," said McGraw, "that caused Bob Shawkey to grit his teeth and pitch great baseball after that first inning, when my boys scored three times. And it was the same sort of spirit that led Frankie Frisch in front of a number of hard hit balls that ordinarily would have gone for hits."

Frisch Praised
"Jesse Barnes was working wonderfully. He had a great variety of curves and slow balls. He's a top notch pitcher. He's got the fighting spirit in him too. Only two of the Yank's three runs were earned off him. I am sure that Frisch's work on the defensive was the outstanding supporting feature and nipped what might have been Yank rallies."

"Some of the spirit of determination that carried us to the pennant brought us through to a tie today," said Huggins. "In Shawkey's pitching after the first inning and the work of his supporters, I could see some of the doggedness that helped us to defeat the Browns in that series in St. Louis. I saw, also the determined attitude of my men as they went to the plate."

Little Coaching Needed
"There wasn't any need, hardly to tell them what to do. They knew they had to hit and that they had to make every hit count. Barnes was an enigma. He mixed his offerings, I think, as Mathewson would have done. The Yanks were picking the good ones, however, and I'll vow that but for the untimely stops made by Frisch we would have defeated him."

Hoyt or Mays will pitch for the Yankees and Scott or McQuillan for the Giants in tomorrow's contest, it was said tonight at the headquarters of the clubs.

Nationals Even up in Chicago Championship

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The Chicago Nationals evened up the series for the city championship with their American league rivals today by winning 10 to 3. It was the first the Nationals had won since 1915, the junior organization having won 13 straight games.

Eddie Mulligan, hero of yesterday's game, had an erratic day and the White Sox defense cracked after the clubs had battled on even terms, the American leaguers coming from behind and tying the count. After Mulligan's slips the Cubs drove Ted Blankenship from the box in the seventh inning, after which Manager Gleason tried out a couple of his young pitchers. Osborne was hit hard in only two innings and pitched great ball in the others.

Benton's Pitching Wins For St. Paul Champions

BALTIMORE, Oct. 5.—Mainly because of some wonderful pitching by Rube Benton, former big league southpaw, the St. Paul Braves evened up the series with Baltimore by capturing the second game this afternoon 2 to 1.

Parker & Banfield filed suit for $4000 damages against the lumber company which was not granted. The defense claimed that the false work of the bridge was not sufficiently strong to have stood the spring freshet even without the logs in the stream.
