The Columbia Grafonolas

The One Incomparable Musical Instrument

The Columbia Grafonola—perfect, unapproached, unapproachable, "The One Incomparable Instrument of Music"—is the final expression and evidence of Columbia's propriety, prestige, and leadership. It sums up all that has been done so far by human inventiveness to stimulate the sounds and harmonies of Nature; it combines in one magnificent whole every means of musical expression given by art to the human race.

The questions of tone and tone-control, the technical problems of sound-reproduction are so superbly solved in the Columbia Grafonola that comparison can leave no doubt of its supreme fitness for the place of honor among all musical instruments. In beauty of tone, in clearness and resonance, and in appearance it is certain to be equally gratifying. It will be an ornament to your home, a source of daily enjoyment to your family, a delight to your friends.

The Columbia Grafonola is the realization of the dream of two decades—the possibility of making hearers forget the presence of the instrument—a possibility that has made the Columbia laboratories the scene of unceasing experiments until the dream became the accomplished fact of today.

Transparent Purity of Tone. In listening to the Columbia Grafonola there is no consciousness of anything between the hearer and the artist. The beautiful instrument seems to fade and vanish, giving place to a thrilling scene of reality that grips and entralls the hearer.

It is the glorious unfolding of life itself through the medium of a tone so exquisitely pure, so transparent and crystal-clear that no fleeting beauty of interpretation of illusive shading of a theme is lost when transmitted by "The One Incomparable Musical Instrument."

Superb Flexibility of Tone. No refinement that can contribute to its artistic perfection or completeness is missing in the Columbia Grafonola. Its tone volume and tone quality may be adapted with utmost precision to the acoustic needs of every room and the artistic demands of every taste, by means of many styles of needles and the exclusive system of tone-control found in no other instrument.

Mechanical and Technical Perfection. The reproducer, diaphragm, tone-arm and tone-chamber are designed to provide a continuous and ever-expanding passage for the sound-waves set in motion by the vibrating needle-arm, uninterrupted by so much as a screw, and scientifically correct in principle and design.

The motor is a marvel of smoothness and silence, turning the record with a regularity of speed that holds the tone absolutely true to pitch without the slightest tremor and the automatic record file and ejector which stores, cleans, and ejects records at the touch of a numbered button makes the Columbia Grafonola supreme in convenience as well as in musical qualities.

The natural advantage of priority, the prestige and power of leadership, and the commanding position of the Columbia Grafonola Company enabled it to produce an instrument without a peer in the qualities of technique, tone and convenience; the instrument accepted by musicians the world over as the standard and the first in judgment of experts at six world's fairs and expositions.

If the verdict of the world counts for anything, the Columbia Grafonola occupies a place held by no other musical instrument in the history of civilization.
