HIGH MARK SET FOR PRUNE PACK

Oregon Growers Put up Huge Amount on Monday of This Week

A new high mark for efficiency in prune packing was established at the Oregon Growers' plant in Salem Monday. The concern processed and packed into boxes 122,000 pounds of prunes, or 61 tons, for the one day. This would

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream—adv.

be the whole product for two or three good average Oregon prune orchards. The record is above the ordinary, but even with occasional spurts like this it is expected the packing season will last up until about December.

The prunes are packed in various sized boxes. Those on Monday were in 2 1/2-pound or 12 1/2 kilogram boxes for European export, and 50-pound boxes for American distribution. One man, C. A. Tucker, handles all the prunes for the weighing. The boxes are put together upstairs, and the prunes themselves are also steam-processed on the second floor of the plant. It takes only about one minute for the box to be put together, shot down the chute to the women who put in the paper lining, slide over to the packing machine, loaded, weighed, run through the presser, nailed up and the labels pasted on ready for export. A box goes through a dozen hands in that strenuous minute.

After the big rush, which lasts on through October and most of November, the plant may have time to put up a few thousand 10-pound and 5-pound wooden boxes of fine fruit for the holiday trade. A box of sweet Oregon prunes is considered an inviting Christmas gift. The Oregon Growers are packing a million pounds of prunes in small sized paper cartons at their Forest Grove plant; two-pound and five-pound and 8-pound sizes.

The last of the Growers' evaporated loganberries were packed out a few days ago from the Salem plant. The whole warehouse is now being devoted to prunes.

"Did you really call this gentleman an old fool last night?" asked the judge.

The prisoner tried hard to collect his thoughts. "Well, the more I look at him, the more likely it seems that I did," he replied.—Lawyer and Baker.
