LIBERTY TOMORROW

Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven in "My Lady Friends."

GRAND TODAY

Harold Lloyd in "A Sailor Made Man."

LIBERTY
Clara Kimball Young, in "The Hands of Nara."
OREGON
Matinee only—"Sonny," Evening performance, Milton Sills in "Burning Sands."
BLIGH
Vaudeville and Robert Warwick in "Mizoura."
GRAND
Harold Lloyd in "A Sailor Made Man" and Elaine Hammerstein in "Under Oath."

At one time in his career as the foremost American playwright Augustus Thomas made a resolution to write a play around every state in the Union. "Arizona" and "Colorado" fell from his prolific pen, but he saved the major part of his effort for "In Mizoura," which, with the late Nat Godwin in the stellar role, scored a striking success on Broadway and later on the road. This drama has been adapted to the screen for Paramount by Beulah Marie Dix. At the Bligh theatre today, with Major Robert Warwick as the star, Elisen Percy in the leading lady, and Hugh Ford was the director.

Glady's Walton has added a newcomer to her menagerie of pets. His name is "Pinky" and he played a prominent part in his mistress' latest Universal starring vehicle, "Top O' the Morning," to be shown at the Bligh theatre next Sunday and Monday.

While on location, the farmer's wife at whose house scenes for "Top O' the Morning" were being shot, presented "Pinky" to Miss Walton as a token of her love and admiration for the little Universal star.

Unlucky for the newcomer, he doesn't quite come under the classification of household pets for "Pinky" is a pig and he is kept in fine "stille" on a neighboring farm. While "Pinky" stands high in Miss Walton's favor, "pigs is pigs" and as such have to be kept in their place.

The Grand theatre will offer a two feature bill today. Harold Lloyd in "A Sailor Made Man" and Elaine Hammerstein in "Under Oath." The latter picture is a dramatic subject, Miss Hammerstein's first attempt in a real emotional part and all the critics were loud in their praises of her work in this feature. Mahlon Hamilton has the lead, and Hamilton always registers strong. Harold Lloyd will convulse the Grand audiences again in his part of "The Gog." "A Sailor Made Man" is one of the best things Harold ever did and any body who does not want to laugh and laugh heartily had better stay away from the Grand. These two big pictures for the price of one will be shown Saturday and Sunday.

After finishing "My Lady Friends," in which Carter De Haven is starred, and which will be shown at the Liberty theatre on Sunday, Lloyd Ingraham, director of the production, hurried to his Santa Barbara ranch. Ingraham was particularly anxious to see the wild goat which won first prize recently at Santa Barbara livestock show. The manager of Ingraham's ranch wrote Lloyd weekly reports telling of the daily increase of butting power acquired by the goat, and Lloyd went down to investigate for himself.

Monroe Salisbury is well known to screen fans as a portrayal of virile roles. Things happen in his pictures, as those who saw him in "The Savage," "The Millionaire Pirate," "Hugon. The Mighty," "The Light of Victory," "The Barbarian," and "The Sleeping Lion" will remember. And now as "Silent" Duval in "The Great Alone," Salisbury has the biggest of all his great roles. He comes to the Liberty Tuesday.

Clara Kimball Young, whose latest picture, "The Hands of Nara," is now at the Liberty theatre, has the distinction of being the first star to form her own producing company. She was also a member of the first organized motion picture company, and the first moving picture actress to have her name in electric lights on Broadway, at the Criterion theatre. Since that time she has been the star in a number of photodramas, most recent of which were "Eyes of Youth," "The Forbidden Woman," and "The Soul of Rafael."

Talk about the power of concentration! In the midst of the bright lights and jazz music, surrounded by the dancing girls and wild life of a cosmopolitan cafe in the Paramount studio, sat Milton Sills, reading and quite absorbed in—a catalogue of garden seeds! Mr. Sills is noted for his interest in floriculture. He plays the featured masculine role in "Burning Sands," a new Paramount production of George Melford which comes to the Oregon theatre tonight. Wanda Hawley has a strong role in this photoplay.

Thomas Meighan denies the theory that big families are becoming scarce—especially in Boston.

"I was playing in Boston in "The Family," he says, "and the management advertised that the largest family in Boston would be given a free box. That next night there were dozens of families consisting of parents and eighteen or twenty children. The management had to give one performance to the families contesting for the free boxes. They were so numerous as to fill the entire theatre."

Mr. Meighan plays a featured role in "Manslaughter," Cecil B. DeMille's latest production for Paramount, which will be the attraction at the Oregon theatre next Saturday. Leatrice Joy and Lois Wilson have the principal feminine roles.

SERIOUS BLADDER TROUBLE
"Could not stand nor sit, and was forced to cry out from intense pain," writes Henry Williams, Tarkio, Montana. "The doctors said I had inflammation of the bladder and an operation was necessary. Tried Foley's Kidney Pills and was relieved at once. Tell all my friends about Foley Kidney Pills as it will save many from suffering and perhaps, as in my case, a dangerous operation." Bladder and kidney trouble demands prompt treatment. Foley Kidney Pills give quick relief. Sold everywhere.—adv.

Shortage of Cement is Cause of Delay in Work

DALLAS, Ore., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Statesman)—The concrete sidewalk improvements in Dallas this year have been seriously hampered by the cement shortage which has struck the state and J. D. Gordon the contractor, will hardly have time before bad weather to finish the amount of work outlined by the city council. Mr. Gordon has been unable to secure cement for several weeks and as a large number of walks yet remain to be laid and the wet weather coming on he will hardly have time to complete the job in the time limit set by the council. During the past few days however, he has received some cement and if he should be unable to complete the job this year the council will grant him an extension of time until next spring.

Warren's Second Trial Will Be Held in January

DALLAS, Ore., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Statesman)—The trial of Philip Warren, Grande Ronde Indian, for the murder of Glen O. Price at the town of New Grande Ronde on the night of September 2 has been definitely set for the January, 1923 term of Polk county circuit court. Warren was acquitted by a jury last week for the murder of Grover C. Todd, one of the members of the prohibition enforcement forces and as the jury panel for the year was exhausted the case was laid over until the next term of court.

Pearl Trevathan Brings Suit for Separation

DALLAS, Ore., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Statesman)—Through her attorney Glen O. Holman of this city, Pearl Trevathan has brought suit for divorce against her husband Clarence E. Trevathan. In her complaint the plaintiff alleges that the defendant deserted her 16 months ago and that she is unaware of his whereabouts. The couple were married in Bloomfield, Mo., December 17, 1916, and have one child. This child is now in the custody of the mother and she asks the court for its permanent custody.

WILL GO TO TILLAMOOK

DALLAS, Ore., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Statesman)—A. M. Matlock who has operated a sawmill west of this city near Ellendale for a number of years past will close out his stock of lumber and business and will leave about the first of the new year for Tillamook county where he will look into the lumber and milling business.

STIFF SENTENCES GIVEN AT DALLAS

Heavy Fines and Long Jail Terms Imposed Upon Prohibition Violators

DALLAS, Ore., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Statesman)—Sam Gibson and Lester Keeney, two farmers of the Falls City neighborhood, who were arrested by Sheriff Orr in a raid on their home Monday, were given stiff sentences when tried before Justice of the Peace Ed. F. Coad. Tuesday afternoon, Gibson was fined $300 and given four months in the county jail and Keeney was given a $200 fine and four months in jail.

While no still was found on the premises of the men who were jointly operating a farm in the neighborhood, a large quantity of materials for making liquor, including four barrels of mash, 40 pounds each of dried raisins and dried peaches, besides bottles, jugs and other materials was found and upon this evidence Judge Coad based his opinion that the men were engaged in the manufacture of liquor and meted out the sentences.

On the following day Paul Lunde also of Falls City, who was arrested Sunday on a moonshine charge, was given the most severe sentence yet given a violator of the prohibition laws in this county. On one charge of selling intoxicating liquor he was given a fine of $100 and 30 days in the county jail and on a charge of manufacturing liquor he drew a fine of $400 and a jail sentence of five months. Ralph Thrasher who was arrested at the time Lunde was taken into custody and in whose house the complete still alleged to be the property of Lunde was found was found guilty and was fined $100 with three months in jail added.

"I hear that you have given up singing to the prisoners?"

"Yes. They complained that it wasn't in the penal code."—Stockholm Kasper.
