The commission awarded to John Hampshire, subject to approval by the county and the federal roads bureau, a contract for the grading and macadamizing of the highway from Hayden creek to Kemo, a distance of 12 miles, in Klamath county.

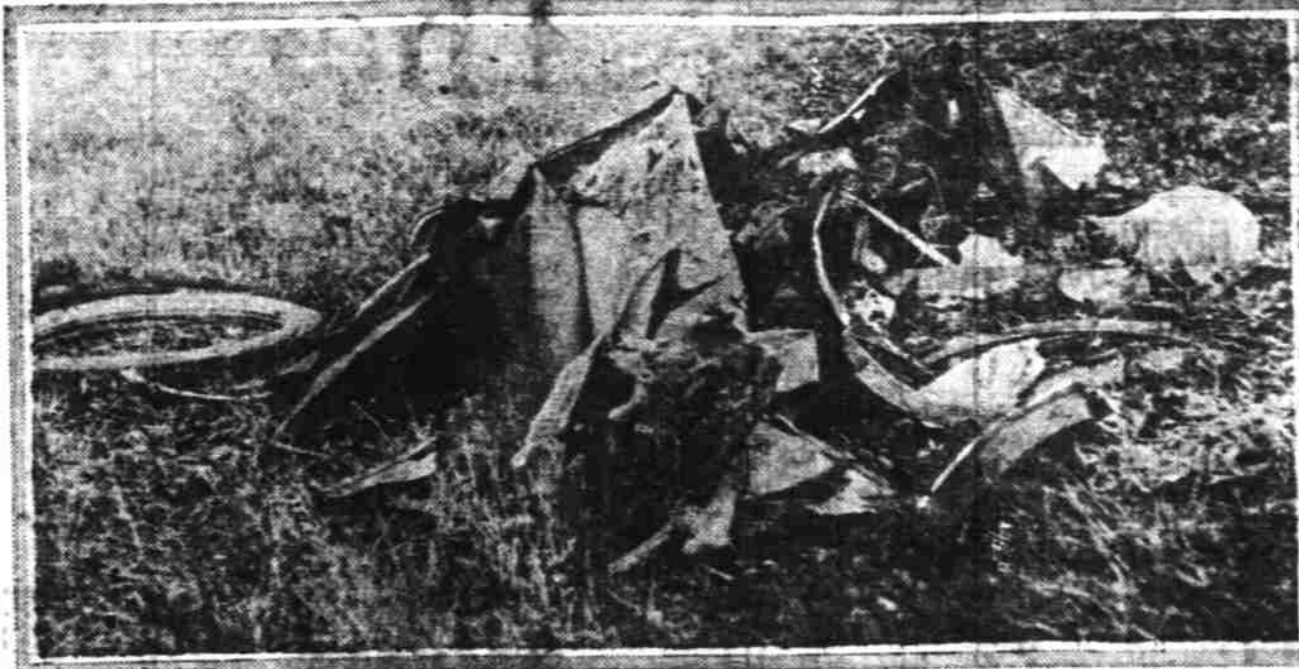

Baker Delegation Comes Upon representations received from a Baker county delegation representing the Baker Chamber of Commerce, the commission instructed Highway Engineer Herbert Nunn to make a survey and estimate of cost covering the moving of the location of the Old Oregon trail between Telocasset and North Powder to make it go around the reservoir site of the Thief River irrigation project.

AUTO STALLS ON TRACKS—MOTHER AND CHILDREN KILLED.

In spite of the frantic efforts of her husband to push a big seven passenger auto which stalled on the railroad tracks in Valpraiso, Ind., Mrs. Harriet Hargot and her six children were killed instantly when a passenger train swooped down upon them. meeting in Portland were rejected.

An action of considerable importance was instruction to the engineer to enforce penalties against contractors who fail to complete their projects within the time limit of their contracts, with due allowance for unavoidable delays.

The commission made arrangements for a conference at the meeting of November 21 to consider whether telephone and telegraph franchises and power lines shall be allowed on the state highway system.

Chairman Booth recommended favorably on a petition of Douglas county to place on the forest map of the state the section of road between Scottsburg and Gardiner. This was referred to the chairman for a report and his recommendation will go before the next meeting.

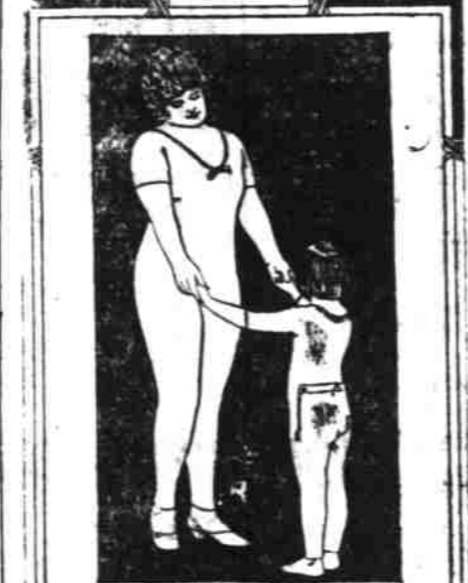

EDITORIALS OF THE PEOPLE

Apology Due Mr. Pierce Editor Statesman:—

In Justice to Walter M. Pierce, Democratic candidate for governor, an apology should be made by the papers and politicians of Oregon that have circulated the report that Mr. Pierce had secured loans from the state school fund, through questionable methods.

The statements of these newspapers and politicians are that, in borrowing $25,000 on different tracts of land, he so depleted the state school fund that other farmers in need of loans were deprived of the privilege of borrowing.

To show the injustice of the charges made, an investigation of the records in the state house show that in the year 1903, when Mr. Pierce borrowed this money, there was, in the irreducible school fund, subject to loan, just as the loans were made to Mr. Pierce the sum of $602,000. This does not look as if any persons desiring a state loan were deprived of any rights, does it? The records also show that during the period that Mr. Pierce had the use of this money upon which he was paying the state 6 per cent, there was from $100,000 to $1,000,000 in this fund each and every year.

As to the "fraud" suggested by Mr. Pierce's political enemies in connection with these loans, the following telegram from Hon. Geo. E. Chamberlain, governor of Oregon in 1903, is sufficient to set all doubts at rest. The message is dated Washington, D. C., Oct. 19, and sent to T. H. Crawford, Portland, Ore., campaign manager for Mr. Pierce:

"Dunbar, Moore and I constituted the board to loan irreducible school funds in 1903. It was arranged to loan Pierce and four or five relatives and friends $5000 each on valuable tract of land if title to it was in these parties individually, and each made application for $5000, provided security ample and the loans were recommended by the local agent of board in the county where the land lay. This was afterwards done and the security was ample, title approved and loans recommended by the local agent. There was nothing fraudulent about it. Two Republicans and one Democrat, constituting the board, made and approved these loans.

"At that particular time we were anxious to keep irreducible school fund invested to realize as much as possible for the children of the state and the security in this case was so ample that there was no hesitation on the part of the board to approve the loans.

"My recollection is that it was quite difficult at that time to keep the money of the fund revolving, and this loan seemed so amply secured that the board did not hesitate.

"You will find the board did not at that time insist upon payment of any loans at maturity but was glad to let them run as long as the borrower, who were usually farmers, wanted the money and continued to pay interest. This course saved the expenses of reappraisal, re-examination of title and expenses usually incident to affecting new loans.

"This statement is sent in justice to Pierce. I think you will find that all interest payments were promptly made and the principal paid in due course and that Pierce acted with perfect fairness to the board and the state."

It is quite apparent that Ex-Governor Chamberlain's explanation of this matter is sufficient to convince any man who wishes to know the truth, that this whole transaction was absolutely above suspicion.
