Patient Escapes—Richard W. Maas, 35 years old, weighing 220 pounds, dark and handsome though dressed in working clothes, escaped from the state hospital for the insane Saturday. Because of his physical strength and a dislike for certain relatives the hospital authorities are anxious to apprehend the fugitive. He was committed from Multnomah county, October 25, 1921, and the police in Portland and also his relatives have been notified of his escape. Maas has shown no dangerous tendencies as a patient at the hospital. Prior to his commitment he was a baggage man in the railway service and is said to have been a highly capable employe. He became insane while serving on a United States transport during the war.

Halloween Food—Sale pumpkin pies at Stiff's by War Mothers.—adv.

Names Jumbled—An interesting case of mistaken identity was filed in the circuit court Monday, in which E. C. Bushnell asks to have his name substituted for that of D. W. Bushnell as plaintiff in a property settlement, and also asks that J. W. McFarlane be substituted for W. A. McFarlane as defendant. It looks like the Hibernianism where two Irishmen met and each hailed the other by the name he thought belonged to him—and then they found it was neither of them. The suit is to settle an estate.

Bible Class Not To Meet—Mrs. C. A. Park, because of illness will be unable to take charge of her Bible class this afternoon, it was reported yesterday.

Has Good Record—Here is a record for some ambitious boy or girl to shoot at: Marcel Blaco, a seventh grade pupil in the Cloverdale school, near Turner, is just starting in for his eighth year in school—he says frankly that he took two years to conquer the first grade—and in all that time he has not once been either tardy or absent. He does not say, boastfully, that he could have done even better than that if he had tried; he lets it go as it looks. If there is any other record as good in Marion county, it's still a good record.

How to Make Coffee

A coffee manufacturer who takes pride in turning out a perfect article is in a way unfortunate, inasmuch as he has no control over the final step in manufacture, the making of the coffee in the home. The very finest coffee, unless it is made correctly, will not produce a beverage that is worthy of the effort put forth by the manufacturer, and the money expended by the purchaser. It is, however, a matter of great satisfaction to a manufacturer priding himself on the quality of his product, that the public is today becoming aware of this fact and is devoting more care to coffee making.

It has been definitely determined that the best way to prepare coffee is by the French Drip Method. This is where boiling water is poured over the coffee and drips into another receptacle. All restaurant urns are made on this principle. A good French Drip Pot can usually be obtained in any store carrying kitchen utensils, but if your dealer cannot supply one, we will arrange to fill your order.

Although this is the best way, very good coffee can be prepared by the following method, using a heaping tablespoon of coffee to each cup of water.

Into an ordinary coffee pot or sauce pan, measure the desired amount of ground coffee and add water; bring to a boil, stir thoroughly, then take from the fire. It is most important to do this, for continued boiling causes the flavor or aroma to escape and leaves a drink that is bitter and unsatisfactory. A dash of cold water added at the time the water is removed from the fire will help to settle the grounds.

One-Family School Now Possesses New Organ

There is rejoicing in the Independence school, district No. 43, near Stayton. They have an organ!

The school has been attended by six pupils, all from the Toepfer family. There are other people living there, but they didn't happen to have children of school age. The Toepfers are musical, and there is no school that is more delighted with music, but they haven't had an instrument to give them a proper start.

Not very long ago, they held a basket supper in the school district, and raised a little money for an organ or piano.

The sum was slender but they came to Salem Monday, and found an organ that their money would cover—and it was only one-figure money at that. A practical Christian woman sold them a really fine instrument, worth several times
