New Members Attend Luncheon—McNary Talks on Market Prospects

Apples, apples everywhere, and not a drop to drink except coffee and water, was the program for the Chamber of Commerce luncheon, Monday. Delicious apples, the compliments of the Roth Grocery company, were part of the bill of fare. Other important parts were roast pork and apple sauce, mashed potatoes and gravy, squash, pumpkin pie, cheese, rolls coffee and splendid chrysanthemums from the Breithaupt greenhouses.

The Chamber of Commerce now has 700 members. Many of them are paper and financial members only and didn't come in to the Harvest Home dinner. It was about a 10 per cent attendance. The new members of whom 208 have been secured in the drive begun a week ago, were there on paper in the reports of the canvassers.

Col. Henry E. Morris' army of money scouts won a sweeping victory in the race for memberships. They brought in more than 150 of the new members, and were still going strong. When it was reported to them Monday morning that the count was still short of the 200 that had been set as the goal, the Morris army gathered in a dozen more. Colonel Morris publicly thanked his financial sojers, especially Mrs. Gertrude J. M. Page, who credited much of the success to her two associates, Mrs. Winnie Pettyjohn and August Huckestein. These three canvassers brought in 30 new members, the star team of the campaign.

Robert McNary of the Oregon Growers talked interestingly on the apple business as an Oregon industry. He stated that the eastern apple crop this year is exceptionally good, while the western crop is not quite up to standard, having a 25 per cent decrease. The shortage of cars and the railroad strike early in the season gave the western growers a fierce jolt that they haven't gotten over. The car shortage is still a handicap. Apples that should go into ventilated refrigerator cars, are being shipped in plain box cars to get them to market.

Mr. McNary called attention to Governor Olcott's statement on Apple day, as a helpful move towards popularizing apples. He said that there are 4,000,000 boxes of apples to ship from Oregon this year, with poorer grades being generally sold at home because they do not pay to ship, and they give the home people a chance to buy and eat apples at a low price. There is a woeful shortage of storage facilities in the state, that is doing the apple business very little good.

L. J. Chapin, chairman of the county Y.M.C.A., told something of the work of the association, and of the annual convention at Stayton Friday night, Nov. 3.

Hal F. Wiggins, traffic secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, told some of the points at issue in the fight between the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific for the control of the Central Pacific as a connecting link in transcontinental traffic. The situation has mystified many of the ablest political students, and Salem rather frankly doesn't understand it.

Dr. Morris spoiled a delightful little secret when he said that a new $250,000 plant is almost ready to announce its engagement to Miss Salem, but he wouldn't tell the lucky person's name.

HEAD HUNTERS IS SUCCESSFUL

Light Opera by C. E. Wilson Wins High Approval Among Corvallis Folk

"The Hindoo Head Hunters," a tuneful light opera written and directed by C. E. Wilson, for several years a newspaperman of Salem, was presented at Corvallis, Friday and Saturday nights, under the auspices of the Women's club of that city. Speaking of the performance, the Corvallis Gazette Times says, in part:

"A crowd that filled the majestic theatre last night enjoyed to the limit the two-hour comic opera, 'Hindoo Head Hunters,' put on by home talent under the direction of C. E. Wilson, Salem author and composer, and under the auspices of the Woman's club, which is staging the two performances as a library benefit.

"The music of the opera proved to be as tuneful as had been heralded, the costuming was even more colorful than any could possibly have anticipated, the comedy lines were genuine wholesome fun with a lot of good punch, the vocalists were equal to the demands upon them, and the longest wait between curtains—usually the failure of most home talents—was seven minutes, so that as a whole the production moved along joyously to a delightful success.

"The Hindoo Head Hunters" has all these things, in a fine measure. From the preliminary fanfare to the pattering of the last hottentot foot as he dances deliriously off stage for the wedding feast of hot dog and yams it's all there in a musical way. What the Corvallis paper says of this its first appearance for more than 10 years is the truth, it's a genuine riot of good music, pretty girls, everything that there is in opera.

C. E. Wilson, the composer and director, wrote the piece 20 years ago, when he was a mere lad, and he staged it with notable success in a number of places. Then he poked it back into the trunk, and devoted himself to newspaper work. During the past year, however, he has revived the piece, and now plans to make music his serious business. The piece may be put on here in Salem, where a few competent music critics have heard it and are anxious to have it given to the public.

eral laws of Oregon for 1921, known as the state bonus law, and to take charge of and conduct such investigations and proceedings."

The meeting of the commission at which the action was taken was attended by all members except the governor. The resolution adopted at that time follows:

"Whereas a preliminary investigation has been conducted by and on behalf of this commission into the transactions of the former appraisers for this commission in Deschutes county, and other persons, in connection with loans and applications therefor in said county, under the provisions of chapter 201, laws of 1921, and such information has been obtained and furnished to this commission, that based thereon the commission is convinced and believes that fraud has been perpetrated and crimes committed by such persons in connection with such applications and loans, and the commission is further informed and believes from such investigation that, owing to local conditions in said county, the local authorities would be handicapped and to a large extent hindered and prevented in the prosecution of such crimes.

"Now therefore, be it resolved that the governor of the state of Oregon be and he is hereby requested to direct the attorney general of the state of Oregon to take charge of the investigation and prosecution of such crimes as have been committed in connection with the foregoing matters; the expense necessary to be incurred by the attorney general, other than such as is required to be paid by the county, in conducting such investigations and prosecutions, to be paid from the funds provided for the administration of the bonus law."

methodical in conduct of her affairs. Papers relating to her Chautauqua work in Illinois, Iowa, and Nebraska, last summer were neatly filed, and other papers were in perfect order. No communications from Mr. Christler to Mrs. Carleton were found, beyond the one message which already had been found in her bag.

Outrage, Says Judge

"Characterization of the investigation of the double killing as an 'outrage,' was made by Judge Carleton in a telegram to Mrs. Pyle, made public by her tonight. The wire read:

"The attempt to whitewash this great bishop of all outdoors is dastardly. The statement that their relation was that of minister and parishioner is a damnable outrage."

Affection for Wife Shown

Another telegram informed Mrs. Pyle that he had just returned to Los Angeles from a business trip in the Imperial valley, Cal., and added:

"Have been trying all day to make arrangements to come but not able to. Regret I am unable to be with you in this hour of our mutual sorrow."

A telegram from Judge Carleton to his wife, dated October 22, was couched in terms of deepest affection and expressed the hope that they soon would be together in Los Angeles. A frequent expression in his letters to Mrs. Carleton was "kiss Catherine for daddy."

Money Trouble Apparent

Catherine, Mrs. Carleton's 13-year-old daughter, is at Mrs. Pyle's home in Butte. In many of his letters Judge Carleton speaks of money trouble.
