Dainty Foods Make or Mar Tea Hour; Suggestions Given

"One taste invites another"—that is, if it is good! If something good is served with the informal afternoon tea the success of the occasion is greatly added to.

Sandwiches with fillings that surprise and are different are nice to serve. Fruit Lovit sandwiches are unusually good. To make them cut fine one half a cup of raisins, one half cup of cooked dried prunes, one half cup of figs, one half cup of either walnuts or peanuts, one teaspoon of lemon extract. Mix these well together and fill sandwiches.

Ginger, fig, and quince jelly sandwiches are also dainty and appropriate to serve. To make ginger sandwiches cut prepared gelatin in very thin slices and put between well buttered bread. In making fig filling for sandwiches remove the stems and chop figs finely. Cook in a double boiler until a paste is formed, then add a few drops of lemon juice. Cool and before filling sandwiches sprinkle with finely chopped peanuts. Quince jelly sandwiches are very easily made. Fill the sandwich with quince jelly and then sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Slices for these sandwiches should be cut as finely as possible, and the crusts removed. They may be cut into any shape desired—square, triangular, oblong, or cut with fancy bread cutters. If butter is used it is better to cream it well before spreading the sandwich.

Biscuit sandwiches made with a filling that is a surprise are a good accompaniment for tea. Roll ordinary biscuit paste very thin and cut with a small cutter. Put two biscuits together, using a seeded date as a filling. Bake in a hot oven. These may be served either as sandwiches or may be opened and buttered. Almost any other kind of fruit may be used in place of the date if desired.

Cinnamon toast is delicious served with tea. The toast is made in the usual way, but just before it is done butter it well and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Let it brown nicely and serve. Many prefer cinnamon toast instead of wafers or sandwiches for afternoon refreshments.

Wafers, however, often prove desirable for the occasion. Orange sticks are very good and may be made by cutting plain pie paste, rolled about one eighth an inch thick, into strips four inches long by one inch wide. Put two strips together, using marmalade as a filling. Bake in a quick oven. Coconut tea cakes may be made by cutting about one fourth an inch thick, and shaping with a lady finger cutter. When nearly done baking remove from the oven and brush with the beaten white of an egg and sprinkle with coconut. Put back in oven and finish baking.

Tea may be made to look delicious and dainty by garnishing it with either slices of orange or lemon. Mint leaves are nice if the flavor is liked. Canned fruits, preserves, a bit of candied ginger, lemon or orange drops, give the tea a very delicious flavor and also make it look more interesting.

Noted Domestic Science Director Changes Positions

Mrs. Helen Harrington Downing has resigned as director of the department of Food Economics of Armour & Company, Chicago, however, has not lost Mrs. Downing who is nationally known as one of the leading domestic science experts of the country. She has moved from the big Armour establishment to take charge of the home economics department of the Calumet Baking Powder company.

Mrs. Downing's new position will afford her a broader field as the Calumet company has initiated a domestic science campaign, for the benefit of American housewives, that practically will touch every home in the United States.

As a lecturer on dietetics, cooking and domestic science, Mrs. Downing has appeared before many important Women's Clubs in the United States. She brings a prestige and wide experience to her new duties.

CORN SHOW BIG EVENT OF SEASON

For more. What could a whole raft of common statesmen and economists and bankers do in such a job, compared with one good Willamette valley cook who could lead the hungry millions to the corn pone table.

Potato Exhibit Added
A wonderful potato display is seen at the show, with 59 exhibits of half-bushel displays. This is a larger number than was shown at the state fair, or at the Pacific International. The potatoes are of exceptional quality as well as number. One of the fine exhibits was by Harley Wilson & Sons of Sheridan, three separate showings of each of four kinds. The Wilson boys, George, Alfred and Woodrow, aged 13, 11 and 10 years, have achieved almost a national reputation as potato growers. They have cleaned up at state and county fairs in wholesale numbers, and George has been for two years a state guest at O. A. C. summer school, for his prize winners. There are many other exhibitors at the Independence show, however, who have produced some potatoes that make it look like a statewide or even a national event.

Floral Display Beautiful
Grains and grasses in sheaf decorate the walls of the corn show building. Some of the grains stand seven feet tall. The showing of chrysanthemums from the greenhouses of the Independence Floral company, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Butt proprietors, was as fine as anything ever made in the valley. Single flowers measuring 10 inches in diameter were shown that grew in their new greenhouses that were built in June, 1922. Mr. and Mrs. Butt are both graduates of O. A. C., where they learned the science of developing the best in plant life. It would be worth any one's while to drive to Independence and see this remarkable show. The Independence people are being invited to make a large exhibit at the Salem corn show the second week in December.

Muscle Last Night
A concert marked the Friday evening show, put on by the Independence high school orchestra and led by Miss Elizabeth Levy of Salem. It was very largely attended. All the entertainments are free to all comers, it being a real harvest home festival devoid of anything looking like commercialism.

Prof. C. C. Smith of the farm crops department at Oregon Agricultural college, is judging the exhibits and awards probably will be made known today.

Lecturers on agriculture insist that the American hog is a work of art. Another glimpse of the Baconian theory.

Development of Power Is Urged by Mr. Teal

FENDLETON, Ore., Nov. 17.—Development of power on the Columbia and Snake rivers for itself and for the purpose of assisting irrigation and making streams open to transportation were urged here today by J. N. Teal of Portland in his speech before the open river conference.

Possibilities of the basins of the two rivers were graphically painted by the speaker when the two streams are harnessed. The O-W-R & N., alone used 400,000 tons of coal annually at an approximate cost of $4,888,000. Delegations from the big cities in Oregon and Washington were present at the meeting. A. H. Devers of Portland called the convention to order and presided.

It now appears that Mathilde McCormick will not marry the Swiss riding master, at least not until she is of age. Her mother opposes the union, although the father seems to be anxious to have the matter over with. In any event, the Turks have crowded the McCormicks off the first pages of the newspapers.

EXHAUSTED FROM GRIPPE COUGH

La grippe coughs rack and tear the sufferer to a state of exhaustion. "Would get completely exhausted from violent grippe coughs," writes R. G. Collins, Barnegat, N. J. "Tried Foley's Honey and Tar and the cough ceased entirely." Used by three generations for coughs, colds and croup, throat, chest and bronchial irritation. Foley's Honey and Tar has stood the test of time. Contains no opiates—ingredients printed on the wrapper. Largest selling cough medicine in the world. Sold everywhere.—Adv.
