CHARRED BODIES NOT YET IDENTIFIED, 12 SERIOUSLY INJURED

COVINGTON, Ga., Nov. 28.—Three children were burned to death, two are reported dying, 30 more received painful burns, and are now under care of physicians and others had narrow escapes from a fire that destroyed the High Point school about seven miles south of here today.

Twelve of the children on the injured list, physicians say, are suffering from broken bones and internal injuries, but will recover. Practically all of the children are under 10 years of age.

The charred bodies of three children have been removed from the burned building, but as yet have not been identified. They appeared to be less than 8 years of age. The injured are being cared for in homes and some are being prepared to be sent to Atlanta hospitals.

12 Still Missing

School officials stated tonight that two of the dead bodies recovered are believed to be the children of J. J. Steele and Charles Bachelor. Both Mr. Steele and Mr. Bachelor have reported that two more of their children are missing. The authorities also have a list of six boys and six girls who were missing at a late hour tonight. A careful check of those on the injured list was being made at midnight in hopes of reducing the missing list.

Many Jump to Safety

Mrs. Oscar Grant, who had charge of the pupils on the upper floor of the school was so severely burned in directing the escape of the children that fears are expressed for her life.

When it was discovered that the fire had cut off their only means of safe exit, Mrs. Grant gathered the children about windows and directed a number of them in jumping to safety. She then jumped through the flames and was seriously burned.

VITAGRAPH CO. BRINGS SUIT FOR 6 MILLION

Famous Players-Lasky Are Charged With Conspiracy to Control Motion Picture Industry.

ALLEGED "KEY HOUSES" UNFAIRLY MANAGED

Concerns Profits Said Cut from $750,000 Yearly To $106,490

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The Vitagraph company of America today began suit for $6,000,000 in the United States district court against the Famous Players-Lasky corporation and a dozen individuals charged a conspiracy to control the motion picture industry of the nation.

The action was begun under the section of the Sherman law which provides for the assessment of triple damages when interstate commerce is impeded.

Completion Restricted

The Vitagraph company alleges that since 1919 the defendants have interfered with the business of competing producers and distributors.

The complaint describes the stages between the filming of a picture and its final exhibition in the 14,000 leading theatres of the United States and Canada. All of these theatres the complaint states, are divided into three classes—first run, second run and third run theatres. In each large city, the complaint avers, there are what are known as "key theatres" exhibition in which is essential to the success of a picture.

Profits Cut Down

The Vitagraph company charges that the defendants, through control of a large proportion of these "key" theatres, caused the profits to decrease from a previous average of $750,000 yearly to $106,490 in 1921. The capital of the Vitagraph company is put at $2,176,000.

CLEMENCEAU BEGS U. S. TO HELP FRANCE

French Statesman Declares That Extinction Faces His Country Unless Quick Aid Is Given.

GERMANS SAID TO BE HIDING GUNS

Chicago Audience Told That Teutons Teach Hatred in Schoolhouses

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Standing with outspread arms before an audience that packed the auditorium, Georges Clemenceau today pleaded with America to save France from possible extinction.

Patiently seeking to explain away the charges of militarism and imperialism brought against his country, the old Tiger declared that France sought only peace, but that war was being forced upon her.

Must Have Aid

"If France does not get the help that she needs," he declared, in emotion-laden tones, "she may perhaps disappear. Athens was a democracy, very great and very fine. But she disappeared. And if France were to disappear I believe that some day the people would begin to look around and ask if something had not disappeared that had brought life to the world."

Must First Be War

The aged premier's audience hung on his every word, interrupting him twice to drive him behind a device which would carry his weak voice through the big house. He was interrupted by frequent outbursts of applause.

Clemenceau took for his text the epitaph that he read last week on Grant's tomb in New York—"Let us have peace."

"Since the world has been," he continued "it has always been the feeling in every man's heart that he wanted peace. But General Grant, when he spoke those famous words knew very well that before there could be peace there must be war."

Must Convince Others

"It is a great pity that war is so cruel; that it brings with it bloodshed and things we hardly dare think of now. Nevertheless that was a really beautiful and inspiring time when men were ready to give their lives for a great cause; when they were ready to die for a world—a world which represented the finest and most exquisite part of human heart and thought.

"But that is done. The war is over. Peace has arisen. It is now our mission to reason with and convince others. We must approach autocratic power in some way or other and convince them that power that it should get behind our cause."

Germans Still Menace

Asserting France had been continually called militarists and imperialists, the Tiger declared he had determined to give some official figures to show why France felt that she must maintain a large army—at least until she could obtain guarantees of her safety from the United States and Great Britain.

He repeated first the figures he had previously given concerning France's war losses in killed and wounded and in devastation of her homes, factories and mines. Then he plunged into the subject of arms and munitions, which he declared had been hidden away in Germany for the next war.

"I have said, on very good authority—and in this I have been criticised—that almost every

HALL MURDER DRAMA CLOSES

Grand Jury Announces No Indictment Can be Returned—Widow Pleased

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—"For reasons which seem to them sufficient and controlling the grand jury took no action in the Hall-Mills murder case and laid the matter over. This does not mean necessarily that the matter cannot be taken up again by this or a subsequent grand jury."

Drama Mysterious

With these words Forman Gibbs of the Somerset county grand jury late today made known the fact that no indictment had been returned in one of the most mystifying murder dramas that has faced the country in many years.

Outside the jury room some one else was awaiting the decision. It was Mrs. Frances Noel Hall, the rector's widow, who had rushed to the court house this morning in the hope of appearing before the grand jury and he had not been granted access.

She received the decision as she has received all other developments in this case—stochally with sea a trace of emotion.

's, Hall Gratified

Attorney Pfeiffer, representing Mrs. Hall, would make no statement at the courthouse but later at the Hall home in New Brunswick he said:

"Mrs. Hall is gratified at the grand jury decision. I suppose the officials will continue the work and I most certainly hope they do."

State troopers and detectives tonight had received no orders. Belief was expressed that tomorrow they would be instructed as to whether they were to push the inquiry further.

Sister of Professor's First Wife Keeps Reporters Mystified

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 28.—The attitude of silence maintained by Mr. and Mrs. John P. Tiernan since the arrival here of Mrs. Tiernan's sister, Mrs. Frances Pulaski of Chicago, was continued today. The announcement Sunday by Tiernan that he would withdraw his divorce complaint and that the appeal in the paternity case would be officially dropped has not been carried out. His legal marital status, according to Indiana laws at the present time is just the same as before his cross complaint for divorce was heard—that he is the legal husband of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, and fighting her complaint for divorce by a counter complaint.

BOGE POISONED SELF, BELIEF

Police Locate Drugstore Where Stuff Was Purchased—Inquest Uncertain

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Dependancy because of ill health was assigned by the police today as the motive for Vaden E. Boge, 22, of Hillsboro, Ore., committing suicide by taking poison here yesterday in his room at a fashionable hotel.

Was Despondent

Mrs. Ida Lingenfelter, who is a distant relative of the dead man, told the police that Boge arrived here November 23 from Portland and came to live with her while he looked for work. She had never seen him before that time, she said, although her daughter Nadeen, 17 years old, had corresponded with him for more than a year. Both Mrs. Lingenfelter and her daughter told the police that the correspondence was wholly of a friendly nature. Boge had appeared despondent since his arrival, they said, and they believed he had recently been ill. Boge wrote a long letter last Sunday to his mother, Mrs. Edward Boge of Hillsboro, Mrs. Lingenfelter told the police.

Declared Suicide

The attempt of Boge to add an element of mystery of his death by registering at the hotel for himself and wife and later ordering lunch for two served in his room, was cleared up today when the police located the drug store at which the dead man purchased the poison. From the druggist's description of the purchase and a comparison of Boge's signature on the hotel register with that on the druggist's sales record, the police declared their belief that the case was one of suicide.

It was undecided late today whether an inquest would be held.

State Real Estate Law Is Held Constitutional

Constitutionality of state laws improving licenses on real estate brokers is fully established by the United States supreme court in an opinion that has just been issued, according to information received by C. V. Johnson, manager of the state real estate department in the state insurance commissioner's office.

At the legislative session of 1921 the state of Tennessee enacted a law similar to the Oregon statute. It was assailed by the broker in the federal district court, which held it was not constitutional. The state appealed it to the United States supreme court, however, which holds it constitutional. The opinion was written by Justice McKenna.

BANDITS KILL 2 POLICEMEN

Authorities Shoot One in Capture, Catch 2 Others, 1 Still at Large

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—From the recesses of a stolen automobile four bandits early this morning shot two Columbus policemen, killing one of them.

Tonight, one of the four bandits had been shot dead, two had been captured following gun fights with police forces and one was still at large.

2 Dead, 2 Injured

The dead are:

Patrolman Granison P. Koehler of the Columbus police force.

A bandit, known to his pals only as "BILL."

The injured are:

Police Corporal Roscoe C. Friddle, of the Columbus force.

James Martin, 35, one of the bandits, who attempted suicide when about to be captured by a posse.

The dead bandit was found in his gang's abandoned automobile this morning near West Jefferson, 15 miles west of Columbus. He evidently had been struck by bullets fired by Corporal Friddle as the police officer lay injured on a sidewalk emptying two revolvers after the bandit's fleeing car.

One Still at Large

Two of the bandits, Martin and "Loomie" Cummins, were captured this evening following a gun battle in the woods near Lilly Chapel, about twenty miles southwest of Columbus. The fourth member of the bandit gang, described by Cummins as being Edward Lewis, a noted postoffice robber, was still at large. Cummins told police that Lewis was a member of the gang who had shot the two policemen.

Scene Dramatic

When a posse of Columbus police officers closed in on Martin, he dramatically pointed a revolver at his head and fired in an attempt at suicide. Physicians said that Martin and Corporal Friddle will live. Reports were received tonight that the fourth bandit had been captured by the posse, but at a late hour he had not been brought to police headquarters.

Scores of Columbus and Springfield police and deputized citizens were scouring the woods and hills southwest of Columbus tonight for the one missing bandit.

INSTITUTE TO CLOSE TODAY

Variety of Program Arouses Extreme Interest in Session of Teachers

The second day of the Marion county teachers' institute showed an interest and a variety of program that has made the session a delight to most of the teachers attending.

It is not asserted that everybody is alike interested in all the same things at the same time. One charming lady educator has a Western Stories magazine thriller which she reads at opportune moments when her neighbors don't joggle her elbow by their handclapping, and a W of the institute fails to be a perfect vacation it will be because the magazine is printed in too large type and won't last it through. But everybody is interested and interesting in some way, and it's the biggest and best institute in the history of Marion county.

Program Closely Followed

The regular program as previously announced, was carried through Tuesday, with separate diversions, both forenoon and afternoon, for the presentation of departmental work. Some remarkably fine presentations were made of applied teaching methods. One of the most effective in the whole institute was the oral English class of high school students, under the direction of Miss Hazel Brown of the Salem schools, who gave a sample class lesson that opened many a teacher's eyes. The students themselves are the critics of themselves, in whatever any one may say as a critic recitation and the class is said to be making exceptional progress in English work. Other excellent specialized teaching methods were shown by other teachers who have been placed on the program.

Dependent Child Studied

Mrs. Ada Wallace Unruh of Portland gave a talk on "The Problem of the Dependent Child" that was especially well received. She showed that of the 2400 children that pass through Judge Kanzler's courts of domestic relations in Portland every year, fully one-half are not in the least delinquent, but are the victims of marital or social or financial poverty. The speaker "got a hand" when she said that the way to train these children was "not to take them to any form of paternalistic hospital-home-school institution to mix their ideas of allegiance, but to some form of a home, large or small, that turns their education over to the public school as the only safe place to teach 100 per cent Americanism."

New History Presented

Dr. H. D. Sheldon of Oregon university spoke on "The New History and the Teacher," outlining the various forms that history has taken since written or spoken speech began. He classified history into seven forms: natural history, literary history like Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," or Motley's "Rise of the Dutch Republic," economic history and cultural history, in the chronological order of their development.

The speaker urged the importance of making the study of history broad and fair enough to see the intermingling of the classifications. The historians that are concerned only with the arguments of economic loss sight of
