BIG MATCHES PLAYED TODAY

Oregon-Washington Scrap—Multnomah and Olympic to Draw Big Crowds

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Thanksgiving Day football games in Seattle and Pasadena tomorrow bring the Pacific conference's 1922 gridiron season to a close. In the Seattle contest, which will decide the Northwest conference title the closely matched Oregon and Washington teams will meet, while in the south the University of Southern California will play Washington State.

The champion University of California closed its season last Saturday, bringing to a close three years in which the bears were not defeated. Although they will lose eight stars next year, it is said that Coach Andy Smith has his 1923 team ready now.

An Oregon win tomorrow would give the Eugene team a tie for first place in the conference race with the Bears, but it is probable that there is not an unbiased football expert in the west who would not say California has the better team.

Two east-west post-season games remain on the western schedule. In one, Stanford plays Pittsburgh at Stanford December 30, and in the other Penn State will meet a team to be named by the conference at Pasadena New Year's day. These two eastern teams will meet at Pittsburgh tomorrow.

Portland Game Good

In addition to the conference battles, several other games of importance are on tomorrow's program. At Portland the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club of that city meets the Olympic club of San Francisco in a return engagement. In the first game between these teams this year the Californians won 20 to 0. At Berkeley a bitter fight is scheduled between Santa Clara at St. Mary's, two traditional rivals who are meeting for the first time after a ten years' break. In the northwest conference, Idaho plays Montana at Missoula.

NEW BLUE SKY LAW URGED BY HANDLEY

should be simplified as regards the certification of the articles by the officials of sister states.

Oregon Stands Alone

"Our present law requires a different certification from that of any other state in the union. As a matter of comity and reciprocity, as well as public policy, it should be made to correspond as nearly as possible with the uniform rules adopted by other states. I know of some instances where this unusual requirement has kept foreign corporations from entering our state to carry on legitimate business."

Another recommendation of the report is a simplification of the law applying to incorporation of religious, charitable, fraternal and literary corporations. It is said to be as difficult to organize such corporations or to dissolve their organization as it is a large commercial corporation.

Bootlegger Stop Needed

"The law should also contain a provision," says the report, "to prevent as far as possible the formation of corporations for the carrying on gambling, bootlegging or other unlawful business under the guise of a religious, charitable or social club or association."

The business of the corporation department has been increasing steadily, says the report. During the fiscal year 1922 domestic corporations filed articles and 72 foreign corporations qualified to do business in Oregon, making a total of 10,339 live domestic and 825 live foreign corporations of record June 30, 1922.

Receipts Are Large

Gross receipts of the department for the fiscal year were $224,719.95, an increase over last year of $24,103.82. Cost of administration of the department, it is said, was less than the preceding year, resulting in a net revenue to the state of over $300,000.

"For the first time since its enactment," the report says, "the blue sky law has been self-sustaining. The total fees in this division exceeded cost of operation $2343.26, while in the preceding year the cost exceeded receipts by $3726.79, and in years previous to that the cost to the state was much greater."

Statistics Given

During the year the department acted upon 252 applications under the blue sky law, of which the following disposition was made:

Stockbrokers applications denied or dismissed, 6; issuers applications denied or dismissed, 29, aggregating $8,000,000; applications pending at close of year, 12; permits issued, 205, aggregating $18,523,162.

The total number of stockbrokers' permits cancelled during the year was 18 and the number of issuers permits cancelled was 218, involving $21,992,490. There were 311 permits in force at the close of the year, authorizing the sale of $35,086,456 of securities. A total of 28 stockbrokers permits were in effect.

Suspected Concerns Ousted

"In addition to the above," continues the report, "the commission has considered informally and summarily denied or dismissed schemes for the flotation of approximately $10,000,000 of 'securities' involving nearly everything from stock in patent processes for extracting gold from sea water to certificates of interest in Carranza land grants and Eskimo coal mines."

Relative to other accomplishments the report says: "We have outlawed the common law trust company or syndicate. This plan of organization is designed and generally calculated to escape corporate and personal liability and evade the provisions of contractual and statutory laws.

Three Per Cent Loan Rejected

"We rejected the so-called 3 per cent loan company plan that has since proved so disastrous in other states. These concerns generally are nothing more nor less than lotteries, and for this and other reasons we rejected the first application. Since then it has been judicially outlawed in some other states.

Sargent Plan Out

"The so-called Sargent plan of financial and stock manipulation has been virtually forced out of operation in Oregon. In taking over the office I found this plan in vogue and several companies operating under it. In fact it was recognized in the several blue sky states. We have, however, consistently refused to countenance it, in all of which I have been sustained by the attorney general. This is a plan whereby the promoters would organize a corporation with nominal assets and a very large capitalization divided into common and preferred stock of the large corporation to the public.

Oil Companies Eliminated

"We have driven from the state one of the largest, most powerful and influential and perfectly organized high pressure stock-selling concerns in America. Other blue sky states are now following our example.

"A number of attempts by the so-called chain store organizations have been frustrated.

CORNELL CLAIM TO BE TESTED

Grilling Football Game Expected Today Between Traditional Rivals

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Cornell's claim to eastern championship football honors will undergo the stiffest test it has had all season tomorrow when the big Red machine clashes with Pennsylvania in the annual Thanksgiving day game between these traditional rivals on Franklin field, Philadelphia.

The Ithacans, strong defensively and with a formidable running attack led by Captain Eddie Kaw, will enter the contest decided favorites.

In other outstanding holiday games Pittsburgh is favored to take the measure of its ancient rival Penn State; West Virginia's unbeaten eleven is conceded an even chance of victory against Washington and Jefferson which has lost two games in a row to Pitt and Detroit; while Colgate hopes to score decisively over Columbia.

Vermont's strong eleven will figure in an inter-sectional struggle at Detroit with Detroit University, which a week ago upset the dopes by conquering W. and J. 20 to 9.

Silverton Legioners Will Play Basketball

SILVERTON, Ore., Nov. 27.—(Special to The Statesman)—The Silverton American Legion post is lining up its men for the basketball team which it is prophesied will be a winner. Mark Latham, former University of Oregon center, will play forward for the local team, with Frank Alm as the other. Harry Carson and Otto Alm, both formerly on the Silverton high school and Legion teams will play guard, while Hermon Quall, formerly with the Olympics and Peninsula teams of Portland, will play center.

Battling Siki Takes Hand in French Politics

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Battling Siki, the Senegalese light heavyweight champion, recently disqualified by the French boxing federation, visited the chamber of deputies this afternoon and talked with the negro deputy from Senegal, M. Diagne.

M. Diagne has proposed an amendment reducing the physical education appropriation by 300,000 francs so that no subventions can be given to sport associations whose directors call the right to use arbitrary powers against certain individuals who are legitimate holders of championships.

Aggie Football Practice to Go Without Halting

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 29.—(Special to The Statesman)—Although the collegiate football season has ended, the Aggies will continue to work out once a week until football opens next fall. It is the plan of Rutherford to have the Aggie backfield work one night and the line another, until they have perfected a football machine.

The Aggies feel fortunate in retaining experienced material for next season, as only three of the first string men graduate—Ed Clarke, McFadden and "Huskie" McKenna.

The new system will not affect basketball practice, which is now in full swing, but is designed to keep the men in better condition and to perfect a real machine before next season opens.

DEBS WELL AGAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Eugene V. Debs, Socialist leader, who has been in a sanitarium here for several weeks, announced today that he had fully recovered his health and departed for his home at Terre Haute.

"Foreign oil stock-selling corporations have been practically eliminated."

Violations of the blue sky law, the report says, have been vigorously prosecuted in every instance where evidence was available. A number of convictions have been secured and other cases are now awaiting trial.

Savings and Loan Firms

At the close of the fiscal year, says the report, 13 savings and loan associations were engaged in business in the state, 11 being domestic and two foreign. The 13 have an authorized capital stock of $120,200,000, an increase of approximately 16 per cent. These associations have 57,870 members, of whom 21,588 are residents of Oregon. All of the associations now doing business in the state are in good standing.

Willamette River Again To Be Channel of Trade

The "Beautiful Willamette" is to be once more a busy channel of trade, with traffic carried on its broad and swelling bosom. A new company has bought the old river steamer, the Oregon, and is preparing to re-christen it the Salem and put it back on the river for continuous traffic.

The boat is to be a cooperative venture, with the captain, the mate, the purser and the pilot all owning stock in the boat. The vessel is of 150 tons capacity, not quite like the proverbial Missouri river craft of such light draught that they would run on a good heavy dew, but it is believed they will find enough water for a year-round service. It will go to Portland Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, returning the following days, and making Sunday trips from Salem to Corvallis. Captain Sanborn, the skipper, used to pilot boats on the river in 1872. For a number of years just past he has served on the Yukon in Alaska.

MRS. SCHURTZ IS CONVICTED

A love letter Spees, formerly employed on the Shurtz farm, to Mrs. Shurtz was the first clue. Spees, arrested in Indiana, confessed to the murder and turned state's evidence. He told how Mrs. Shurtz had planned it. One of the state's chief witnesses against the woman was her 14-year-old son who slept with his mother on the night of the murder.

Mrs. Shurtz gave no indication of emotion when the verdict was returned.

CIGARETTE USE IS ASSAILED

Marion County Teachers Demand That State Law Must Be Enforced

Marion county teachers at the closing session of the county institute yesterday adopted a resolution demanding that the law intended to prohibit the use of cigarettes by minors be rigidly enforced.

A fine endorsement was given of the work of the state and the Marion county school superintendent for good work well done in the cause of education.

Thanks Expressed

The resolutions also thanked the Salem school board for the courtesies shown them in allowing the use of the Salem high school building; the instructors and lecturers for their able discussions and the Miller Mercantile company for some wonderful chrysanthemums for decorating the halls.

Marion county is starting a big, spectacular movement in its work to preserve through the schools the early-day history of the state. The study of Oregon history is compulsory in the elementary schools. To make the history interesting, by tying the past to the present through the people and the places that every one knows is the aim of the Marion county historical organization.

Mrs. Fulkerson Leads

The move was suggested by Mrs. M. L. Fulkerson, county superintendent. It took with the whole institute, and a committee of five, headed by Prof. B. T. Youell of Silverton, will outline a course of local story-telling that ought to bring to the top a wonderful wealth of real early-day history stories.

"It was a wonderful institute," said Mrs. Fulkerson, who had it in charge. "The fine spirit of cooperation by everybody made it a pleasure to do the work, and the attendance broke all records. One of the nicest things about the whole week was the fact that there was not a single speaker late for appointment or missing so that a substitution had to be made. That was unique, in carrying out a long program like this."

Art Posters Interesting

Wednesday's session was shorter than the others. The institute adjourned at a little before 3 o'clock. Most of the teachers left for their homes within an hour of the closing.

One of the most interesting series of department studies of the whole week was that of Alabama Brenton, of the Monmouth normal on art poster work. The poster, with a few vivid colors, about one big striking figure, that can be as rough as fancy dictates just so it is strong and effective, it was shown, is about the most striking, spectacular work for the common "dub" artist, and it carries a punch that even the school children can assimilate. These art talks were given daily.

Other departments, however, were wonderfully effective. The health work class conducted by Grace Taylor, school nurse in Salem, brought out many valuable but frequently overlooked health points. The story work for the primary, presented Wednesday by Miss Flora Case, librarian of the Salem city library, was notably effective. The music presented through the direction of Miss Lena Belle Tartar of Salem, was always highly appreciated. There were many other features, also, all the way from the primary up to the high school grades, where the wisest could learn many things about children and about teaching that they hadn't known.

The principal addresses of the closing day were: "Reading, Thinking, Learning," by President Doney of Willamette university; "Education, the Fulfillment of the Hope of Democracy," by President J. S. Landers of Monmouth state normal; and "Waste" by Dr. U. G. Dubach, of O. A. C.

The Dubach address was especially striking. He took the word and thought of "Slouchiness" as the key to so much of the unrest and inefficiency of the age. Slouchiness in thought, in morals, in grit that hasn't the courage to come back in the face of difficulty or of criticism, slouchiness in the appreciation of honest effort that others put forth to make things better, and slouchiness in honor.

Some of the Dubach aphorisms are:

"A student who cheats in school is a thief."

"Let us teachers take our job seriously, and instill into our boys and girls a high sense of honor."

"I can go back to the farm and it will hurt no one but the hogs, however badly I handle the business; but if I make a mistake as a teacher it will hurt somebody's boy or girl."

The address was one of the most appreciated features of the whole institute.

President Landers proclaimed a striking thought in saying that liberty and freedom are only one-half the story of Democracy; that America had stressed these fully, hence its inability to lead the world after the war. Sympathy, and efficiency, and culture, and discipline, and character (good will to one's fellow men) and knowledge, all go into the kind of education that makes a nation pre-eminent, he said. Education without the balance of these elements, means the danger of education criminal, dangerous education criminal. Teachers need to catch the humanitarian instinct in American education, to make it function in the sum total of love.

Land Board Turn-Over Is Shown by Mr. Brown

During the month of November the state land board turned over to the state treasurer a total of $155,987.48, according to the monthly report of George G. Brown, clerk of the board. The items were:

Common school fund principal, payments on certificates and cash sales, $8229.77; common school fund principal, payment on loans $106,391.50; common school fund interest, payments on certificates, $415.64; common school fund interest, payments on loans, $35,656.13; university fund principal, payments on loans, $2350; university fund interest, payments on loans, $300.50; agricultural fund principal, payments on loans, $1,800; agricultural college fund interest, payments on loans, $416; rural credits loan principal, $69,05; rural credits loan interest, $298.89; total, $155,987.48.

IT'S TOASTED one extra process which gives a delicious flavor

C. P. S. ELEVEN MEETS BEARCATS

Intercollegiate Football on Sweetland Field, 2 O'Clock Today

Willamette plays the College of Puget Sound today at 2 o'clock at Sweetland field.

The Puget Sounders and the Bearcats average up in much the same way. The invaders have a fine as heavy as Oregon, averaging 176 pounds. Their backfield is down to almost junior high school weight, 147 pounds. Willamette, on the other hand, has a line that averaged only 159, or 17 pounds a man lighter than the visitors. Willamette, however, has a smashing backfield that averages 163 pounds, or 16 pounds more than the northern streaks.

The Willamette line is not slow, however, for all its light weight. There never was a center in the four years that he has played football that could run over Bain, the Bearcat center, at 148 pounds. Bird, Bearcat, right end, weighs only 148. He will oppose Kelly, 169 pounds. White and Huston, right guard and tackle at 165 and 160, will be against Swartz and Bleavens, 190 and 192 pounds. They face the hardest weight handicap of the game. The team averages are: Puget Sound, 165; Willamette, 160.

Stolzheise and Cramer are line bucklers like battering rams, and Zeller and Isham are fast, shifty men for the end plays. Zeller is playing his very last game today. This is his fourth college year, the last game of the year, and he graduates in June. He has been doing most of the spectacular running for the team thus far this year. Bain and White are also in their last college game as they graduate this year.

No statistics are available for the Puget Sound substitutes. The Bearcat team, however, has some good material that ranks as first string stuff. Carey at end, Dunnette, Caughlin and Booth in the back field. Sherwood, Chapin, Reynolds and Skirvin in the line.

Ownership of Insurance Policy to Be Contested

In her answer to the suit brought by Ada Ellinger against Althea A. Pogue for the possession of a $500 life insurance policy, Mrs. Pogue contends that the insurance policy was originally intended for the lawful widow of Myron Pogue in the event of his death, according to papers filed by her in the circuit court yesterday.

The defendant's answer states that Ada Ellinger, the plaintiff, and Myron Pogue were married in 1893, at which time the insurance policy was made out to the former. In 1898, however, they were divorced, and a short time later Mr. Pogue married the defendant. He died in June, 1922, leaving a paid-up policy for $500. The plaintiff contends that the policy having been originally made out to her, is lawfully hers. The defendant on the other hand states that she being the lawful widow of the late Myron Pogue, is entitled to it.
