There's sure-fire entertainment in "The Isle of Doubt," which stars Wyndham Standing as a two-faced he-man who, when he finds that he is merely a husband of convenience, grabs his bride under "one arm" and her lover under the other (figuratively speaking) and transports them to a tropical isle. There he makes them work for their board and lodging. At the Liberty today.

With the coming of Herbert Rawlinson's Universal starring vehicle "Confidence," to the Bigh theatre next Sunday and Monday there will be presented one of the most appealing of small town tales ever told on the screen.

In this picture, Rawlinson, always a capable dramatic exponent of crooks and confidence men, plays the part of a high-binder who doesn't know that he is one. When he does find out that he is being used as a tool for one of the most notorious confidence men in the country, he sets about turning the tables and for the final thousand feet or so of film, the swindler is said to become a model citizen and a credit to the community.

The story was written, especially for the star by Bernard Hyman and adapted to the screen by Raymond L. Schrock, scenario editor at Universal City.

Playing opposite Rawlinson in the leading feminine role is Harriett Hammond who heads a supporting cast of many well known players. Among them are Hal-Jam Cooley, Lincoln Plumer, William A. Carroll, Otto Hoffman, William Robert Daly, John Stepping, Melbourne McDowell, Gerald Pring, Robert Milasch and Sam Allen.

In "Little Lord Fauntleroy," Mary Pickford rivals the athletic feats of her athletic husband. She rides a bicycle which is six feet high, and does a fall over the handlebars into a muddy street, that is as daring as any her Patheserials, but now the new knickers, worn with capes, jackets or jumpers and made up in such a variety of materials, offer a wide variety of sports togs. She wears some charming costumes in her new Patheserial thriller, "The Timber Queen." At the Liberty.

An extra woman on the set of "The Old Homestead" the Paramount picture directed by James Cruze, which will be shown at the Oregon theatre today asked Theodore Roberts, if he had ever worked on the speaking stage. He replied in the affirmative. "Oh," she asked, "what part did you play?"

M. Roberts explained that if he tried to count the parts he had delineated he would have to take a day off.

KELLER URGES IMPEACHMENT OF DAUGHTERY

protection of life and liberty of citizens engaged in travel.

"5—Dismissal from service in the department of justice of a faithful and efficient employee who had been engaged in investigating war fraud cases.

Legal Process Perverted

"6—Allowing persons to remain in the employ of the department of justice after it had been proved that such persons are guilty of having accepted fees to represent those charged by the department of justice with violations of the federal statutes in case upon which the said employee had been engaged.

"7—The perversion of the legal process of the United States for the purpose of instituting action for which there was no justification at the time of its presentation and the demanding from the courts as against private individuals processes of court subversive of those rights of freedom of speech, freedom of the press and peaceable assembly assured by the constitution and laws of the United States.

Deceit Practiced

"8—Flagrant and bold favoritism in the administration of justice, on behalf of corporations, companies and individuals owned or controlled by or affiliated with the banking house of J. P. Morgan and company.

"9—The use of fraud and deceit practiced upon former President W. H. Taft, causing the release from a federal prison of C. W. Morse under the pretext that Morse was ill; upon the failure of the said Morse to pay to Daugherty's assistant in the pardon proceedings an agreed fee, and after the said Daugherty became attorney general of the United States, the prostitution of his high office to purposes of personal revenge by securing an indictment of the said Morse and other directors of a corporation and of attorneys for the corporation to charges of violating federal laws and by failing to seek the indictment of other directors of the said corporation equally guilty with Morse of the alleged offense, if any, and by failing to seek the indictment of another attorney equally guilty with the attorneys indicted which other attorney is in the employ of the department of justice.

Funds Misappropriated

"10—The wilful diversion of public funds for an illegal purpose through the employments of agents in the bureau of investigation of the department of justice to shadow members of the house and senate who had criticised his conduct on the floor of congress.

"11—The perversion of the processes of justice and the administration of the department of justice through the undue influences exercised upon the attorney general by one Thomas B. Felder, former legal assistant of the said Harry M. Daugherty in the Morse case and others.

Influence by Wealth

"12—Continuing submission to the influence of corporations and individuals of great wealth and power in the administration of justice and the deliberate conniving at the looting of one of the naval oil reserves of the United States of America, by refusing at the behest and demand of the Standard Oil company of California to institute suits to recover for the people of the United States title to the lands illegally and fraudulently obtained by the said company; and the recommendation to the president and the securing of secret pardons for wealthy persons immediately after their convictions of violations of the anti-trust laws and of shocking crimes against childhood innocence involving the grossest moral turpitude.

Fails to Prosecute

"13—The appointing to positions of great importance and large financial and moral responsibility of men who are untrustworthy, corrupt and dangerous to the liberties of the people of the United States, knowing at the time of such appointments that they were men of such character.

"14—Gross favoritism, deliberate refusal to prosecute war grafters, failure and refusal to cover money stolen from the treasury of the United States in connection with war frauds.

The reasons why Mr. Keller desired to have Chief Justice Taft and Mr. Wickersham testify were set forth in his bill of particulars.

Jones Case Cited

He cited the case of William N. Jones, convicted in 1907 for alleged land frauds against the government in Oregon and subsequently pardoned by President Taft. He alleged that William J. Burns, now chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice and then employed by the government, "got possession in advance" of the list of prospective jurors who were to be called in the trial of Jones and placed opposite their names a notation as to their so-called fitness from a prosecuting standpoint.

Through the influence of a secret service agent associated as a defendant, he said, "Jones was induced to accept as jurors men to whom otherwise he would have objected." Attorney General Wickersham after investigating the circumstances, reported to Mr. Taft as set forth in the Keller bill, that he could not "countenance the methods employed in the prosecution of these cases by requiring an enforcement of the sentence imposed in the Jones case.

On receipt of the report by Mr. Wickersham, President Taft promptly pardoned Jones, the bill set forth. At the time of Burns' appointment by Mr. Daugherty, Mr. Keller asserted that Mr. Gompers went to him and protested, calling attention to the record in the Jones case, and that Mr. Daugherty, in his presence, sent for the files which were "produced and which contained the report of Attorney General Wickersham and the direction of President Taft for the issuance of a pardon." In the "full knowledge of the facts," Mr. Keller stated that Mr. Daugherty went ahead and made the Burns appointment.

Highest Bridge in U. S. Built at Del Rio, Texas

DEL RIO, Texas, Dec. 1.—The highest bridge in the United States is located 50 miles west of Del Rio, on the El Paso division of the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio railroad. It crosses the Pecos river.

This bridge, which was turned over to the railroad company in March, 1892, was exceeded in height at that time by only two other bridges in the world, one in Bolivia, South America, and one in France.

Since then, two other bridges have been constructed in Africa that surpass the Pecos bridge, making it at the present time the fourth highest in the world.

The bridge is 326 feet above the low water level, originally was 2180 feet long, and weighs 2249 tons.

Bids Asked to Furnish Dormitory at Chemawa

Proposals are being sent out asking for bids for furnishing the materials for the proposed new boys' dormitory for Salem Indian school at Chemawa.

The original appropriation of $50,000 for the building has been necessarily been somewhat depleted by the cost of moving from the proposed new site the cottages that already occupied it, so there was not quite $50,000 actually available for the new building, and the bids all overran the specifications.

The Indian department rejected all bids, and ordered Superintendent Hall to have bids secured for the material, with the idea of figuring out the cost and doing the work by day wage and not by contract.

Between the touchdowns at the colleges and the touch-downs on the part of the students father is having the time of his life this fall.

Starts To-night

Hold your breath a hundred times on Strongheart's trail of thrills.

The Snowland's greatest story of mother love and a dog's devotion.

Follow the tracks of Strongheart up to the snowlands. Great drama there—of a woman driven into marriage in self-defense, finding love at last for the man; love, too, for the giant dog; and a woman's greatest love for the child that was born in the snows. Then she lost them all when the wolves swooped out of the night.
