STOWERS' LEGS AGAIN COVERED

Albany Man's Pants Found by Officer and Given Him at Station

Ernest Stowers, Albany tramp, who was brought into the police station late Wednesday night, minus pants, minus $10 and minus freedom and who at the time was "slightly submerged" in a fog of bay rum, left for parts unknown yesterday afternoon, plus pants, plus $10, plus freedom and, it may be added, plus a free night's sleep at the police station.

Late in the day while making his rounds one of the minions of the law discovered a pair of pants hanging on a footbridge where Waller street crosses the Southern Pacific railroad tracks. At the station the overjoyed Mr. Stowers identified them as his own. He didn't know how they got there unless in his befogged condition he had mistaken the railroad bed for the real article. One of the pockets contained $7.

Judge Earl Race decided that as a Christmas present he would allow Stowers to keep his $7. But he was given to understand that once released he was to "keep on going"—with his pants on.

DRAINAGE TO BE DISCUSSED

Eighth Annual Session of Oregon Association to Meet This Month

The eighth annual session of the Oregon State Drainage association is to be held in Portland, Tuesday, December 18, at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. It convenes at 9 a. m., and grinds steadily all day, to close only with the big annual banquet in the early evening.

Sam H. Brown of Gervais is president, and W. K. Powers of Corvallis secretary. The board of directors comes from all over the state from Vale to Astoria, from Klamath to Portland.

Experts Come from Afar

Drainage authorities from California, Utah, Washington, and British Columbia have promised to address the conference. The new drainage film prepared during the summer field tour of the association will be shown. Time will be allowed for discussion and for consideration of the program of the state development board of which the president of the association is a member.

Practical drainage men will discuss the problems of reclamation for the lower Columbia and coast section; the Willamette valley and the marsh, alkali and irrigated areas of the arid section. Results with use of a Buckeye trencher under Pacific slope conditions will be described and some new economical methods of sluicing and cleaning ditches will be reported. The fourth biennial report of the Oregon reclamation congress will be off the press for distribution at this meeting.

Legislation Secured

The association helped secure the 1915 drainage law under which 52 active drainage enterprises are now operating. It aims to bring together all drainage interests for a more effective program of reclamation for the 3,000,000 acres of wet Oregon lands. Wet land owners, drainage engineers, contractors, water lawyers, material men, investment bankers, representatives of chambers of commerce and of drainage districts, county agents from most sections are urged to be present; also mud duck and carp fish experts. The meeting is open to drainage men of western Washington or other outside points.

Every Woman

—that bakes with Calumet—and there are millions of them—has learned three important baking facts.

First; that she never has any failures, which means no loss of time and material.

Second; that her bakings are always pure and wholesome, which goes a long way toward perfect health.

Third; that the greater than usual leavening strength of Calumet stands for economy because she uses less.

The Tri L club, a group of young business women, affiliated with the Y. W. C. A. will sponsor a Christmas party for Salem children in the Y. W. C. A. rooms, December 22. This is the second annual party the young women have given for the benefit of children who would otherwise not have a festive time.

The committee in charge is headed by Miss Esther Natterlund of the service committee. The girls plan to obtain the names of many boys and girls from the Associated Charities and will entertain them with a tree and general good time. As in previous years the girls are cooperating with many who desire to assist them in giving the party.
