The result is that a great amount of energy is being spent on trying to get a lion's share of the existing demand, and not enough is spent on trying to crepeople don't demand enough things to to keep everybody busy supplying it.

This brings about a period of keen competition. It means that everybody must work harder and accept less in order to overcome the sales resistance of a curtailed demand.

with less than one would like to have. When the public gets a streak of economy it curtails the demand for everything that is produced.

When sales are hard to get, then most people who have things for sale increase their efforts to sell. The harder they try to sell, the harder their competitors try to sell. But no amount of selling effort-in the usual sense of the wordcan create demand; it can only take advantage of the demand that has been otherwise created.

Advertising and Selling ought to be considered as "fifty-fifty" in importance. Advertising creates the consumer demand. Selling connects this demand with the supply. Each needs the other to make its work complete.

Published by the Oregon Statesman in co-operation with The American Association of Advertising Agencies

The big obvious need of this country today is psychological—the disposition to go ahead... We have here a vast ability to produce, and a vast ability to consume the products of industry. Potentially, Supply and Demand are pretty well matched. The main trouble is that justify industry in doing its utmost to
