HERE IN PERSON

Edna Wallace Hopper, aged 63, and still a flapper. In person, Grand Theatre tomorrow and Saturday. Read her beauty article.

OREGON "The Sin Flood," with all-star cast.

BLIGH Hickman Bessey Co. presents "Mother O' Mine" Chic Sale in "His Nibs."

LIBERTY Alice Brady in a wonderful picture, "Anna Ascends." Also a comedy and three other reels.

GRAND Coming tomorrow — Edna Wallace Hopper in person. A woman who is 63 years of age and looks and acts like a young lady of about 24 years of age. Also the big photoplay sensation by Rupert Hughes, "Remembrance."

For the first time in the history of motion pictures, one actor has actually succeeded in playing several leading roles in a single production. The actor is no other than the famous vaudeville comedian, Charles (Chic) Sibley, and the production is "His Nibs," the Exceptional Pictures novelty feature comedy which comes to the Bligh theatre today.

Net, however, on the merits of novelty is "His Nibs" pronounced the foremost comedy of the screen year. "His Nibs" is not only fresh and original of story but it is replete with honest laughter and fine comic character drawing.

"When Knighthood Was in Flower," which comes to the Grand theatre starting next Sunday has received more favorable press stories from the big city newspapers than any film ever produced. The following remarks were clipped from the Oregonian:

TO DAY BLIGH THEATRE HICKMAN BESSEY Co. Presents "Mother O' Mine" Chic Sale in "His Nibs"

EDNA WALLACE HOPPER IN PERSON The Celebrated Light Opera Star of Years Ago AGED 63 AND LOOKS AND ACTS LIKE SHE WAS 21 Special LADIES-ONLY MATINEE SATURDAY Tomorrow and Saturday GRAND Matinee and Night

Ruth Roland, star of "The Timber Queen," is an ardent admirer of dogs of every sort and breeds herself on several blue-ribbon winners in her own kennels. In fact, the Pathe star's enthusiasm for the doggies has prompted her to award a cup to the finest Police Dog at the Coronado Dog Show to be held by the social leaders of that island sometime in June. Coming to the Liberty theatre Friday and Saturday.

In one of the backgrounds used in the filming of Richard Barthelmess' latest starring vehicle, "The Bond Boy," coming to the Oregon theatre on Saturday, will be seen what is claimed to be the oldest court house in the United States. It is located at Warm Springs, Bath county, Virginia. The building was erected in 1781.

Helen Chadwick, beautiful Goldwyn actress, and Richard Dix, rising young actor, will act their third picture together in the last eight months, in "The Sin Flood," a drama coming to the Oregon theatre for two days, commencing today.

Miss Chadwick and Mr. Dix are a remarkably handsome pair together. The beautiful actress being very fair, and Mr. Dix dark.

Marc McDermott, who has been favorably known to screen patrons for many years as one of the most finished character impersonators of the silver screen, plays the principal male role in "The Amazing Lover," a picturization of Charles A. Logue's Greenwich Village romance, at the Liberty theatre, Friday and Saturday.

Arthur Trimble, who plays a juvenile part in "Remembrance," the latest Rupert Hughes picture to be released, and which will be at the Grand theatre Friday and Saturday, will be remembered for his able work in the two-reel comedies which bear his name.

Everyone who saw and enjoyed Rupert Hughes' Goldwyn picture, "The Old Nest," will be anxious to see "Remembrance." An unselfish motherhood was the theme of "The Old Nest," self-sacrificing fatherhood is the theme of "Remembrance," which will be at the Grand theatre Friday and Saturday.

The Liberty theatre announces that they will present the first 250 patrons at next Saturday's matinee with a candy cane free. The cane is to be given with the compliments of the Acme Chocolate Shop, the home of Hill's famous home-made chocolates. Located on South Commercial street, Salem. The Liberty on that day will present a double feature, "The Amazing Lover," and a Ruth Roland film. This is a first 250 strong program and the first 250 will receive a nice candy cane absolutely free.

Have you met Miss Desse Ted? If not, you had better hurry to the Bligh theatre, for this is her last day. She's a flirtatious lady, and she wiggles her mean wrist at the piano. She is only one of the interesting people to be seen in "His Nibs," the five reel comedy of which Charles (Chic) Sibley, the famous impersonator of rural types, is the star, and which is produced by Exceptional Pictures.

Days of romance and chivalry will live again as the elaborate production "When Knighthood Was in Flower," starring Marion Davies, opens Sunday at the Grand theatre. This much talked-of photoplay is expected to set a new screen record. "When Knighthood Was in Flower," has all the great essentials for the sort of picture which the public has been long demanding, and the producers have been striving to produce.

Taken from one of the sweetest love stories ever told, it reflects not only greatness of a woman's love, but all the pomp and ceremony, the plotting and intrigue, the gorgeous splendor of the courts of King Henry VIII of England and King Louis XII of France. Fans are waiting with much interest the interpretation which Marion Davies will give to the role of the lovely Princess Mary Tudor, the role made famous by Julian Marlowe in the stage production. Miss Davies will bring to the role not only youth and beauty but a delightful sense of humor which enables her to portray the fun loving qualities of the princess with zest. In the big dramatic scenes she will be given as wide a scope as is ever accorded an actress, for Princess Mary Tudor combined the qualities of a Juliet, a Rosalind and a Beatrice all in one.

Nazimova, the famous Russian screen star, is a great lover of animals and birds. At her home in Hollywood she has one of the finest kennels in California, and her aviary is stocked with many rare and beautiful specimens, from the tiny hummingbird to magnificent peacocks. She also has a parrot that can speak in Russian, Italian, Yiddish and French, to say nothing of its ability to swear in English. Nazimova's latest picture is Ibsen's "A Doll's House," to be seen here at the Liberty theatre.

Olcott Hears Meagerly of Astoria Disaster Meager details of the Astoria fire disaster penetrated as far as Washington, D. C., through the ordinary news channels, according to word received yesterday from Governor Olcott, who is now in the national capital. Governor Olcott expressed sorrow at the disaster but was glad to know that the state is giving all the assistance possible.

town streets, so as to give more people a chance to use the streets or business purposes. Investigation Ordered Eventually, on motion, a committee of three was appointed to investigate the whole parking problem. President Perry named Edward Schunke, Dr. W. H. Darby and V. E. Sisson for this service.

Carle Abrams presented the matter of agricultural cooperation in every possible way to build up the farming interests that help to make Salem the prosperous city that it is. He urged the adoption of the county agent plan, saying it was his opinion that the value of a good county agent was at least 10 times his cost, whatever the cost might be.

University Cause Presented Dr. Morris presented the case for Willamette university, urging more men and money to help in the local campaign. He stated that there was on Wednesday noon a total of $88,000 still to raise on the Salem quota of $250,000, and that not enough Salem men were awake to the gravity of the situation.

"Only about one in every 10 men will help with his money," he stated. "They say they hope and believe it will succeed, but they don't help do it." Dr. Morris is a full-fledged "general" in the canvassing army for Willamette during the present endowment campaign.

The Chamber of Commerce started a year ago $6000 in debt. It is now getting almost free of all obligations, and during the year to come expects to get into a surplus year of debt-paying and retrenchment.

The report of Robert B. Duncan, secretary-manager, follows: "Your present secretary-manager took over the active management of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, on March 1, 1922. The various departments have been seriously handicapped for the reason that there has been no money for financing any activities.

"On March 1 the indebtedness of the club amounted to $5,506.64. The amount of the indebtedness December 10 is $1,832. This shows a decrease in the indebtedness of $3,674.64. In addition to this we paid $207 interest on our note at the bank. The board of directors has put the chamber on an entirely business basis, having cleaned up all of the old indebtedness except the note to the United States National bank in the amount of $1,832. The interest on this note is paid up to November 1. Our bank balance shows $471.47.

Corn Show Put On The agricultural department, under the direction of Carle Abrams, is putting on the Marion-Polk County Corn show in the Chamber of Commerce rooms December 14, 15, and 16. The financing of this show was taken care of by cash donations of certain business men of our city.

The civic department, under the direction of W. E. Wilson, assisted by Elmo White and Col. E. Hofer, has outlined a very fine program for a city beautiful campaign. The subject of better public schools is also being worked on by this department.

The tourist, publicity and convention department, under the leadership and direction of King Bing McGilchrist, has done some very constructive work along the line of booster trips to neighboring cities. Also exceptionally good work was done by the Cherrians in visiting our camp ground each night during the summer, from which no less than 12 families have become residents of our city.

Social Department Praised The social department has been handled very efficiently by Director P. M. Gregory, who has no small job in furnishing entertainment for our various meetings. Not many members know what a task it is to secure good talent for the entertainments. The social department has had some 312 meetings of considerable size in the club rooms.

"The other departments have done all that could be expected under the financial condition of the club. "During October we established a traffic service bureau with Hal F. Wiggins as manager. The traffic and transportation committee, composed of Theo. Roth, Fred Steustoff, W. E. Wilson, Robert Paulus and F. G. Deckebach has charge of this department. We will see some real constructive work from this source in the near future. New Members Come In The membership campaign in October netted us a gain of 208 new members at a total expense of $91.65. "We secured the use of stereopticon slides and lantern which we paid the express on from Oregon to Minnesota at which place E. A. Rhoten of our city took charge and is directing several lectures in both Minnesota and Iowa regarding the advantages of Oregon and especially the territory around Salem. The only expense to the chamber connected with this lecture trip was the expressing of the slides and the lanterns. The financial report to December 10 is as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Month, 1922 Receipts. Rows include March, April, May, June, July, August, September, October, November, December 1 to 10, Total, Cash on hand March 1.

CORN SHOW IS OPENED TODAY

that it's worth while, even if one did have to pay for it. It's more than merely so many hundred ears of corn, the yellow stuff they feed to pigs and cows. It represents the best farm development of agrib, in the selection of types of grain that make farms pay a profit instead of suffer a loss.

Prof. E. G. Holden, of the Iowa Agricultural college, a few years ago specialized on corn-seed selection; they credit him with having started and perfected the state-wide better-seed movement that has made the Iowa corn crop worth from $10,000,000 to $50,000,000 every year than it had been before he took hold of it. Come corn-waundry, what? They used to say that corn wouldn't grow in Oregon; and some of the pioneers who came here heedless boys, grow whiskers six feet long and finally die of old age, before the lie was fully disproved. Corn is a splendid crop asset to any country; the corn now being grown here in Oregon is pure-bred, acclimated, naturalized corn of the kinds that are making corn-growing a real industry. Corn is now making the Oregon dairy business thrive as it never did or would do, without it.

Several hundred farmers have been growing corn and other crops that will be exhibited here this week. They'd like to know that town people are interested in what they raise, what they do. They are bringing their corn and potatoes and other products to this show, for the townsmen to see. It helps a lot in these days of four-cent loganberries, for a farmer to feel that the townsmen are interested in his work and his hopes.

Some remarkably fine corn is being shown. Red corn, black corn, sweet corn, pop corn, calico corn, blue squaw corn, Yankee corn, white corn, smooth corn, corn as rough as buzz saws, green corn, canned corn, dried corn—all are exhibited. Not A-1, the exhibits are of quite equal merit; some are selected for years of careful breeding, by men who are old at the game of plant breeding. Some are less good; but all are interesting.

Three community exhibits are already in place, in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce; there wasn't room in the billiard room for all to be displayed. Brush college, in Polk county, sends a remarkably fine showing of miscellaneous farm products. And these are A-1 varieties of canned vegetables and fruits. This community won the top prize for a local showing at the Pacific International Livestock show this winter, and make a truly wonderful showing at their own Polk county fair, at Dallas. The Salem Heights community showing is also excellent, as is that from the Liberty district. Other communities may send in their exhibits this morning.

ASTORIA GETS ASTOR CHECK

Millionaire Sends Namesake $5000 for General Relief Purposes

ASTORIA, Or., Dec. 13.—Vincent Astor of New York city, a direct descendant of the Col. John Jacob Astor, who founded Astoria as a fur trading post in 1811, today wired the Astoria relief committee $5000 for its fund. His telegram says:

Sympathy Expressed "Am forwarding you by Western Union Telegraph company five thousand dollars to be expended at your discretion for general relief. May I not express to you and through you to the citizens of Astoria my sincerest sympathy in this great catastrophe and a conviction that the initiative, resourcefulness and energy displayed by your city throughout the past shall overcome even this disaster and assure a future of happiness and prosperity."

Announcement of the government's decision to rush the work on the Tongue Point naval base here was made today by Lieut. Commander Church, who has charge of the work. Plans and specifications will be ready by January 1.

To Rebuild Street News of the decision of the highway commission to rebuild, fill and pave Commercial street, which is now burned out from Tenth to Seventeenth streets, was received with enthusiasm by Astorians. This will promise a main artery of traffic from east to west through the city and will also be a link in the Portland-Seaside highway. The city council has practically approved of the plan of widening Commercial street to 80 feet.

And there will also be other individual exhibits of both corn and vegetables.

A fine display of potatoes is part of the general exhibit; there are potatoes that would score high in any exhibition. Some pumpkins and squash, kale, turnips and many other farm products are shown, both in the general display and in the community exhibits. Everybody is invited, and they are prepared to take care of thousands of visitors.

19 YEARS OLD AT 62 AND HOW TO KEEP THAT WAY; KEEPING YOUNG BY TAKING COLD BATHS

Famous Theatrical Star Writes the First of a Series of Three Articles on "How to Preserve Youth" Following is Installment Number One

The best thing for the figure and general health, in my opinion, is to get up every morning and jump into a nice cold bath. The trouble is that most people do not know how to take a cold bath. Daily cold showers in the first place are out of the question for the person who wants to preserve health and beauty and youth. They are too much of a shock, and besides it is bad practice to wet the hair every day. For a woman with long hair, it is impossible, and for the woman with bobbed hair it is ill advised.

Few people are rich enough to have marble pools in their homes, so this brings us to the tub. But if I had made a practice all my life of stepping, shivering, feet first into a tub cold every morning, chilling the lower extremities and causing a rush of blood to the brain, I think I should have been dead of nervous shock long ago. Here is the perfect method—a secret taught me years ago by a great, nerve specialist at Carlsbad, and which I have been following ever since. I fill the tub with cold water, summer and winter alike, at the same temperature which comes from the cold water faucet. Not even on the coldest, below freezing winter days in New York, do I ever compromise. I balance myself on the edge of the tub, sitting lengthwise, with my legs lifted up horizontally and parallel with the side of the tub. With my right hand I grasp the side of the tub just behind me, and with my left I reach over and grab the other side opposite to where I am sitting. Then I kick my feet and legs into the air, swing myself over
