

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Suit To Collect Filed—
The Fairbanks Morse company brought suit against S. S. Barry in the circuit court yesterday for collection of $884 which the company alleges is due on contract for machinery which was broken by the defendant. The complaint states that machinery to the value of $2,194 was sold to Barry and that $200 was paid originally on the purchase price, another $800 at time of delivery and since that time nothing. The machinery was sold at a later date and applied on the bill which the plaintiffs state is still $884.

WAR VETERANS WILL ELECT

Hot Contest Looming at Meeting of Local Organization Tonight

The local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold its last meeting of the year tonight at the armory, according to Commander Henry O. Miller of Marion post No. 661.

"We are going to elect a new set of officers," said Commander Miller, "and I have heard that there is going to be a real contest for the higher offices." Several names have been mentioned in connection with the office of commander. Among those are Allan Jones, the present senior vice commander, Allan Carson, a local attorney, and Carle Adams.

It is also probable that there will be a lively contest for senior vice commander for which George Willette and W. W. Smith are contenders, and Lyle Page is mentioned in connection with the post of junior vice commander. The only officer of the present administration who is likely to be reelected is Comrade Coulter who is post commander.

Byron Conley, at present historian for Marion post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, served as adjutant during the first year of its existence and may receive that post again, the present adjutant, Chris Cowitz desiring to retire.

Due to the fact that both nominations and elections must be looked after at this meeting, a program has been dispensed with for the evening. However, it is contemplated to have an elaborate and entertaining program at the installation of the new officers in January.

Marion post of Veterans of Foreign Wars consists of 75 members all in good standing and actively participating in the posts affairs, and with the new administration, now in the making, it is expected that the veterans will take on new activities.

Some Department Officers
Other officers to be filled are officer of the day, guard, chaplain, sergeant major and quarter-master sergeant. Several members of the local post are holding offices in the department of Oregon, Veterans of Foreign Wars. They are Department Commander Bolton Hamble, Department Adjutant Sever and Quartermaster Forbes. Former Post Commander Hagemann is on the department council of administration. All department officers are in effect eliminated as contenders for offices in the post according to the by-laws of the organization, limiting any member to one office at a time.

ROOF IS POURED ON PAPER MILL

Construction Forms Soon to Come Off and Glaziers Will Have Inning

Work has proceeded so far on the new paper mill addition that the roof was being poured Tuesday. The recent bad weather has hindered the construction somewhat, but the workmen are getting a little farther along every day, and the end is in sight. The construction forms will soon be ready to be stripped off, and then the glaziers will have their inning. The glass fitting will be a good deal of a job, even if it does come in ready-fitted units, for there is a lot of it. The

OREGON ELECTRIC FINISHES BRIDGE

Railroad Company Spends $10,000 in Replacing Former Structure

Ten thousand dollars was spent by the Oregon Electric in rebuilding the big bridge between Commercial and Liberty streets, which has just been fully reopened for traffic. It was not closed to the trains, the replacement being so carefully done that there was never even a stop or a delay in the train service.

The bridge is brand new in every stick of timber. The new timbers were set into place before the old ones were removed, so that traffic was not interrupted. All the new piers have heavy concrete footings, where the old piers were either piling or plain flat timber footings. The footings on the top deck is wider than the old bridge, 19 inches on either side. The piers in the stream are set parallel with the stream, where the old piers had been set at the same angle as that of the bridge as it crosses the stream. The new plan gives practically double the water and rubbish clearance in case of high water.

W. D. Simmons, bridge superintendent, is finishing the last of the construction work, removing the temporary platforms on which the new bridge timbers were stored, and cleaning up ready to call the job ended. The work was delayed while the crew was called to put in a spur track for the paper mill, but now both jobs are done and the crew will disband. Practically all the carpenters were local men.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Won't the weikin ring—

Tonight if Willamette wins?

They'll be sitting up and standing by all around the world to hear the welcome flash of victory.

But the workers may have to fight the good fight right up to the zero hour of 12 o'clock.

With the credit of a million and a quarter more, all the schools of the country will have to sit up and take notice of Willamette.

And, by the sake token, all the college towns everywhere will have to think of Salem, the capital and queen city of the coming greatest commonwealth of all the sisterhood of states.

And, glory be, Salem, is now showing her heels to all of them in the hard fight. She is showing that she has speed as well as patience and faith and endurance, and that she is no slacker; nor even a near relative of a slacker.

A thousand students in three years; but the thousand will not be a whit finer than the 550 now on the campus of the old school; nor is there a finer student body in all the wide world.

This whole lunch will be on the watch tonight, right up to midnight, and Salem will hear of it if there is victory. All rules will be off on noise; and there is surely not a man, woman or child in Salem who will not join in the noise and help to make the joyful sound still louder and more harmonious, if possible.

Radio Amateurs Now Able to Talk Across Continent

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 19.—For the first time during the three annual trans-Atlantic tests of the American Radio Relay league, an amateur radio station has succeeded in crossing the continent and the Atlantic as well. It was announced at league headquarters here today that station 6KA, operated by F. E. Nirk at Los Angeles, Cal., was heard yesterday by radio amateurs in France.
