

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Unity Church Celebrates—A play and entertainment, followed by refreshments and a delightful social session, marked the Christmas festivities at Unity church Saturday night. Channing hall was about the gayest place in town filled with many gay places. At the close of the evening Mr. Walter Denton, as spokesman for the congregation, presented Rev. and Mrs. Martin Feresethian with a plump, well-filled Christmas purse as one of their substantial tokens of esteem. Rev. Feresethian has been active in so many public enterprises, such as the Chamber of Commerce drive, the Willamette endowment campaign, and many other important local helps, and his people wanted to tell him how well they appreciate it.

Carols Sung by Students—A score of young people from the First Methodist church started out at 5 o'clock Christmas morning for a caroling expedition. They visited the Old People's home, the County Poor farm, the Salem hospital, and a number of places where there are aged or invalid people, singing Christmas carols that brought cheer to hundreds of shut-ins.

Christmas Tree Held—A Christmas tree decorated right up to the handle was one of the features of the Marion hotel Monday. It was staged in the main lobby and made a brave showing indeed.

Workers Leave Town—The Statesman editorial and news force practically deserted Salem to its fate, for Christmas. Stephen A. Stone, city editor, spent the day in Portland, as did Stanley Eisman, reporter, Miss Marguerite Gleeson, society editor, visited Sunday and Monday in Building is Leased—Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Corn, who established and for three years conducted the "Good Eats" restaurant on South Commercial, has leased the building at 156 South Commercial, until recently occupied by the late Mr. Gilbert, and is installing a new and modern restaurant therein. He was in Portland last week to buy a new range and full house equipment, which he hopes to have installed by the middle of next week, ready for service. The restaurant occupies only one half of the building, which has been partitioned off into two ground floor rooms. The Corns went down to California some time ago, but returned to Salem in the belief that it is about the best place to invest in that they have found.

Social Session Fixed—The local branch of the telephone employees' association is to have its regular social session at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. This is a regular monthly event, with a literary and telephone program and genuine eats. Only telephone workers are eligible for membership, but there are sure enough of them, and lively enough, to make their meetings real social events.

Ten Lucky Men—Ten men who thought they were out of luck Christmas eve were regular pampered pets of fortune. First they found a good dry bed in the city hall and then the Salvation Army scouts came with 10 tickets to 10 sumptuous Christmas chicken dinners for use on Monday. Men who hadn't any more jobs than a canary bird, or any more money than a dog has use for two tails, or any more hope than there are icicles in the main stockhold in hades, slept soundly and ate lavishly for at least this one time. It's Christmas!

Returns From California—Lee L. Gilbert, who has been in California for several weeks, returned yesterday.

No Meeting Today—There is to be no meeting and luncheon for the Kiwanis club today noon, the club having voted to pass over the Christmas New Year's week and dine at home for once. The next meeting will be held in January, when the new officers will be installed.

Students Invited Out—A large number of the away-from-home Willamette students who were marooned in Salem through the Christmas holidays, were invited out to various homes of the city Monday, for about the most enjoyable Christmas dinners of their lives. If the enrollment doubles in the next two or three years, as it promises to do with the big endowment fund secured for the bigger university, there's going to be a busy time at holidays to find Christmas homes for all these homeless lads and lassies.

HUNT—Cyril Hunt died at a local hospital December 24, 1922 at 9:00 p. m., at the age of 22 years. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Hunt of Portland, and three brothers, John D. Linn, and Firman, all of Portland. Body was sent by Webb & Clough to Portland for burial.

LEGRANDE—R. M. Legrande passed away at a local hospital December 25, 1922 at 3:00 p. m. Mr. Legrande was about 35 years old, and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ella Legrande. Body is at Webb & Clough's and will be sent to Portland for burial.

employees usually have so much to do that they do not get it all done and it might look almost like a holiday to the sport who expects to see two uniformed servers and a gaily caparisoned truck come a-prancing up to his door with the letter that he expected and most likely wasn't ever even written. They did deliver mail, Monday, right in the heart of other people's Christmas festivities. In Portland, one delivery was made—and that was to take 10 hours to make. It was so staggeringly large. The break-down of the Santa Claus Reindeer line has thrown a vast burden on the postal service, and they haven't enough men to keep up with the peak load. The rush will be partly relieved today, and normality is expected to prevail from now on.

TROUBLED WITH WEAK KIDNEYS
"Have been troubled with weak kidneys since childhood," writes Mrs. G. Hyde, Benzonia, Michigan. "Now past forty and have had terrible backache and that tired out feeling, hardly able to do my work. By using Foley Kidney Pills accompanied with Foley Cathartic Tablets I soon felt like a new person." Backache, rheumatic pains, dizziness and blurred vision are symptoms of kidney trouble. Foley Kidney Pills give quick relief.—Adv.

Methods of Some Banks Criticized by Mr. Meyer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—The practice of some banks in advertising that they are neither members of the federal reserve system nor they use its rediscounting facilities, is criticised as injurious to the public interest by Eugene Meyer, managing director of the war finance corporation, in a letter to J. H. Pulcher, president of the American Bankers' association.

Mr. Meyer urged in the letter which is made public tonight that the bankers' association take prompt steps with a view to stopping the practice. "Such banks," the letter says, "are by no means in all cases the strongest banks, although they seek to increase their standing and reputation by such statements."

TWO DAYS EXTRA FOR THE MILL MEN

The Paper Mill Employees Received a Welcome Visit from Santa Claus

Who is your neighbor? The man next door, or, in the next block? Or the man at the other end of town, or in the next town, or away out on a farm? Or perhaps away off in China?

That question was raised on an historic occasion, and the answer was made in a parable. You all remember that. You know what kind of a neighbor the Good Samaritan was.

Well here is a man on the next block from the Statesman office, who has been keeping watch around these premises for nearly four years—it will be four years in August.

And, while he has passed this way many times every twenty-four hours, he was not known to the writer till last night. Grateful Employees of Paper Mill His name is T. J. Crawford. He is the night watchman for the paper mill. He climbs miles of stairways every night, and he peers into every nook and corner, and if there is anything doing around there, or near there, clear up into the next block, T. J. Crawford knows about it.

And he is Scotch-Irish, and if any one wants to start anything he is ready to help finish it. He would not be a decent representative of his stock on either side if he were not.

But Mr. Crawford came to see the Statesman editor last night to tell him that all of the nearly 200 employees of the Oregon Pulp & Paper company are grateful for their Christmas present—

For Santa Claus, in the persons of the managers of the paper mill, including Mr. Beyerl and Joe Kaster, gave their employees two days of extra pay for the month of December, for their Christmas present.

In the case of Mr. Crawford, as he said, it was "eight bucks," and he can use it, for since coming to Salem four years ago in February, he has had some tough luck, including the loss by the grim reaper of his good wife.

New Machinery Coming—And so for Mr. Crawford the steps he must climb each night will be easier, for he knows his bosses think of him and feel for him. And he declares this is the spirit throughout the forces of the big and growing institution, and they are all proud of their company, and they are very glad that the machinery for the new addition to the mill is now arriving, and will all be here in fifteen days or so, and will soon be running—

So there will be a lot more men looking for Santa Claus down there next Christmas—

And it will likely be many a Christmas time in the future that will not find still more men and women down there.
