Proving itself a thriller from start to finish, "The Face in the Fog," was greeted by an enthusiastic audience at the Liberty theater yesterday. The central characters are "Boston Blackie" Dawson, played by Lionel Barrymore, Duchess Tatiana, by Seena Owen and Count Orloff by Lowell Sherman. The efforts of a band of Russian criminals to rob the Duchess of her jewels, form the basis of an interesting picture as ever was shown in Salem. The production by Alan Crossland and the excellent work of the principals and an unusually efficient supporting cast, make "The Face in the Fog" a pictorial delight.

In a letter to the editor, a correspondent asks whether, in "Signed Wings," Bebe Daniels is a moth, a butterfly or an angel? Miss Daniels is neither. She is a beautiful café dancer, member of a once proud and wealthy Spanish family. The title of "Signed Wings" is taken from scenes in the picture where Miss Daniels, clad in a moth costume, performs a "Moth Dance." The costume is one of the most unique and resplendent ever conceived for a motion picture. "Signed Wings" will be seen at the Oregon theater next Friday. Bebe Daniels and Conrad Nagel have the featured roles.

Motion pictures have brought us many varied thrills in the course of the last decade. But it is doubtful if there ever was developed a bigger sensation than the scene in Jane Novak's great production "The Snowshoe Trail" in which Jane Novak and Roy Stewart are spilled off the backs of their horses into a surging whirlpool cluttered with ice. This wouldn't be bad in the summer but in the winter and during a blizzard it attains the proportions of a four-ripy dramatic smash.

Every one of the players who took part in this scene stood on the very brink of death. "The Snowshoe Trail" will open Friday at the Liberty.

Joseph Hazelton, who plays the role of Gideon Wells, secretary of the navy in Lincoln's cabinet, in the historical chapter play, "In the Days of Buffalo Bill," which comes to the Bligh theater Friday and Saturday, was an eye witness to the assassination of the famous president. The actor was a program boy in Ford's theater the night of the tragedy. Hazelton also served as a page in the United States senate during the impeachment trial of Andrew Johnson.

"It is more important to empty the orphanages of the country than the jails." This is the belief of Bessie Love the young screen actress whose role in "Forget-Me-Not" at the Oregon, starting today is that of Ann, an orphan girl. Having spent two weeks in an orphanage, and a well conducted one, in Los Angeles, before taking up the work of appearing as an orphan, Miss Love speaks with the authority of experience.

"I don't mean that children are treated unkindly in institutions. There undoubtedly are instances of harshness, but during the two weeks when I was an orphan to all outward appearances, I found unflinching consideration.

"But one thing that struck me was that there was, and could be, no lavishing of affection upon the children by an individual. And that, to me, seems depriving a child of one of the most important bulwarks of morality. The memory of mothers keeps more people straight than any other force in life. Mechanical kindness cannot compensate for it. And on that account, I believe that the task of the social worker should begin with the orphanage rather than with the reformatory and the jail. The latter two institutions are filled with the victims of wrong environments; and much of the wrong environment has been institutional. Let's get the children into homes where there's love to spare, and there'll be less occasion for the regeneration of adults."

The Hickman Bessey Stock company opened their weekly engagement at the Bligh theater last evening with one of the best comedy bills they have played. "The Man Who Owned Broadway." Mr. Hickman's version of the young city slicker in financial troubles is a scream from the rise of the curtain on the first act until the end of the third act. This clever comedy will be played again tonight and tomorrow night.

William S. Hart's famous Pinto pony has a big role in "The Testing Block," which comes to the Bligh theater today. Pinto stamps a bandit to death and displays extraordinary intelligence, as well as love for "Sierra" Bill, his master. Mr. Hart wrote the story which was pictured by Lambert Hillyer. Eva Novak heads the supporting cast.

Further the bill says: Fundamentals Object
"The objects of this act are to secure not only greater thoroughness in the teaching of fundamental branches, but also to instill into the minds of the young a well-grounded knowledge of and love for American institutions of government, American history and traditions, and American principles of liberty, including the fundamental principles that our government is essentially one of liberty under law."

Head of State Farm Bureau is Elected

WALLA WALLA, Jan. 16.—Soren Sorenson of Ellensburg was elected president of the state farm bureau federation at the conclusion of the annual convention of that organization here today. C. C. Williams of Benton county was chosen vice president and the executive committee elected is as follows: Mrs. Frank Yenney of Walla Walla; S. P. Whipple of Ellensburg; Clayton Smith of Greenacres, Spokane county; E. J. Doneen of Farmington, Whitman county and C. W. Orton of Sumner, Pierce county.

George A. Mansfield, president of the Oregon Farm Bureau federation was the speaker of the day attending both the bureau sessions and the Commercial club luncheon where he talked along the lines of organization for the common good of prosperity and general conditions in the United States.

Arrest of Members of Whipping Party Made

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 16.—Arrests of two, perhaps three alleged members of the Armand-Harrison whipping party at Goose Creek January 5 are expected momentarily. Sheriff T. A. Binford declared late today. He predicted that the Goose Creek case would be "history" within two or three days. The investigation into the whippings was continued until Tuesday by the Harris county grand jury. It is believed R. A. Armand, co-victim with Mrs. Harrison of the floggers would be brought to the grand jury room to give his version of the affair.

Pillow Case Squad Are Denied Use of Assembly

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Jan. 16.—The Ku Klux Klan was denied the use of the Woman's club auditorium here for a lecture to be delivered tonight by Reverend John C. Moore of Pine Bluff, Ark., following a conference between officials of the woman's club and R. H. Harden and W. E. Moody, members of the Klan, who arranged to have Moore deliver a lecture here in defense of the organization.

WOULD ENACT ANTI-NARCOTIC MEASURE

Bill Would Make Possession of Drugs Punishable by Imprisonment

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 16.—

A step towards immediate enactment of the Adam Beeler anti-narcotic bill was taken today when the house judiciary committee decided to report the bill out immediately with slight amendments and recommend it for final passage with an emergency clause attached making the act effective upon signing by the governor. The bill would make possession of drugs prima facie evidence of intent to sell and peddling would become a felony punishable by a one to ten-year sentence.

Introduction of a bill to prohibit the use of milk with vegetable oils in making milk and butter substitutes seemed likely today as a result of a meeting of the dairy and livestock committees of both houses. Such an act would be an effective bar to the production of these substitutes, it was said.

An appropriation of $300,000 for maintenance of public highways until April 1 will be recommended by the roads and bridges committees, it is understood. Consideration of the 1921 election laws will be taken up tomorrow evening by the joint committee on elections and privileges.

REGISTRATION GAINS

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 16.—Registration at the University of California here for the 1923 term to date totals 8,439 against 8,335 for a corresponding period a year ago.

ENGAGEMENT HARD TO TAKE

All London is Agog Over Success of Duke of York—Including the Duke

LONDON, Jan. 16.—(By the A. P.)—Everybody in London from the cockiest cockney to the most altitudinous aristocrat is 100 per cent agog today over the announcement of the Duke of York's engagement. People talked of it everywhere, in subways, in the street busses, in the homes and in the most gossipy of all places, the ubiquitous tea room.

Three "Pops" Occur

Here are some of the things regarding Prince Albert's engagement to Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, daughter of the Earl of Strathmore, one saw in the papers today:

"The Duke of York popped the question three times before he succeeded in getting 'yes' for an answer—the first time he proposed at a dance after Princess Mary's wedding; the second while golfing last September, and thirdly, last Sunday when he was the week-end guest at the Hartfordshire home of the earl."

It is said that after turning down the proffer, Lady Elizabeth received a letter from the queen, saying she was perfectly right not to marry the duke unless she loved him.

Perhaps the young duke was

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Rowies Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a good cream—Adv.

surprised by being accepted on Sunday as he had not brought an engagement ring. On Monday Prince Albert hurried to Sandringham to get his parents' approval and his successful accomplishment of this announced an hour later in the court circular. Today he and Lady Elizabeth and her mother lunched at the Strathmore town house.

The Horn of Plenty

SOME people fail to get the most out of life, because some mental kink makes them unable to see beyond the narrow limits of today. Although the sunbright road of tomorrow stretches out before them, it is obstructed by little, immediate things that really don't count.

Most of us hope to travel and see a bit of the world; to marry and maintain a respectable home; to read, rest, potter about, and enjoy life generally. But a lot of us are disappointed in our wishes. Why?

One reason is we don't handle money right. We don't save enough of it. Living only in today we fail to see tomorrow. That's a fact! That explanation may seem too easy, but it's true, just the same.

National Thrift Week, which begins today, Franklin's birthday, offers an opportunity, not only to honor this great American, but to profit by carrying out, in a practical way, his teachings in the art of living and the use of money.

This is National Thrift Day. As Benjamin Franklin said, "Money is of a prolific, generating nature." Open a bank account now and deposit regularly a fixed part of your earnings. See for yourself if you don't get a whole lot more enjoyment out of life. You WILL!
