BLIGH
Hickman Bessey Ctock company present "The Man Who Owned Broadway," a three-act comedy drama. Bill Hart in "The Testing Block."

Saturday, Harold Lloyd will return for a short stay at the Grand in "Dr. Jack." The picture will be shown to an orchestral accompaniment, the first real musical interpretation by an orchestra in Salem.

Bernard and Marsh, in their clever little offering, "The Pupil," consisting of comedy songs, talk and dancing, will be at the Bligh theatre today and tomorrow for matinee and evening.

Some people will wonder where Harold Lloyd found the "model" for his characterization in "Dr. Jack," his newest comedy feature comedy. The medical profession is full of "Dr. Jacks," or "Dr. Jack," to be more correct.

While Lloyd was making his new comedy, he had visits from many well known physicians who gave him valuable advice in the development of his story. One was Dr. Peck, an eminent eye, nose and throat specialist of Chicago.

When Dr. Peck had the story of "Dr. Jack" outlined to him by Lloyd, he laughed heartily, for it brought to his mind "Dr. Sunshine," as one of Chicago's foremost specialists in children's diseases is known.

"Dr. Sunshine" effects his cures just as Lloyd does in "Dr. Jack." Sunshine, a little candy, and wonders are worked by this noted Chicago physician, in his own peculiar way. In his medicine case—or what should be his medicine case—he carries jars of jelly, lollypops, and most everything else but medicine.

Lloyd had never heard of this doctor before his visit from Dr. Peck, who assured him, however, that in his many years of practice he had met many physicians who will probably be known as "Dr. Jacks," when the new Lloyd comedy is exploited throughout the country.

The Staffed Comedy Trio is an act of three young men whose harmony is very pleasing in popular and old songs. Laughs are numerous and the comic is really funny. The act is neat, classy and clean. Aside from their clever singing, they offer a line of comedy talk much of which is ad lib, all presented with beaming smiles and happy understanding, at the Bligh theatre today and tomorrow.

An authentic reproduction of New York's most famous artist's studio, one that has been frequently mentioned in connection with several romances, has been used as a setting in "Heedless Moths," the picture dealing with life in artists' studios, starring the beautiful Audrey Munson, starting at the Liberty today.

The picture presents the life-story of this world-famous art model, the struggles of Miss Munson to preserve her self-respect, and the private lives of the artists themselves realistically reproduced, carrying a message that can never be forgotten.

The settings and details of every scene are taken from actual reality, all of the interiors and locations, as well as some of the players themselves, being genuinely faithful to the scenes which they depict.

That is why "Heedless Moths" is so convincing. The spectator feels that he himself has gone through the same temptations and desires, that Audrey Munson experiences in the picture.

Another of those splendid casts that are characteristic of Paramount pictures has been assembled for "Singed Wings," Penryn Stanlaw's new production in which Bebe Daniels and Conrad Nagel are featured, and which starts at the Oregon today. Miss Daniels has the role of Bonita della Guerd, a beautiful Spanish cafe dancer, while Mr. Nagel plays the leading masculine part, that of Peter Gordon. Mr. Nagel is regarded as one of the screen's best young actors and his role in "Singed Wings" gives him ample opportunity to display his talent to the best advantage.

The heavy role is played by Adolphe Menjou, one of the best players of ballroom and polished villain roles. Don Jose della Guerd, grandfather of Bonita, is played by Robert Brower. An old man hardly able to walk with the aid of his cane and teased to exasperation by Emilio, a simple minded clown, Mr. Brower has created a character of great strength.

Ernest Torrence has the part of Emilio, one of the strongest characterizations in the picture. Emilio is a clown in the cafe at which Bonita dances. He is simple minded, but cunning nevertheless. He loves Bonita, who treats him kindly and thereby provokes a tragedy. The remaining role, that of Eve Gordon, the neglected wife of Bliss Gordon, is played by Mabel Trunelle. Finding herself losing the love of her husband, she faces death, and is killed in an effort to regain that love.

Helén Holmes, once famous the world over as queen of thrilling railroad serials, is at the Bligh this week. She is appearing with Hoot Gibson in his latest starring vehicle, "The Lone Hand," written by Ralph Cummins and directed by Reeves Eason. It is a story of a hard riding cowboy turned "salicler" for a day who, though vacation bent, runs into a hotbed of excitement. The star is supported by a brilliant cast including Marjorie Daw, William Welsh, Jack Pratt, Jim Corey, Hayden Stevenson, Robert Kortman and others.

Exceptional care was used by the casting director at Universal City in selecting the company which made "In the Days of Buffalo Bill," the historical chapter-play which is now being shown at the Bligh theatre. Art Acord, star of the piece, plays the part of Art Taylor, famous scout and Duke Lee interprets the character role of Buffalo Bill. Universal was most fortunate in obtaining the services of Joseph H. Hazleton, who is playing the part of Gideon Wells, secretary of the navy in Lincoln's cabinet. Mr. Hazleton was a program boy in the theatre at the time when Lincoln was assassinated and is able to give detailed accounts of the tragedy itself and of other events of the tragic time. His own account of the tragic event far surpasses any recounted in history.

The Dixie Minstrels at the Grand tonight are reputed to be "kings" of jazz and melody. Among the headliners are Willie Williams, acrobatic dancer, the Metro Trio, the Yoss Sisters, in their dance revue, and "Stringbean Oliver, the 'destroyer of sorrow." A regulation street parade will take place at noon today. At night the band will "double" and become the Jazz band orchestra. The showing is at popular prices.

It was said the ashes probably would be sent east.

Would Sell Gasoline Only in Red Cans

Repetition of the tragic Eugene fire last month in which eight persons lost their lives when a gasoline can was emptied into an open fire might be prevented by the enactment of a bill introduced by Representative Keeney of Eugene.

It was brought out at the time of the fire that one of the victims mistook a gasoline can for a kerosene container and the explosion followed.

Keeney's bill would require that gasoline could only be dispensed in cans painted red and clearly marked. Automobile tanks and similar containers are exempted.

DEVELOPMENT OF RADIO BEGUN 1890

Experiments Made from Old Tower of Late Dearborn Station

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—The recent burning of the old Dearborn station here recalls the fact that the clock tower which suffered particularly from the flames, figured in the beginning of radio development. In the summer of 1890, according to John W. Clarke, assistant chief engineer of the Chicago Eastern Indiana railroad aerials were rigged up from the tower and experiments were performed which while only partly successful, convinced the experimenters that wireless messages could be sent.

"Benjamin Thomas was general manager then," said Mr. Clarke. "Permission was obtained for a professor from Notre Dame to string aerials from the tower of the Tribune building. Messages were exchanged, but the messages were broken. It was concluded that the aerials were too low and that the noises of Dearborn street interfered."

J. E. Murphy, treasurer of the railroad company, said he remembered that such experiments were conducted from the old tower. Mr. Murphy and Mr. Clarke are among the oldest officials of the road in point of service. Most of the other officials entered the service of the company since 1890 and were therefore unaware of the part played by the Dearborn tower in the early history of wireless invention.
