Dr. Lutz. University of California Professor, Tells of Nuptial Affairs.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20 .-The tangled skein of the threads of romance that run through the his tomb in the valley of the kings of Egypt, were unfolded here today by Dr. H. F. Lutz, Egyptologist of the University of California.

Dr. Lutz produced the marriage scarab of Amenhotep and Til, which rests in a case in the anthropological museum at the Affiliated colleges, a branch of the university. He asserted it was the only Amenhotep scarab in America.

"Woven in its heiroglyphics is the story of a great love of a Pharoah of Egypt," said Dr. Lutz. Amenhotep was the father of Tutenkhamun and to understand Tutenkhamun one must know the he made queen of Egypt.

"Tutenkhamun accepted the religious doctrine of the one god while he was under the influence of Akenaton," said Dr. Lutz, but later broke away from it. Was a Commoner

"It was the custom of thatperiod to have marriage scarabs made, and the one now at the University of California is one of the few out of all those that announced the wedding of this king to his love, Til. The outstanding features of precipitation during the year compared with the normal were the large deficiencles in amount in the far northwest, especially in Western Washington, and also in the area from central Colorado southward. Tacoma, Wash., received but little more than half the normal annual rainfall, while in extreme western Texas and southeastern New Mexico, less than half the annual amount was received. There was a general deficiency in the Central-Northern states from the western upper lake region westward to the Rocky Mountains, except at a few points in Montana and North Da-
