

TAYLOR STILL SAYS INNOCENT

Bank Head Waives Examination—Willing to Face Charges.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Investigation of the financial operations of Joseph Marcino, barber-finance and alleged embezzler, shifted today from Chicago, Buffalo and Warren, Mass., to Italy when the detective agency in charge of the case asked its Italian office to find what were Marcino's activities when he was in Italy and also to find how he obtained large sums of money he is said to have brought back from there.

Marcino, also known as Halata, wanted in connection with the alleged embezzlement of $213,000 in securities from the Warren, Mass. National bank, operated in Chicago in 1921, it was learned today.

Frank L. Taylor, former railroad brakeman and the president of the Warren bank which was closed by bank examiners and who was arrested here Wednesday night, was arraigned today, waiting examination and extradition, expressed his willingness to go back to Warren to face embezzlement charges, and he held in $10,000 bonds. Taylor maintains he is innocent of the charges.

MEMBER OF KLAN WHO MAY BE INDICTED.

"New" Grey, a deacon of the Fellowship Baptist Church, shown on witness stand at Bantrop, La., open hearing on Mer Rouge murders, was identified as one of the hooded mob who kidnaped T. J. Richards and Watt Daniels, by Fred Eubanks, a farmer, one of the witnesses at hearing. The State of Louisiana now plans to ask for indictment of thirty men for kidnaping of the two Mer Rouge victims and indictment of at least five men for the murder of the two.

RETURN OF ALIEN PROPERTY WANTED

PROPERTY WANTED

Bill Passed by House Favors Return of $10,000 for Each Estate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Return of alien property seized during the war to the extent of $10,000 for each estate was approved in a bill passed by the house late today, 300 to 11, and sent to the senate. Efforts to amend the bill failed.

Just before the final vote Representative Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, moved to re-comit the bill to the interstate commerce committee with instructions to amend it to require return of all property held. His motion was rejected 181 to 124. Other proposed amendments would have put congress on record as favoring the return of all the property ultimately and would have provided for return of all property of Austrian nationals.

Patents to be returned under the present measure include only such as are not in litigation and not held by the war and navy departments. This will exclude the thousands of patents sold to the Chemical foundation, for the recovery of which the government has instituted court action.

Farm Bureau Officers to Be Elected Today

A twice-postponed election of officers for the Marion County Farm Bureau is to be held today at the Salem Chamber of Commerce rooms. At their regular election meeting, early in January, they learned of the coming of some important state visitors for the following week, and they deferred the election for the big crowd. Then when the crowd which they had to pass it over once more. But today they promise to settle the matter for good.

The bureau held a meeting at Woodburn Thursday of this week. The business men had wanted to know more of the bureau before endorsing it, and the farmers came in for an all-day session. What is reported from all sides as one of the most wonderful dinners ever served in the county, was served, and every business man in town was invited in. There were addresses by bankers, farmers, the secretary of the state Chamber of Commerce, and others; the net result being a definiite understanding on the part of the townsmen as to what the bureau is and what it seeks to do, and their own pledge to back it to the limit. About 200 people attended the dinner and the exercises.

WASTED EFFORT

An amusing incident occurred at a railway station in Switzerland just before the great war broke out, when the Swiss were beginning to refuse to accept foreign money or to make exchange for Swiss, or to cash letters of credit or bank checks. Two elderly English spinners were excitedly discussing the currency trouble. One of them smoothed out a Bank of England note and said to her sister: "There, Sarah, is a Bank of England note, which has been as good as gold all over the world since Christ came on earth, and these plenary Swiss won't take it." Someone told this incident afterward to a banker in London. He said they were very ignorant women; there were no Bank of England notes in Christ's time!"

ANTI-CLIMAX MARKS END OF SESSION

Both classes of settlers the right to purchase an additional quarter section each at a price to be fixed by the state land board. This opens the way for a compromise with the government, since it takes care of the interests of both the state and the government. The government objected to any interference with Silvers Blitzen rivers for reclamation purposes for the reason that federal authorities wanted the streams to feed the lake for the benefit of the Roosevelt bird reserve. This also is possible under the Ellis bill.

Coast Highway Aided Highway legislation was of minor importance with the exception of an act extending the plan whereby the state may match up to $250,000 moneys that may be appropriated by the government expressly for construction of the Roosevelt Coast Military highway. Another bill adds another cent tax on gasoline, making the total tax 3 cents, but amending the act of 1919 so that the tax is removed from gasoline other than that used in traffic on the state highways. This was bitterly opposed by some members for the reason that no decrease was allowed in automobile license fees. Another bill increases the maximum speed of motor buses to 30 miles an hour.

Several attempts were made to amend the initiative, referendum and recall acts to curb the activity of petition circulators, but these failed.

Bitter Fight Waged One of the bitterest fights of the session was over senate bill 215, placing dealers in municipal securities under the jurisdiction of the state corporation commissioner. Opponents of the bill declared it was aimed directly at Morris Brothers, but as it passed last night it was said to be satisfactory to that firm.

Circuit court relief in Multnomah county is the object of two bills that passed, one providing for the appointment of an additional circuit judge and another, sponsored by Senator Joseph, providing that when the chief justice names a judge from an outside district to hold court in Multnomah county he shall receive $5 a day in addition to his regular salary.

Tourists Not Aided Tourist legislation failed. After the ways and means committee had turned down appropriations asked by the Pacific Northwest Tourist association and the Oregon Tourist Information Bureau, Speaker Kubli revised the former by having a bill introduced to appropriate $40,000 for the association. This was best one in the senate. Last night an attempt was made to bring it back in amended form, but was frustrated.

Legislation featured with religious prejudices did not get far. The Woodward bill prohibiting public school teachers from wearing sectarian garb passed, but was approved by all elements.

Bills to eliminate Columbus day from the list of legal holidays and to repeal the law providing for both Protestant and Catholic chaplains at the penitentiary failed. No attempt was made to advance the effective date of the compulsory public school bill that was passed by the people in November.

Bills attempting to place a tax on church property and on hospitals failed.

Woodward Bills Fail Three bills introduced by Representative Woodward, one providing for free text-books, another proposing that all electors in school districts be allowed to vote on questions affecting school finances and another calling for dental inspection in public schools all failed.

There was little legislation of military character. An attempt was made to cut the salary of the adjutant general and another to provide that he might be removed at any time by the governor. Both failed. After the ways and means committee turned down an appropriation for maintenance of the battleship Oregon in Portland harbor it was revived and went through.

The Eddy bill providing for more thorough groundwork in fundamentals and patriotism in the public schools was defeated in the house by one vote after it had been opposed strenuously by the school teachers and superintendents of the state.

Literary Test Approved Considered among important enactments is the sterilization bill, intended to curb the propagation of feeble-minded and criminally inclined persons. Another important bill requires a literary test for voters.

The old wild animal bounty system was repealed and in its place was enacted the so-called hunter system whereby counties have the option of using government hunters to chase down predatory animals. They are paid jointly by the counties and the government.

The reforestation bill was vetoed by the governor. Representative Graham's market road bill which proposed the creation of a revolving fund as bonds are retired failed to pass.

The so-called "farm bloc" of the legislature walked away with two prizes tucked under its arm in the form of a bill defining the standards of ice cream and a bill to prohibit the use of milk or milk products in milk or butter substitutes containing vegetable oils. The per centage of butterfat and milk solids not fat in ice cream is raised by the ice cream bill.

A referendum has been threatened by the oleomargarine and filled milk manufacturers against the "oleo" bill.

Film Tax Quashed At the request of Governor Pierce, the attorney general's office drafted and submitted a bill to impose a tax on the rentals and royalties of motion picture films exhibited in the state. The bill was given rough treatment in the house judiciary committee, but was finally rescued yesterday morning and passed after a bitter fight in the house. The senate killed the bill late Thursday night. It would have imposed a tax of 5 per cent on the gross income from such royalties and rentals.

Under the provisions of the Kirkwood narcotic law approved by the governor the penalties for the use, possession or sale of narcotics are greatly increased, in line with the growing demand for curtailment of the dope traffic.

Enforcement Demanded The same general approval was given all legislation offered by the Anti-Saloon league and allied organizations, with the result that a state prohibition enforcement organization headed by the govern-
