called for the Highland school tonight to talk over the impending school bond election. The Highland school has the unenviable distinction and aggravation of being the worst crowded building in all the Salem school system, and the people are to meet to learn just how badly off they are and how they can help to make conditions better. Some members of the school board and of the Chamber of Commerce public affairs committee will be there, to help in giving information on existing conditions elsewhere in the city.

Auction of Furniture—Saturday 1 p. m. Stiff's Auction House, corner Liberty and Court streets.—Adv.

Swift's Fertilizers—For easy terms. C. S. Bowne, phone 353.—Adv.

Big Carrot Exhibited—Joe Schindler, living at 1503 Chemeketa street brought a carrot down town that he raised in his garden, that must come near to a record. It weighs just six pounds in its bare feet, naked as it came into the world and it looks like a good square meal for the hungriest cow that ever hung up a world's record for milk. The original too-small skin is cracked in a dozen places where the fillin's crowded their way through.

Victor Trask—The realm of mystery, at Dreamland Saturday night.—Adv.

Idaho People Guests—Mr. and Mrs. John H. Nordreist of Wallace, Idaho, are guests at the Argo, on their way home after spending the winter in California. Their destination is only 15 miles from the eastward auto limit, for the snow is still fathoms deep in the mountain passes through the main continental divide, only 16 miles east of Wallace, and will not be open for two months or more. But they can go home from there without trouble.

Smart Millinery—For the smart woman, new arrivals daily. We carry the nationally known Meadowbrook hats. The French Shop, 115 N. High St.—Adv.

Shrine Band Coming—Salem is to be visited on April 7 by the nationally famous Shrine Patrol band of Portland, the Shrine chapters, and some other Shrine entertainers who are to give a concert in the armory. The Shrine band, which is an all-Oregon organization, is raising funds for the trip to Washington to the national Shrine convention to advertise Oregon and the northwest. The total cost of their trip is estimated at close to $35,000, and they already have more than half of the money from concert and fair work around Portland. It is expected to make this band one of the biggest features of the whole national carnival, and to boost Oregon before literally millions of eastern people.

Captain to Speak—Captain Morris of the Salvation army will speak tonight at the West Salem Methodist church. Rev. Irwin G. Ireton will lead the song service before the speaking.

Caretakers Eat Oysters—A big social evening was planned.

The entertainers did not arrive, however, so the locals entertained themselves with all the big oyster feed and all the important trimmings. The evening was not allowed to become a total or even a partial loss, for the oysters and good things held out to the ast hoi in every belt.

Band Will Rehearse—Director Oscar Steelhammer announces that the first rehearsal of the Cherrian band for the season of 1923 is to be held in the city hall next Wednesday night, March 7. He has found a number of good new players, and while the personnel of the completed band will not be known for two or three weeks, he is able to predict a bigger, better band than ever before. They will rehearse once a week, and the individual players will play all over town at their own homes and places of business, in getting ready for the concert season.

PERSONAL

Mrs. Mary Erikson, superintendent of county schools has just returned from a visit of schools at Gates, Mill City, Silver Falls, Union Hill, Rock Point, Mt. Angel and Hazel Dell.

Notice of dissolution was filed by the Paisley Building association of Paisley, Lake county.

DIRECTORY WILL BE MADE PUBLIC

Salem Chamber of Commerce to Print List of Members by Vocations.

Following the action voted upon last night by the board of directors of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, a full list of all the club members will soon be published in both of the Salem daily newspapers. Under the general slogan of "Patronize those who are boosting your city," these hundreds of names are to be given to the public, so that everybody may know just who they are.

The Chamber is to have prepared a concise, compact booklet, giving a great amount of business information to meet the demands that are coming in to the office, 20 to 25 a day. Industrial statistics, the payroll, the chances for jobs, the various business represented, the area and productivity and condition of all the territory within the Salem trading area, the roads, the climate, the schools, and other facts that prospective citizens wish to know, will be given in an attractive, graphic way for general distribution.

TRAINING GIVEN IN HIGH SCHOOLS

Education Department Strives to Meet Unprosperous Condition.

To meet an unprosperous condition that exists in the state at present, J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of schools, has consented to make arrangements whereby teachers' training courses offered in standard high schools having at least two teachers the equivalent of a course in normal school. This is done for the reason that many parents in the state have informed the state educational department that they cannot afford to send their daughters to the normal school for 24 weeks following their high school course.

"During the last session of the legislature," says a letter addressed by Mr. Churchill to the county superintendents of the state, "several different bills were prepared and their introduction requested from members of the legislature by many citizens who are interested in repealing the law governing the elementary teachers' training course.

"The men responsible for the preparation of the bills urged that the financial conditions of the state are such that parents cannot afford to send their girls to the normal school at Monmouth after the completion of four years of high school work and have them remain at the institution for a period of 24 weeks before being permitted to take the examination.

"Realizing, as this department does, the condition generally throughout the state, we have consented to declare as the equivalent of the course, the teachers' training course offered through the last year of a standard high school as outlined by this department, provided the work be done in a high school having at least two teachers. A one-teacher high school will not be permitted to offer the teachers' training course next year."

Authority of law is cited for this ruling.

"We are notifying all standard high schools having more than one teacher," the letter continues, "that the teachers' training course may be offered next year by any high school that will meet the state's requirements. We do not advise any high school, however, to undertake to do this work unless the principal of the high school feels that he has the approval and support of the people in his district for getting, from the elementary schools, the required amount of practice teaching, as is made necessary for one completing the teachers' training course in Oregon. One completing the teachers' training course will receive a certificate valid for one year, which certificate will be renewable for another year after six months of successful teaching.
