

The Greatest Opportunity of a Lifetime Open to Boys, Girls and Grown Ups Interested In Pure Bred Chickens

THE NORTHWEST POULTRY JOURNAL

The oldest and largest of the Pacific Coast poultry and pet stock magazines, a recognized leader in its class in the West, is THE NORTHWEST POULTRY JOURNAL, which was established in Salem, the Oregon state capital city, more than 26 years ago.

It contains from 40 to 60 pages each month and is well edited, printed and nicely illustrated. Among its regular writers are some of the leading poultry judges, poultry specialists and most successful breeders of the Northwest. It has always borne the reputation of being reliable and progressive, a fact much appreciated by its management and a reputation it hopes to maintain throughout the succeeding years.

No line of poultry and pet stock breeding is neglected or overlooked in its columns. It has a fine and ably-edited rabbit department and interesting articles are published from time to time on turkeys, ducks, geese, guinea fowl and pigeons, as well as canaries and other pet stock.

This publication has the largest circulation of any poultry magazine published west of Chicago, its claim of being read by 90 per cent of the poultrymen and pet stock raisers of the Pacific Northwest being no idle boast, and its subscription list is increasing very rapidly.

Advertisers find its columns bring them quick and excellent returns as the very complimentary and unsolicited testimonials published in its columns every month are conclusive evidence of proof.

Not only are its columns devoted to fancy and standard-bred poultry, but it is a tireless booster for the commercial poultryman, devoting more space than any other poultry magazine in the country to the various egg-laying competitions, farm poultry demonstrations, poultry culling demonstrations and poultry experiment reports from the government and various agricultural colleges, as well as reports of the various poultry shows and smaller exhibits. A little spice and pep is added through its much commented upon wit and humor page.

These facts, together with its low subscription price (75 cents per year) has given this poultry magazine wonderful prestige throughout the Pacific Northwest, in which vast territory it wields no little influence among the poultrymen and is deservedly popular.

The PURE BRED CHICKEN PRIZES

Pens and trios of high class fowls from some of the best stock in the United States, some pedigreed and trapnested and the rest from the best prize winning stock on the Pacific Coast, worth from $25 to $50 for the trios and from $50 to $250 for the pens. This is the kind of stock these well known poultrymen of the Pacific Northwest are furnishing us for this great NORTHWEST POULTRY JOURNAL subscription campaign.

THE HOLLYWOOD PEN (FIVE BIRDS)

The famous Hollywood pen includes a cockerel from a 275 egg per year dam and sire from a 283 egg dam. The four hens in this pen have trapnested records of from 230 to 239 eggs for pullet year, a pen that will give the winner the very best foundation stock direct from the Hollywood Farm, Hollywood, Wash.

THE ARMSTRONG PEN (FIVE BIRDS)

The wonderful offering from the Inwood Lehigh Farm, C. E. Armstrong, proprietor, Corvallis, Oregon, comprises four hens with trapnested records of 200 eggs each, headed by a cockerel from a 251 egg hen and sired by a male from a 315 egg Hollywood hen. This pen will give some one a start on the road to sure success in poultry keeping.

HANSON PEDIGREED LEGHORNS (3 BIRDS)

The Hanson White Leghorns which have made good winnings in two continents should prove a prize to be coveted by any poultryman. This trio comprises two hens with trapnested records of 249 and 260 eggs respectively, the cockerel being from a 285 egg hen and sired by a male from a 300 egg hen. This trio comes direct from Hanson Pedigreed Leghorn Farm, J. A. Hanson, proprietor, Corvallis, Oregon.

MILLER'S POULTRY FARM (5 BIRDS)

The prize pen from Miller's Poultry Farm, Harry Miller, proprietor, Newberg, Oregon, includes one 237 egg hen, one 242 egg hen, one 248 egg hen, one 251 egg hen, headed by a cockerel with a 277 egg dam and 291 egg sire's dam. This grand mating will furnish foundation stock good enough to start any poultryman on the road to success.

WALNUT CREST FARM (5 BIRDS)

The Walnut Crest Farm prize pen, bred by Wire & Son, proprietors, Newberg, Oregon, is a particularly valuable offering. This pen of high producing pedigree hens, 200 eggs and better, is headed by a cockerel from "Prince Albert," one of the best breeding White Leghorn males on the coast. His dam laid 305 eggs, his granddam 309 eggs, his sire's dam 323 eggs. This male is a big upstanding, vigorous fellow and his pullets are "making good" in two laying contests. The winner of this pen will have something to be proud of.

SILVER QUILL LEGHORNS (TRIO)

Hands & Son, Cottage Grove, Oregon, who have built up the wonderful laying strain of "Silver Quill White Leghorns," are offering in our subscription campaign a most valuable trapnested trio of their best birds. The two hens have a pullet year record of 250 and 219 eggs respectively, and the cockerel is from a hen above 250 eggs average a year. This trio will produce some mighty valuable young stock and is a prize worth working for.

ILL-A-HEE BARRED ROCKS (TRIO)

The fine prize furnished by Butler's Poultry Farm, Jennings Lodge, Oregon, includes two wonderful Barred Rock hens of the famous Ill-A-Hee strain which has made such sensational records in both the Santa Cruz and Puyallup egg laying contests. These two pedigreed hens have 200 egg records and the cockerel is from a 250 egg hen, sired by one of the best cocks on the Butler Poultry Farm. This prize is surely worth striving for.

KLEINSMITH BARRED ROCKS (TRIO)

Who has not heard of the wonderful egg laying records of Mrs. H. C. Kleinsmith's great strain of Barred Plymouth Rocks in the Santa Cruz and Puyallup egg laying contests? We are fortunate in securing a wonderful high pedigree trio of these great producing fowls from Mrs. Kleinsmith, Hoff, Oregon, to offer as a prize in this subscription contest. These hens already have a 226 egg record to their credit and the cockerel comes from even higher producing ancestors. The winner of the Kleinsmith trio can begin his poultry work with stock good enough to compete in any of the great contests of the country.

NEEDHAM'S BABY CHICKS (FIFTY)

Here is a prize worth while. Your choice of high class baby chicks from either of the following popular standard breeds, from pens mated to produce excellent producers of standard type: White Leghorns, Barred Rocks, R. I. Reds, White Rocks, Black Minorcas and Anconas. C. N. Needham, the Salem, Oregon, baby chick man, has a Northwest reputation for the excellence of his stock and his fair dealings. Repeat orders is evidence of this fact. This is a real prize.

KIRSCHCROFT RHODE ISLAND WHITES (TRIO)

Here we have a trio of the famous Mt. Hood hardy strain of Rhode Island Whites, which A. H. Kirsch has spent a lot of money and time breeding up for eggs and standard qualifications on his poultry and fruit farm at Boring, Oregon. The winner of this prize trio will have something to show his friends with pride, and they will prove money makers if given half a chance.

PRESCOTT'S SALMON FAVEROLLES (TRIO)

Those who have attended the state fairs and big poultry shows will remember that Prescott's Salmon Faverolles are always there and so are the blue ribbons on his coops. The Faverolles are a warm feathered, cold proof fowl, built for winter laying and are among the best of the general purpose fowls. The winner of this trio will have something to be proud of.

HATTON'S RHODE ISLAND WHITES (TRIO)

Here is a strain of Rhode Island Whites that has won the blue ribbons in all of the big Northwest shows, and they are also bred to lay eggs. The winner of Hatton's Hatton's Rhode Island White trio, bred in their poultry yards at 438 E. 23rd Street, Portland, Oregon, will have something that will produce blue ribbon winners in the shows and keep the egg basket well filled.

MARRIE POLTRY FARM REDS (TRIO)

Here we have a commercial poultry plant stocked with heavy producing trapnested Rhode Island Reds. A Trio of select Marrie Reds is worth a lot of money, because this strain of Reds is a money maker for the poultryman. This is another valuable prize for some one. The Marrie Poultry Farm is located near Milwaukie, Oregon (P. O. Box 260).

STINGLEY'S ANCONAS (TRIO)

Anconas are growing rapidly in public favor and are beginning to appear in the commercial egg plants, it being found that carefully culled trapnested stock will produce eggs equal to any of the laying breeds. Stingley's Anconas are bred for standard qualifications as well as egg production and are well known throughout the Northwest for their excellence. His Ancona farm is at Junction City, Oregon, Route 3.

GRIFFIN'S WHITE WYANDOTTES (TRIO)

There is not a poultryman on the coast who has not seen J. A. Griffin's famous White Wyandottes in the state fairs or shows, or who has not heard of them at least. They are par excellence, and are bred for eggs as well as to win the ribbons in the shows. Here is a real prize worth the best efforts of any boy or girl. The home of Griffin's White Wyandottes is Eugene, Oregon.

IMPERIAL BLACK MINORCAS (TRIO)

The Imperial strain of Black Minorcas, bred by Rick & Kinnear, Vancouver, Wash., Route 1, Box 74K, has been winning a full share of the prizes in all of the big Northwest fairs and shows. They also lay big white eggs and lots of them and the demand for their stock and eggs is great. We were fortunate indeed to procure the promise of a fine prize trio from them. It means a big winning for some one.

DOWNING'S WHITE ROCKS (TRIO)

The old White Rock breeders of the coast were given the surprise of their lives when Walter Downing of Salem, Oregon, began exhibiting his famous Habach strain of White Rocks in the state fairs and poultry shows the past two seasons. In the hottest competition he received many valuable first and second prizes and his White Rocks are also the laying kind. Get busy and capture this prize if you want something good.
