"The critical financial situation in which the war has placed Belgium makes the payment of reparations absolutely indespenable to her. She does not, however, stake her financial salvation on German payments.

"They have a saying in Amwas indeed a splendid young erica, heaven helps him who helps himself -- an axiom which Belgium is endeavoring to rollow, as the enormously increased yields of taxation show. While the revenues from taxation realized only 350,000,000 francs in 1919, they figure over 2,000,-000,000 in the budget of 1923 and still further taxes await the tatification of parliament.
