

WEST STAYTON PEOPLE MEET

Community Building Theme in Enthusiastic Gathering
Friday Night.

A great local community meeting was held at West Stayton Friday night for the purpose of building up a local community spirit and a general enthusiasm for Oregon products of all kinds. It was under the name of "Oregon Products Dinner," and almost 500 people were present to help and to enjoy the best products of the state—its good things to eat and its good people.

A playlet, entitled Hans von Shuss, was very creditably presented by local talent, composed of the following persons: Mrs. Nathalie Ireland, Mrs. T. R. McClellan, Miss Hattie Dively, Mr. Dewey Dively, T. R. McClellan, W. S. Kinney and Loyd Dively. Miss Mildred Anderson sang "In the Land Where the Shamrock Grows," and Miss Walton, of Salem, gave several delightful readings. H. M. Crane, an enthusiastic West Stayton "booster" recited an original poem, "Just West of Stayton Grove." Miss Olive Crane also gave a reading, and Fred Jobelmann, member of Salem's "Melody Five" orchestra, gave a cornet solo, "The Rosary."

The most interesting part of the program, however, was undoubtedly the radio entertainment so generously provided by F. B. Barton, of the Salem Electric company, who transported his best radio receiving outfit from Salem to West Stayton.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McClellan, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McClellan, Jr., Oscar Stall, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Dickens, A. E. Bradley and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Mills, Henry Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Hammer, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Judy Condit, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Condit, Mrs. Frank Lathrop and son, Mr. and Mrs. Irish Miller, R. L. Howard, Professor E. S. McCormick and Mrs. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nipple, Mr. and Mrs. Milton McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Nipple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Howard, Fred Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. George Opp, Mr. and Mrs. Mayro McKinney, Mrs. M. Kenney, Mrs. Lulu Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Al Beal, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Olds, Mr. Mrs. G. W. Beal and F. S. Barton.

From Salem there were A. E. Hochstetler, Fred W. Jobelmann, Sr., Miss Lela Walton, Mrs. L. A. Humphreys and daughter, J. T. McDonald, Miss Taylor and Fred Jobelmann, Jr.

Liberty was also represented in the persons of Carl Gibson and family.

Turner, Aumsville, Marion, West Stayton, Salem, Stayton and Liberty were represented. One of the most important events of the program was an address on "Community Building," by Fred Jobelmann of Salem.

PLAN TO ROB PAY-ROLL THWARTED

deep gash and accounting for the only blood drawn among the citizens. Other bullets struck the car. The chase was taken up by cars from Buckley, one bearing Marshal Klingenberg and Harold Phelps. An automatic shotgun used from this car succeeded only in marring the bandit machine. Bullets from the marshal's revolver er proved more effective and after about two miles of the chase the car halted and indicated that a surrender would be made. Rip-oil leaped from the car and dashed into the timber along the highway. He was captured after a two-mile chase by Marshal Klingenberg and was returned to Buckley. The three men were returned to Buckley, where their wounds were treated by Dr. J. H. Sheets.

Robbery Long Planned
The robbery attempt, planned for more than a month, was intended to capture the bi-weekly payroll for the miners of the Pacific Coast Coal company at Burnett.

The money regularly leaves Seattle the day before it is to be paid out at the mine and is taken to Tacoma where it is held overnight. In the morning it is taken via train to Burnett, where it is received by W. H. McCullough, paymaster.

"I have long feared that an attempt would be made to capture the payroll," said McCullough Saturday. "So I was ready. When the call came from South Prairie I ran to my car and took up the pursuit, expecting to cut off the robbers before they passed Buckley cutoff. They beat me and I kept after them. When they reached Buckley I was about six hundred yards behind them."

T B HOSPITAL NEEDS RADIO SET

Portland News Has Taken
Up Job of Trying to Provide Equipment.

At the state tuberculosis hospital at Salem there is no radio apparatus.

Day by day the inmates, all citizens of Oregon, wander about the grounds.

The only messages from the outside are by letter from friends.

They want to hear the world talk.

A radio outfit with "horn," of course, is the answer.

How can they get one?

The inmates have asked the News to devise some method for securing a radio set.

Readers of the News who see a way out should communicate with the managing editor.—Portland News.

Public Market to Open at State and Commercial

A public market will be opened in the building formerly occupied by the Busick grocery store about April 1, according to plans completed yesterday. The building has been leased by G. Klorin, owner of the Bako-Rite bakery, and D. Samuel and they will begin remodeling the property at once.

Mr. Samuel has recently returned from California where he looked over public market conditions there and he plans to arrange for stalls to rent within the market which he will open. Mr. Klorin has taken a stall already where bakery goods from his store will be sold.

The building in which the market will be opened is owned by Chester G. Murphy of Portland and the monthly rental is rumored to be about $250 although the lessors would make no definite statement as to the rental.

HUNDERUP DRAWS LARGE CROWDS

Stories and Sermons of Evangelist Thaw Out the Starchy Christians.

Record breaking crowds attended the First Baptist church all last week to hear Hunderup, the "whirlwind evangelist." And every night the interest deepened. Hunderup is a first-class cure for starchiness. It is amusing to see some prim folks try to get shocked at first, and then to watch them thaw out. He said the other night:

"Some of you folks don't like my stories. But there is one of me and if you could see all the things I don't like in the bunch of you, you'd cry quits. Moreover, I'll forgive what I don't like in you if you forgive me. If you don't you'll not go to heaven."

The evangelist likened some cantankerous Christians to a dog that sat and howled at the top of his lungs. A passing stranger stopped and looked at him for a few moments, then said:

"You've got a mighty sick dog there, partner."

"Sick dog nothing," said his owner. "That dog ain't sick. He's just plumb lazy."

"Uh-huh! That's what I said!"

"What does he howl for, then?"

"He's howlin' because he's sittin' on a sand burr and is too lazy to get off."

The application was that some Christians sat right down upon a condition that they did not like and raised a howl instead of shutting up and getting busy to better things.

Mr. Hunderup will speak this morning upon "Seeing a Vision and Hearing a Voice." His evening theme will be: "The Leader of a Hard Gang in a Bad City."

No service Monday evening, but the evangelist preaches every other evening this week.

Several weeks ago Chief Birtheist instructed the patrolmen to watch Anderson's movements whenever they saw him on the street. This resulted in his arrest Friday night. Following his arrest his room was searched by the officers and articles found that led to his confession of other offenses.

DEMAND GILBERT BACK AT SCHOOL

Grange Would Dictate to Governor Relative to State
Institution.

Charging that the expenses of the boys' training school have been greatly increased through the imposition of a superintendent from another state, Salem Grange No. 17 adopted a resolution demanding the reinstatement of former Superintendent L. M. Gilbert, at its regular meeting held in Salem Grange hall yesterday morning.

The resolution, which was passed by 75 members present, states that because former Superintendent was eminently capable and successful in his work and that since his deposition expenses at the training school have been greatly increased, Mr. Gilbert should be immediately reinstated. The Grange plans to bring a copy of the resolution before Governor Pierce and to mail duplicates to all granges throughout the state.

Members from five subordinate granges outside of Salem were in attendance. At noon a lunch was served in the grange hall. The afternoon program consisted of music, reading and speeches from various members of the grange.

A talk was given by A. E. Zimmerman on "Co-operation," followed by an address by Mrs. Jennie Van Trump who spoke on "Landscaping the House Grounds." Miss R. T. Smith spoke on the compensations and joys of farm life and S. H. Van Trump on "Scientific Orchard Management."

Highest Impounded Dam Finished in California

MODESTO, Cal., March 17.—Don Pedro, the world's highest impounded dam, located on the Tuolumne river, above La Grange, will be completed March 14, according to Percy F. Jones, engineer of the Modesto irrigation district. The dam, which is owned jointly by the Modesto-Turlock irrigation districts, cost, together with the power plant, approximately $6,000,000.

The only construction work remaining for the dam proper, Engineer Jones says, is the filling of a hole near the center. This hole is about 10 feet deep and 30 feet wide.

The power house has been completed and workmen are engaged at present in cleaning up the construction refuse, and are preparing for connecting up the heavy transmission lines which are completed being organized and two of the large generator units are being operated continuously for tests before connecting up to the district distribution lines.

A total of 500 men have been employed on the project, the ground for which was formally broken June 24, 1921. The districts are to have the benefit of the 280,000-acre feet of stored water which the dam will impound for the 1923 crop season.

The base of the dam in the river is 176 feet; the dam is 285 feet high and 1000 feet long across the crest, which is an arc. The dam was constructed below the $3,800,000 estimate of the districts' engineers and the power plant cost $1,200,000.

Minnesota Musicians
at Silverton, Monday

SILVERTON, Or., March 17.—(Special to The Statesman.)—Silverton music lovers are going to receive a treat Monday night when the St. Olaf band from St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., appears in concert at the Eugene Field auditorium. The band is well known throughout the state, especially those of the middle west. A special treat will be the solos by Miss Gertrude Bos, who is traveling with the band as vocal soloist. Miss Bos is not entirely unknown here although she has never appeared in person. She has often sung from WOAI, a Minnesota broadcasting station.
