LOGANBERRY CASE GETS FINAL ORDER
Decree in Compliance With Supreme Court Mandate Is Handed Down.

Under a decree signed jointly by Circuit Judge George H. Bingham and Percy R. Kelly Wednesday afternoon, damages to the extent of $122,440 are to be paid by 68 growers to The Phez company while the Salem Fruit union is to be permitted to collect $1410 as judgment against The Phez company. By the decree rendered in the circuit court the mandate of the supreme court was carried out in the nature of damages for breach of contract, the loganberry prices having advanced from 9 cents in 1919 to 13 cents in 1920 with the result that the growers were tempted to break their contracts. According to the agreement made between the Northwest Fruit Products company, predecessor of The Phez company and growers, the Fruit Union would accept and the Northwest company would pay 10 cents a crate in full settlement of damages sustained by failure of growers to make deliveries on their contracts.

A bonus of $5 a ton was paid by the Salem Fruit union on deliveries with the understanding that it would later be refunded which was not done.
