PHIL BAYES GRABS DECISION IN BOUT WITH YOUNG ARCHER

Phil Bayes of Salem won a decisive victory over Soldier Archer of San Diego at the Company F boxing program last night. Archer, weighing 131 pounds, had a four-pound advantage in weight and three inches in height over Bayes, and it was good fighting weight and height at that. He started in to intimidate the local boy in the first 10 seconds, and he certainly did come in like a wildcat to a canary bird convention. It was as pretty an onslaught as ever happened. It would have been a howling success if Bayes had taken to his heels when he saw it coming.

But looks don't count. Archer has a heavyweight left hook that would stand and take it. Bayes didn't. He slipped inside and began his work. Archer is a good man with a good record, but Bayes beat him in every round, and had him down and all but out in the first, third and sixth rounds.

Archer Lasts Well. Archer, with his long reach, was able to make the match last longer than some of them would. His heavy, long range left artillery wasn't quite fast enough to connect, and with that failing he hadn't a thing but disposition. He said after it was all over that Bayes is the hardest little hitter he ever met, and that he was beaten by a better man. The crowd, and the referee agreed, so it's unanimous.

BHJ Hunt and Young Peter Jackson did not appear. Jackson hurt his hand so badly that he had to go to a Portland hospital for a surgical operation, and he could not appear. Their places were filled by Fred Nichols of Klamath Falls, 130, and Frank Healy of Portland, announced at 134, although both looked to weigh more than the announced figures. They were rightfully booed in the beginning for their loving tactics. By the end of the sixth round both were so tired that a two-year-old might have knocked them both for a home run. They got a draw. The referee couldn't decide which was the poorest, and he called it a dead heat.

Lindley Beats Banks. The Fox Midgets of Independence put on four rounds of clever boxing, which made a great hit. They are growing up, and some day are going to be no more midgets.

Chet Lindley won from Armin Banks in the first round. It was a hair raising time while it lasted with each scoring three knockdowns, but Banks' last one lasted the longest, and he was through. Kid Kream, Indian champion, met the first defeat he has known at the hands of Lefty O'Dell of San Francisco. Kream put up a game fight, but he was up against a hard professional whose experience and ability was too much for the local boxer. There was no knockdown until the fifth, when Kream took the count of nine. Apparently he was not in good training, and he needed the very best he could get for as tough an opponent as O'Dell. The San Franciscan earned the decision.

Again This Week. Archer goes against Kewpie

Riley at Portland the last of this week, and unless the lathy Riley works pretty cautiously he is likely to get an Archer fist practically through him. Bayes beat Riley by a wide margin recently. Bayes himself is to meet Benny Dotson, one of the new Portland feather-weight flashes, on the same program. Bayes has been taking on bigger men than himself regularly. He will not do this with Dotson. The largest crowd of the season attended the program, and the whole show was good. Even the substitute match ended with the crowd in a comfortable frame of mind, and the Bayes-Archer go was one of the best in the history of Salem boxing.

Commission Not to Let Firpo Box Farmer Lodge

NEW YORK, March 27.—Throwing a bomb into plans arranged for the heavyweight show at the Yankee stadium May 12, the New York state athletic commission today barred Farmer Lodge, Minneapolis heavyweight, as an opponent for Luis Firpo, South American champion, in a match carded on the same program with the Jess Willard-Floyd Johnson encounter.

Declaring that Lodge was not a suitable opponent for the Argentinian pugilist, William Muldoon, chairman of the commission, ordered that either Jack Renault of Canada, Jim Herman of Omaha or Jack McAuliffe II of Detroit be chosen as a substitute.

Pugilists Must Take on Challengers, Says Board

NEW YORK, March 27.—Characterizing its action as a declaration of war against ring champions who persist in ignoring challenges of logical contenders for their titles, the New York state athletic commission today adopted a drastic ruling compelling pugilistic kings to go through with challenge matches before taking part in any other bouts in this state.

The ruling came as a virtual ultimatum to a number of champions who have failed to recognize challenges for their honors.

TO CONTINUE PROBE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—A request by Oscar Reichow, business manager of the Los Angeles club that he drop his investigation of the recent purchase of the Seattle club, was refused today by William H. McCarthy president of the Pacific Coast Baseball league, according to McCarthy.

SQUIRE EDGE GATE—Facts Finally Come Out

- Jury in Confidence Ring Case Deadlocked
DENVER, Colo., March 27.—Additional instructions probably will be given the jury deadlocked over a verdict in the trial of 20 alleged members of a nation-wide confidence ring. Judge George Dunklee today informed the jurors who have been out more than 80 hours that he expected them to reach a verdict and urged the minority to consider carefully whether the majority in the jury room was not right. Unconfirmed reports tonight were that the prosecution tomorrow would ask the court to instruct the jury to return a verdict of guilty and bolster their demand with citations of authority for such action.
- Suspenders are again said to be coming in fashion, perhaps for the reason that the world is pretty much in a state of suspense all the time nowadays.

RESERVATION FOR FISH IS PLANNED

U. S. Bureau of Fisheries Grant Concessions to Packing Companies

SEATTLE, Wash., March 27.—Modifications in the regulations made and concessions granted by the United States bureau of fisheries under an executive order of President Harding forming a fish reservation in Southwestern Alaska were reported here today by I. M. Foster, head of the Allitak Packing company, who went to Washington with a protest. Mr. Foster said that his own company and other "small operators" were now satisfied with the restrictions.

Mr. Foster related that after he and Otto Hafstad of the Katmai Packing company had conferred with Henry O'Malley, fish commissioner, a permit to the Robinson Fisheries company, one of the "small operators" had been changed so that it could fish near the mouth of the Kapluk river, the principal salmon stream of Kodiak island, and the Katmai company had been authorized to buy fish in four bays that were closed to it.

Part of the protest was occasioned by licenses empowering the Alaska Packers' association and the Northwestern Fisheries company to build a weir across the mouth of the Kapluk and take 50 per cent of the fish passing this barrier. Mr. Foster said that this privilege was cancelled and these companies restricted to beach seine fishing as in previous years.

"The small packers feel that any injustice which may have been done when the licenses were issued has been corrected," declared Mr. Foster. "In any effort to conserve the fishing resources of Alaska it is inevitable that somebody should be hurt."
