

SPECIAL SERVICE ON GOOD FRIDAY

Program for St. Paul's Episcopal Church Is Announced by Rector

Good Friday services will be held from noon until 3 o'clock tomorrow at St. Paul's Episcopal church. Eight talks will be given during the three hours on the seven words of Christ.

Those who may desire to attend the services may come at any time during the three hours, according to Rev. H. D. Chambers, rector of St. Paul's church. Those coming should not remain for the full time.

ADDRESS GIVEN ON RESURRECTION

President Doney Speaks to Rotarians on Passion Week Subject

President Carl G. Doney of Willamette university on Wednesday gave his third Easter week club address, when he addressed the Rotary club luncheon on "The Meaning of the Resurrection." All the dinner clubs of the city have been devoting their Passion Week program to Christian services. Dr. Doney has spoken to three, already.

The music for the day was an anthem by the quartet choir from the First Presbyterian church. They sang an Easter anthem, "Christ the Lord is Risen Today," in form that brought them the sincerest appreciation of the audience.

Dr. Doney held that the more or less popular definition of a miracle, "an act in contravention of natural law," is not scientific or true. There are a thousand miracles all around, he said. The raising of the hand is a violation of the law of gravity that says all things must fall to the earth—but it is a violation by a greater law, a superior power that can hold the arm against the pull of gravity. All great inventions violate certain basic laws as they are understood by at least some men. The savage may say that it is impossible for the voice to be carried on a slender wire, or through the air without wire; but what the mind, savage or civilized, does not know, is not affected in its verity by man's ignorance. "It was possible for Christ to bring in a new law that we do not know, stronger than the laws we do know of human life and death. It becomes us to be modest in the face of the great things that we have denied, but that prove true, like all these great scientific inventions."

The speaker held that it was far harder far more unreasonable and infinitely less satisfying, to torment one's self into disbelieving the Biblical narrative of Jesus Christ, than to accept the testimony and the evidence that has lasted from the founding of Christianity. He urged that the acceptance of the truth of eternal life for the soul of man, as so fairly established by all human history and belief, was the most important problem before the world today. On this belief must be based the whole operation of human society.

The halibut, finished ready for the table, retails at about 30 cents a pound, but this price is expected to fall somewhat as the season progresses.
Salmon will legally cease to come in from the Columbia May 1. After that the market will have to be supplied with king salmon from Alaska, or salmon caught in the Sacramento river in California. This California product is said to be very good in quality, though no better than the Columbia or Alaska fish.

Accident Commission Complains Against Wood

Henry Woods, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, was returned from Tillamook by Deputy Sheriff Sam Burkhardt yesterday and lodged in the county jail, pending arraignment before Judge G. E. Unruh.
Woods is charged with fraudulently misrepresenting an accident to the industrial commission, thereby obtaining money under false pretense. He left for Tillamook a short time after receiving the funds.
He will probably be arraigned before Judge Unruh in the justice court this morning.

Independence

INDEPENDENCE, Or., March 28.—B. F. Swope of Dallas transacted business in town the first of the week.

The first picking of broccoli was brought in Tuesday by James Collins. He reports the stand rather poor but the quality is good.

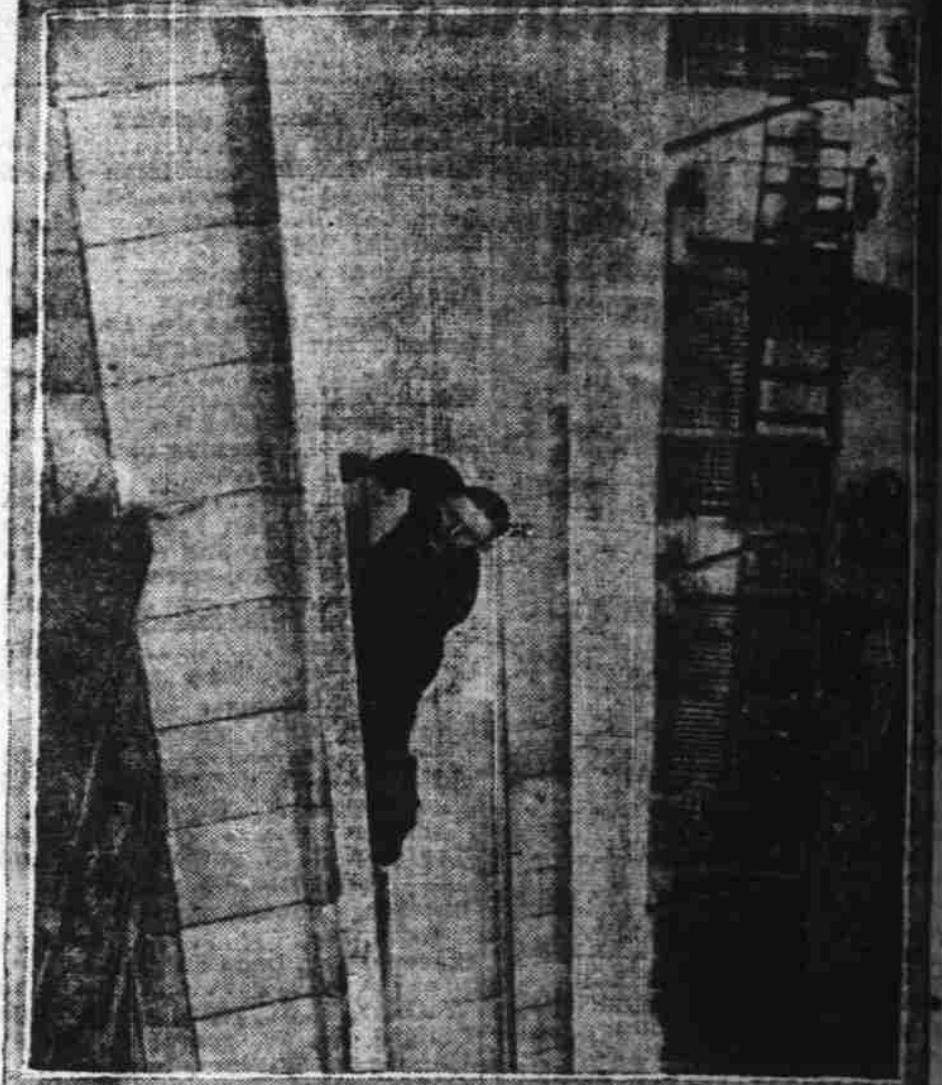

Babe Bullis was down from Valsetz the first of the week nursing a sore hand caused by a severe bruise.

The first baseball game of the season will be played between Aumsville high school and Independence high school Friday afternoon.

T. M. Newberry, Lew Tumbleson and C. H. Coursey of Salem visited E. A. Weedle Monday.

MINSTRELS MAKE HIT AT TURNER

Salem Lion Thespians Served Banquet by Mothers of Scouts

The Salem Lions' club minstrels that went to Turner Tuesday night to present a minstrel show for the benefit of the Boy Scouts, made the hit of their lives. They were billed at "popular prices," 25 and 50 cents, and the high school auditorium was jammed. The minstrels put on their very best stuff, which the many Salem visitors who attended say was even better than they did it in Salem. It got the big hand from the crowd from the first creak of the curtain until the last auto hooked its way out of town.

Frank Wagar put on his mystery work, which was as popular as ice cream on the Fourth of July. Sparks' Tumbling Midgets were encored almost to exhaustion by the appreciative crowd.

After the performance the Boy Scouts' mothers served the visitors with more pies and cream filled cakes and fried chicken and jelly and other good things than they thought there was in the whole world. The visitors whetted their Lions' appetites, and ate practically everything but the dishes. The whole program, the invitation and the reception, was carried on through "Deacon" Gray, Turner banker and friend of the boys and everybody.

The minstrels took in almost $100 at the door, all of which goes to the Turner Scouts. The business men of the town paid all the expenses, so the boys got the whole gate.

HORSFALL WORKS ON NEW VOLUMES

Portland Naturalist and Artist Spends Few Hours in Salem Wednesday

Mr. and Mrs. R. Bruce Horsfall of Portland stopped over in Salem Wednesday between trains from Corvallis, on their way back to their home in Portland. They had been to Corvallis, where Mr. Horsfall delivered two bird lectures before the Boy Scouts and the Campfire Girls. They have many friends in Salem.

Mr. Horsfall has been doing the bird pictures for a new book of supplementary nature readers, the text being by Dallas Lore Sharp, and the publication being by the Century company. It should be a delightful volume, for both the descriptive text and the illustrations will be the work of real artists. It is to be issued this season. Also, he has been preparing an elaborate book on "The Birds of the Pacific Coast" with 126 species of birds clearly identified. This volume, a pocket manual for the nature lover, small enough and well enough bound for the reader to carry in his vest pocket for field companionship and study, is to be brought out by the George Putnam company and is to sell for $3.50 a volume.

Mr. Horsfall ranks as one of the foremost naturalists and bird artists of America. He has traveled extensively in the Orient and also in South America, where he spent some years as artist for a great Princeton university exploring party. Mr. and Mrs. Horsfall represent some of the finest camaraderie to be found anywhere, and they have a host of friends wherever they go, through their delightful dispositions to serve others with their art and friendship.

CLAM SEASON IS ABOUT TO CLOSE

Movement in Marine Foods Is Active in Oregon Waters at Present

Clams will close April 1, as tight and as silent as the clam proverb, according to the Oregon state law. Those who want clams for Easter have the choice of about three things: Buy them beforehand, eat canned clams, or keep a-waiting. They will be off the market for five long and joyful months—for the clams.

Steelhead salmon are still coming into the market in the very finest of condition. They hold their aristocratic price of 30 cents a pound for the finished product. Smelts are still in the market, in good condition but with a less violent demand than at the beginning of the season.

Oregon deep-water halibut and cod are being brought in from the Newport fisheries. This Oregon fish reached the market in the finest possible condition. Some of the Newport boats going out in the morning come back in the same day with their catch ready for shipment. The fishermen of Puget Sound out from Seattle, do not have it so easy. Their stay out is anywhere from one to two weeks, and they have two or three of half a dozen grades of fish by the time they get back to port. Some of these grades are too ancient for anything but the alley cats. The Oregon fish, fresh caught and marketed, is rated as about the finest on the coast. These deep-sea fish are being caught in good quantities. One Newport boat, out for two days, came in with 11,000 pounds of halibut and 6,000 pounds of cod.
