MADE-IN-SALEM LUNCHEON MONDAY

Chamber of Commerce Plans for Unique Affair—Paul Petri to Sing

At the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Monday a made-in-Salem dinner will be served in quantities that will make a common banquet look like the last end of a hard winter.

Here is some of the bill of fare: Cascade ham, baked and embellished like a diamond watch with platinum filigree; royal Parker buns; Royal Purple prunes, from the Producers' Canning & Packing company; broccoli grown in Salem, and from the Oregon Growers' sales branch; strawberry jam, from the Northwest Fruit Products company; Bing cherries, canned by Hunt Brothers; blackberries, from the Starr Fruit company cannery; Bartlett pears from the Oregon Packing company; King dehydrated pumpkin pies; Stolz ginger ale, root beer, Whistle and coco cola to drink; home made butter and nuts. They will not serve tea or coffee, for these drinks violate the basic principles of a made-in-Salem celebration.

There is to be some good music also. Paul Petri, of Portland, director of the Salem Women's chorus, is to speak on "Better Music." The Woman's Club quartet, Mrs. Donald Wayne Riddle, Mrs. Jean Franklin Rahn, Mrs. Ward Willis Long and Mrs. Merle Rosecranz, are to sing. The program begins promptly on the stroke of 12, and closes just as promptly at 1. The early birds are the ones that will be fed.
