

SPRING ADDS TO TRUANCY CASES

Harder to Keep Youngsters in School When Sun Begins to Shine

Although spring's coming is reputed to produce a certain kind of fever inducing listlessness on most people, it has just the opposite effect in the county school superintendent's office, according to Cora E. Reid, county truant officer. At this time of year, she says, truancy cases become most numerous and difficult to handle for the reason that many parents are prone to withdraw their children from school in order that they may assist on the farms.

The majority of truancy cases, Mrs. Reid says, are cared for satisfactorily on first notice. In fact, throughout the work of the department become that there are two cases on record where parents were necessary to take their children to school. One occurred in a two-year-old child who became necessary to get back in school. He was sent with a fine. Another occurred at Silverton. It was found that the child had been in another district, and it impossible for the district to take action.

Difficultly, Mrs. Reid says, with transients, who are in district to district with their children, evading school and moving again when graduation is threatened. In the majority of cases, however, she states, one notice from the superintendent's office is sufficient to bring the child back to school.

Under the compulsory education laws the clerk of each school district must submit a copy of his latest census report as soon as school opens. It then becomes necessary for the teachers in the district to report all cases of truancy coming within their knowledge. Every child within and including the ages of 9 to 15 is required to attend school, unless they be eighth grade graduates or attending some other school regularly, or if they live a prohibitive distance from the school. Children from 9 to 10 need not attend if they live one and one-half miles from school—nor older children if they live more than three miles from a school house. An absence that amounts in the aggregate to more than seven half days during any four or less, consecutive weeks constitutes a truancy.

After three of such notices received by the parent have been unheeded the truancy department may enlist the aid of the justice of the peace in bringing the child back to school.

KUSERS ARE OUT, GILBERT APPOINTED

the redirection of the lives and habits of boys. He is convinced that an institution of robust, healthy boys, and one which is equipped with good land and facilities to work and cultivate the soil—planted to profitable crops, small fruits, and standard varieties of tree fruits and nuts should be and can be made largely self supporting.

Moved for New Site

In December, 1920, as the records will show, Mr. Gilbert recommended to the board of control that a resolution be presented to the coming special session of the legislature urging the appointment of a committee to investigate the feasibility of building on land to be purchased for the purpose a modern institution on the cottage plan for the segregation of boys into suitable groups in accordance with their physical, mental and moral characters.

The attorney general was instructed to prepare the resolution, which was passed by both the senate and the house unanimously, and the committee was appointed, under senate joint resolution No. 5 of the 1920 session. But before the committee of two from the senate and three from the house went to make the investigation of the needs of segregation as suggested in the resolution referred to above, the bill of the regular session of 1921 to appropriate $280,000 for the building of a new institution on land now owned by the state had been passed. Plans were drawn, but the program for the construction of the new buildings was not carried out.

Provision was made by the recent session of the legislature to use part of the sum referred to above, not to exceed $50,000, to purchase suitable land for the location of the new buildings aside from lands already owned by the state. A search for a suitable new site is now being made.

Objects to be Attained

It is believed by many that a wise selection of good soil will provide for both the suitable housing of the state's boy wards under the cottage system, and for their self support under wholesome direction of their labor; and that a much larger measure of moral reform may be possible under modern housing, instruction and care, and Mr. Gilbert agrees with these views.

In fact, he has convinced himself that ultimately, with the development of suitable fruit and nut orchards as a part of the industrial scheme, the Oregon institution may be made entirely self supporting; an object that has never yet been attained in such an institution. But Mr. Gilbert believes that the conditions here are more favorable than in other sections for the attainment of such a condition.

NEW CHURCH IS FORMALLY OPEN

Edifice Not to be Consecrated Until All Finished and Paid for

St. Paul's Episcopal church of Salem is now formally opened for public worship, though it is not to be officially consecrated until it is finished and paid for. The opening service was held Tuesday morning, when Bishop W. T. Sumner of Portland officiated at the opening ritualistic service.

Tuesday was a notable day in the history of the old church congregation. The new church was formally devoted to public worship in the morning, the services starting at 9:30 o'clock. At noon, a luncheon was served in the parish house, with about 60 guests attending. In the afternoon an informal service was held in the parish house. J. A. Sellwood, 80 years of age, one of the really old-timers of the congregation, told many stirring stories of the past of the old church. N. C. Kaufory told of the present, of people and things of the congregation as they are today, and F. G. Deckebach talked interestingly of the future of the old church in its new quarters. Mr. Hodgkin, a former member of the Salem congregation, now of Vancouver, Wn., was one of the speakers; so, also, was Bishop Sumner and Rev. H. D. Chambers, the present rector.

The evening service was marked by two addresses, one by Bishop Sumner, the other by Rev. E. W. Simpson of Corvallis. The service comprised the consecration of the fine hand-carved oak furniture of the edifice, the music by the full vested choir, and the taking of pledges for the completion of the building. Other visiting clergymen present were: Archdea-

News Form of Iron Helps Give Renewed Vim and Energy

Actual blood tests show that a tremendous number of people lack iron in their blood and that they are ill for no other reason than lack of iron. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man physically weak, but nervous, irritable, and easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will, which are so necessary to successful power in every walk of life. If you are weak, nervous and run-down, you owe it to yourself to try this new form of iron, known as Nuxated Iron. Begin today. Nuxated Iron is not a secret remedy, but one that is well known to physicians and druggists everywhere.

SALEM POST FOR SILVERTON CAUSE

Legion Members Glad to Help Neighbors Get County Memorial Fund

Salem American Legion, Capital Post No. 5, will co-operate to the utmost with the Silverton Legion post in asking that the Marion county court apportion to Silverton the whole of the $16,000 soldiers' memorial authorized by the recent legislature. The Silverton post had a delegation of 15 members attending the Salem post meeting Tuesday night, headed by C. R. Moser, post commander, to present their case.

The Silverton boys propose to furnish a site, which is already offered to them, and valued at approximately $2,000, and they will match, dollar for dollar, the whole county appropriation in the building of an adequate soldiers' memorial building. This will have a commodious auditorium, and office and club rooms to make it a fine veterans' headquarters for the whole county. The Salem post endorses the movement to the limit.

"With the Stars and Stripes in France," a three act war time play, is to be presented by the Silverton Legionnaires, at the Palace theatre in Silverton, April 17. It is to be put on by 20 members of the Silverton post, and the proceeds are to go towards their building fund. H. A. Hutton, of the Silverton Legion, is manager. They are inviting all the Salem veterans to attend and see a really good war play.
