Macy Baird Comedians present "The Last Round Up."
Will Rogers in "The Unwilling Hero."

OREGON
Betty Compson in "The White Flower."

LIBERTY
Harold Lloyd in "Safety Last."

Will Rogers, Goldwyn's homely and human screen star, will be seen again at the Bligh theater today in his latest photoplay, "An Unwilling Hero." It is the story of an American "tramp" who becomes a hero in spite of himself—but not enough of one to forego the open road. It was founded on a short story by O. Henry.

All of the romantic charm, virile adventure and dramatic intensity which characterize the works of Jack London as the most thrilling of American fiction, is found in S. E. V. Taylor's production, "The Mohican's Daughter," picturized from London's story, "Jesse Uek," at the Bligh theater Saturday and Sunday.

Tonight will be the final showing of the Macy Baird's comedians in Salem for this season and they are presenting a dandy western comedy drama "The Last Round Up."

Honolulu declared a part holiday to welcome Betty Compson and the members of the Paramount company, who voyaged to the island city to produce the star's current Paramount picture "The White Flower," which will be the feature at the Oregon theater for two days beginning today.

Adorned with beautiful and fragrant flowers, Miss Compson was greeted by Mrs. Julia Crawford Ivers, author and director of the story, who preceded Miss Compson and the other players to Honolulu; members of the production staff, and a group of Hawaiian musicians. This party motored out to quarantine to meet the star and the members of the cast.

At the dock a huge crowd of enthusiastic "fans" were gathered to catch a glimpse of Miss Compson in person. As the star stepped ashore native musicians played the Hawaiian march.

What are dare-devils? Men who fearlessly take hazardous chances in their different fields of endeavor. Men who plunge themselves into perilous predicaments and come out smiling.

The world is full of those who flirt with danger. The firemen, the policemen, the arctic explorer, the African hunter, the soldier and sailor, the aviator, the inventor, the chemist, the "human fly" who scales the sides of build lings, the missionary who fearlessly brings his religion to the savage, the scores of others.

These "dare-devils" only deplore one fact, and that is that life insurance companies show great hesitancy about issuing them policies some companies refusing it, absolutely. An amusing thing occurred in this regard when Harold Lloyd was performing his hazardous feats—that of climbing the side of a 12 story building in his new Pathe comedy, "Safety Last," which is being shown now at the Liberty theater. The comedian was forced to promise insurance agents that he would never risk his life in such a manner again. But just the same, the thrills are there—and SOME THRILLS!

many who had themselves won special favor with their writings.

The St. Paul's Young People's society met Wednesday night with Miss Nell Thiesen on Court street for a delightful social evening. Dancing occupied the evening hours and refreshments were served later in the evening.

Mrs. Arthur J. Rahn was hostess yesterday for a delightful luncheon party at the Gray Belle. A beautiful basket of rose tulips and pink carnations centered the table. Covers for 14 guests were laid.

Mrs. Rome C. Hunter entertained Tuesday for Mrs. A. L. Johnson and Miss Cecil Davis of Santa Cruz, Cal., who have just returned home following several days visit with old friends in Salem.

The Tano club members were among the guests bidden for Tuesday by Mrs. Hunter. Red tulips were prettily arranged about the rooms and cards were enjoyed by the guests of honor, club members and specially invited guests.

Mrs. Robert McNary won high score for the afternoon. Miss Mayle Hunter and Miss Delia Johnson assisted. Other guests besides Mrs. Johnson and Miss Davis were Mrs. W. W. Corey, Mrs. Walter Buckner Mrs. E. A. Kurtz, Mrs. C. N. Inman, Mrs. Clyde Johnson, Mrs. Lynn Gleason, Mrs. Hal Patton, Mrs. E. L. Kapphahn, Mrs. P. E. Fullerton, Mrs. W. V. Johnson.

Mrs. J. A. Bernardi and Mrs. W. F. Buckner, who were to have entertained today for Mrs. Johnson and Miss Davis decided not to cancel the party.

A program has been arranged for the Highland Parent-Teachers' association entertainment which will be given this evening. The program is as follows:

THE MUSICAL TEA at the library this afternoon will be featured by a program of classical music with three of Salem's most talented musicians contributing. A Willamette string trio will play one group of numbers also.

Spring will be featured in all of the music. Miss Lena Belle Tartar is to sing a group of three Schubert songs. These will bring out the faith in spring, the pathos of the season, and her closing song, "Hark, Hark the Lark," will, of course, herald the joy of spring.

Mrs. W. H. Burghardt's "Gardens in the Rain," and "To Spring," will also feature the happy joyous springtime of the year. Mr. John W. Harbison and Mrs. Frank Spears, both members of the library board will be among the hostesses, while they will be assisted by the wives of the other members and past members of the board.

Dr. John R. Sites will sing an aria from the opera "Elaïne."—Rapelle eton Couer. It is considered a special treat to hear Dr. Sites sing since he so seldom sings. He will also sing Wagner's "Dream," and "Vale," by Kennedy Russel.

The entire program is as follows:

- TschalkowskyWaltz (mallet music)
- Tschalkowsky—Andante cantabile (For quartet in D Major)
- Trio—Avery Hicks, Delbert Moore, Byron Arnold.
- Bemberg—"Rapelle eton Couer From opera "Elaïne"

- Debussy—"Jardins sous la pluie" (Gardens in the Rain)

Col. and Mrs. E. Hofer were at home yesterday for a group of more than 25 literary folks of Salem, honoring two Oregon authors, Charles Alexander of Albany and Albert Wetjen of Portland. Mr. Wetjen was unable to attend, however.

The guests included, for the most part, members of the Modern Writers section of the Salem Arts League. Colonel Hofer, who is editor of the Larlet, western literary magazine, took this way of showing honor, with Mrs. Hofer, to these two men who have won special honor in a literary way. Among the guests were

All of the wheat—
10 minutes and it's ready to eat

We take large, plump kernels of the choicest wheat we can get. We clean them and wash them. Then the wheat is rolled into crisp, wafer-thin flakes that sparkle with the sunshine of golden wheat fields.

Nor are we content with that. For, during the flaking process, the wheat is partially cooked under a high pressure of superheated steam. So that all it takes is 10 minutes cooking in the morning and you have—

A breakfast cereal that gives you all the goodness of the wheat—a cereal, taste-full and worthwhile, that you can enjoy the year 'round. Your grocer has it!
