BLIGH
Four acts Hippodrome Vandeville, and "The Mohican's Daughter" a Jack London story.

The horrible, hair-raising hazards of Harold. You grip your seat and gasp; then you laugh; you can't help it. When he the Aztecs (the Indians of Ancient Mexico) and the world's original knife thrower, developed this act to illustrate the practices of his ancestors. He first presents the legend of the "Dancing Tepee," illustrating a hunter's dream that his tent ran away with the moonbeams, and then displays the hunter's skill with obsidian knives. He is assisted by his Northern Princess. At the Bligh today and tomorrow.

Twyman and Vincent. This interesting duo presents a comedy talking and singing skit. They are both rapid-fire talkers of the new school and have their own ideas of putting over comedy and it is evident that their way is perfectly all right, as their act has always been in demand where laughs are required. They are both excellent singers and their singing numbers are one of the features of the offering. At the Bligh theater today and tomorrow.

An entrancing story of the Hawaiian Islands is "The White Flower," a Paramount picture starring Betty Compson, which was given its premier showing at the Oregon theater last night. Miss Compson plays the part of a young, half American, half Hawaiian, girl who is in love with a young American, the pineapple king of the island. Many are the plans which Miss Compson forms for winning this young fellow's love. In fact, she almost does away with his fiancée by the aid of mysterious rites, so great is her love for him. She realizes, however, what she is about to do, and at the crucial moment her real womanhood asserts itself. The photography, as well as the acting, in the production is excellent. The direction by Julia Crawford Ivers, who also wrote the story, is superb. One of the many noteworthy scenes in the picture is that showing the crater of the volcano Kilauea. The heart appeal is intense.

An additional attraction is offered by The Ferrandos, a very clever team of novelty musicians who seem to be able to make music out of almost anything they touch. The imitations are very clever and the playing on the cello is excellent. From a musical standpoint this offering is a novelty. At the Bligh theater today and tomorrow.

MONEY ORDERS COME RAPIDLY

Paper Shuttles at Fast Clip Through Salem's Busy Postoffice

When the political scientist promulgated the theory that the outgo must equal the income, and that one couldn't expect to receive more than he gave, he missed it flat on the Salem postoffice.

The Salem office is selling about 2500 to 3000 money orders a month. The half-millionth order was sold almost a year ago, and now the serial number is just above 530,000. But they come in three times as fast. The average receipt is about 8,000 a month. If the postoffice didn't have good credit at the bank so that it could get a few dollars in small change if the supply should run short, it would bankrupt itself in a week. It doesn't sell enough to get the money to pay its bills. That's a problem for the arithmeticians in the schools to work out—how can a postoffice afford to pay out three times as much money, every day, as it receives?

The money comes in in the regular course of trade Salem is becoming one of these hideous business criminals, a mail order city that outpaces its little neighbors and sells 'em goods right under their very noses. But much more of the money comes in through the remittances for state and county taxes, and for automobile and game and corporation and dog and drivers' licenses. The state license system makes the capital city postoffice one of the busiest little money-changing establishments in the northwest. With about 300 money orders a day coming in, rain or shine, even the quiet days at the postoffice are busy.

The local office sells enough federal securities to make quite a tidy brokerage business for a private bond house. The government recently called in a number of its liberty bonds and has offered short time treasury bonds as a substitute investment. While much of the money from the bond redemption has drifted clear out of the reach of the government, some of it has gone back into the new securities, and some other outside money also. The new bonds are sold in denominations of $25, $100 and $1000, an astonishing number of the $1000 denomination have been sold here. The semi-annual interest coupon coming as regularly as the clock ticks from the treasurer of the United States is a powerfully attractive investment to many money-owners, and so the big bonds find ready sale even in the heart of the less-than-four-cent-lozanberry and farmers-taxed-to-death land.

A doctrine should be judged by the acts that proceed from it, not by the professions of its sponsors.

PERSONS HEALED, IS CLAIM-MADE

Evangelist Betts Preaches Again to Large Crowd in Tabernacle

"God, Our Healer" was the subject of the message given by Evangelist Betts in the Tabernacle Friday afternoon, preceding the prayers for the sick. There was not time enough to pray for all who desired prayers but many it is claimed, were healed in the afternoon meeting.

In his doctrine of divine healing the evangelist explained his attitude towards surgeons and doctors, in substance, as follows: "We never say a word of disparagement of surgeons and doctors but rather thank God for the help they have been to a sin-sick world in bearing its burdens. Think of the work these men have done for the relief of suffering—of the blessing alone of anesthesia in the performance of surgery on the battle field alone. They have done and are doing a noble and splendid service to the world without Christ, and no Christian of understanding would criticize or minimize this service, but for and to the Christian the touch of the divine hand of Jesus upon the body means relief from pain and sickness; and because all sickness is the result of sin and healing comes through forgiveness of the sin that causes the sickness. Jesus healed by saying, Thy sins are forgiven thee, and then emphasized the oneness of forgiveness and healing by asking whether it were easier for him to say thy sins are forgiven thee or arise and take up thy bed and walk. Divine healing is a part of forgiveness, and is available to the Christian who first receives the Holy Spirit and then asks the Spirit if he will reveal the sin causing his sickness, repents of the sin and then, being forgiven is healed. But the sins causing the sickness are so often unrelated thereto to the Christian that only the Holy Spirit can reveal them."

A large crowd gathered for the evening meeting Friday. The healing service was continued and those not prayed for in the afternoon were in the evening service. A young people's meeting led by C. O. Benham is scheduled for Saturday night. Evangelist Betts announced two services for Sunday, afternoon and evening. Subjects, "Going Through with God," at 3 p. m. and "Vision" at 7:30.

HI-Y BOYS ARE VISITORS HERE

Group of Seventeen Inspect State Institutions and Departments

Secretary Edwin Socolofsky of the county YMCA had a large delegation of out of town boys in Salem Thursday to inspect the various state institutions.

They came from Hubbard, Gervais and Aumsville, and numbered 17 in all. They visited the governor in his official den, and had the pleasure of a long talk with him on important state affairs. They had a long talk with Justice Harris in the state supreme court building, and shook hands with Chief Justice McBride. They went to the penitentiary and had a whole hour's visit with Johnson Smith, the warden, on how to abolish penitentiaries by making better lives more attractive to everybody.

They visited the state printing office, the industrial accident commission, the secretary of state, the bureau of weights and measures and looked in on other departments of the state government. Other deputations are to be brought in from other schools to get acquainted with the facts of state government and to gain a better perspective of industry, politics and enlightened citizenship. Secretary Socolofsky is proving to be a real dynamo in getting this work over, and the county Y has prospered amazingly under his dynamic ministration.

NEW DISTRICT TO BE VOTED ON SOON

County Boundary Board Sets May 12—Union High School Wanted

Appearing with petitions signed by approximately 50 per cent of the voters in first class school districts, a Woodburn delegation appeared before the county court yesterday asking for a special election to determine whether 19 districts in northern Marion and southern Clackamas counties shall consolidate into a union high school district. As a result Commissioners Hunt and Smith, and Mrs. Mark Fulkerson, county school superintendent, authorized a special election to be held May 12. The ballots when cast will be counted in the county school superintendent's office.

If the proposed organization is perfected the second union high school district in the county will have been accomplished. Districts involved are Woodburn, Broadacres, Hubbard, Monitor, Elliott Prairie, Needy, Oak Lawn, Butteville, Whiskey Hill, West Woodburn, Johnson, Donald, White, Belle Pass, Harmony, Unfun, Hall, and Monte Cristo and district 91.

At the present time Woodburn high has an enrollment of 261 pupils and serves students from 31 districts. In the event the proposal is favorably voted, Woodburn high district will be one of the largest in the state.

The delegation from Woodburn was E. J. Stannard, clerk of the board; Virgil Massey and Blaine McCord, attorneys.

FOREST SAVING LUNCHEON TOPIC

Forest Ranger Will Be Speaker at Chamber Noon Meeting Monday

Forest protection week, April 22 to 30, is to start in Salem Monday noon with a forestry dinner at the Chamber of Commerce. It is to have a wide range of meats as its principal dish; hot dogs, weiners, or frankfurters, whichever the timber diner prefers. From that it goes on to prune jam, baked beans, shrimp salad, dill pickles, horse radish, sunshine cake, buns, coffee.

All these are recognized as forest conservation foods, especially the horse radish, which everybody knows grows out on the desert with the cactus and the salamander and the diamond-back rattler and the Chia monster for neighbors. The horse-radishers never killed a tree in all his life; neither did the grower and cultivator of shrimp. The shrimp gardens and orchards are extraordinarily sparing of trees.

The literary portion of the program promises to be of exceptional interest. Albert Wiesendanger, forest ranger from up the Columbia river, is to speak. He has been sent out as a lecturer for the forest service, and has spoken to many schools, civic meetings, and to all the organizations that could be interested in forest preservation and cultivation. He has made enough of a hit with his talks that the department considers his public campaign as worth his designation for this kind of service. There are men who, looking out over the hundreds of thousands of acres of timber land that has been either cleared or burned over, still maintain that Oregon has as many trees as ever. Mr. Wiesendanger will tell some startling facts about the forestry problem, as it affects Oregon and the nation.

Hundreds Attend Funeral Of Late Glen E. Unruh

The funeral of Glen E. Unruh, former city councilman and justice of the peace, was held yesterday. It was attended by hundreds of friends and associates. The pallbearers were Salem attorneys. They were John H. Carson, Carey F. Martin, C. M. Inman, Rollin K. Page, Walter E. Keyes and Guy O. Smith.

Mrs. Ada Miller-Harris sang "Crossing the Bar" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Miss Dorothy Pearce was her accompanist.

The Salem Elks lodge was in charge of the services both at the Rigdon chapel and at the grave. Rev. Blaine E. Kirkpatrick officiated at the funeral service in the chapel. Interment was in City View cemetery.

Under the English law "habitual" misconduct must be proved on the part of the husband before the wife can secure a divorce.

isolated instances will not suffice. One naturally wonders how frequent the instances must be to form a habit.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Rigdon and Miss Lelia Rigdon returned this week from California. They have been gone several months. Blaine McCord, justice of the peace in Woodburn, was in Salem yesterday. Judge George G. Bingham went to Portland yesterday. Charles Renyart of Portland is stopping in Salem for a few days while making a number of fishing trips out from here.

RIVERS OVERFLOW AND FLOOD TOWNS

Two Blocks in Ontonagon Michigan Under Water; Others do Damage

ONTONAGON, Mich., April 30. The Ontonagon river overflowed its banks today and the water was the highest in 40 years. Two blocks in the heart of town are under 18 inches of water and is rapidly rising.

Bridges are reported going out and more ice than three years ago when a railroad bridge went out, also is reported.

WINNIPEG, April 30.—With many districts in central and southern Manitoba reaching a steady rise in the Assiniboine and Red rivers and tributaries during the night, the flood situation showed no improvement today.

Many families have been forced to leave their homes, others are isolated from nearby towns by lakes of water and thousands of acres of farm lands in the low-lying districts have been inundated. A few districts reported conditions slightly improved today with the waters receding very slowly.

The most serious condition exists at Brandon where hundreds of residents living in the section of the city known as the flats, have been forced to vacate their homes, while others, virtually surrounded by the fast rising waters, are making preparations to get to safety.
