SALEM IS CRUDE DRUG CENTER NOW

But a Vast Volume of Increase May Be Made in This Important Field

Salem is already the crude drug center of Oregon, and the people of this city may by taking thought and following it with intelligent and persistent action improve this lead constantly and make the honor and distinction a bigger thing commercially and in the way of manufacturing, merchandising and shipping, year after year.

Dan J. Fry, the Salem druggist, is the leading Oregon buyer of Cascara bark, Oregon grape and balsam fir, and he also handles other kinds of crude drugs, and is helping in every way the development of these lines. He maintains warehouses at Salem and several other Oregon points, to better handle his crude drug business.

Oregon Grows Best Mint

The Willamette valley raises the best mint in the world, mint having the highest menthol content of any grown in the whole world, and producing the most ounces and pounds to the acre. Our people can grow the White Michem mint successfully, and our peppermint oil is used to grade up the quality of the oils produced in eastern sections where this variety cannot be grown.

It is very important that our peppermint oil should be standardized and the standards protected, and a refinery will be of great assistance in this. The refinery should be in Salem If Salem will get fully awake to this, it will mean big things for our growers and for this city as a mint and a crude drug center. G. J. Meisan of Gervais is secretary of the cooperative association of mint growers for this state.

Cascara Sagrada

Cascara Sagrada, so far our most important crude drug plant, the bark of which is constantly going in car lots and smaller lots to the big crude drug supply dealers, has so far not been cultivated — but the native supply is running low — and it will be grown extensively in the future; must be, for the druggists of the world must have a supply always on hand. It is now being cultivated in British Columbia.

"American Medicinal Barks," Bulletin 139 of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has the following among many other things, to say of cascara sagrada:

"Cascara Sagrada—Other common names: chittem bark, sacred bark (a translation of the Spanish name 'cascara sagrada'), bearberry-tree, bearwood, etc.

"This indigenous tree occurs on the sides and bottoms of canyons from the Rocky mountains to the Pacific coast, extending north into British Columbia. It belongs to the buckthorn family. The collecting season is from the latter part of May to the end of August.

"One tree furnishes approximately 10 pounds of bark, and granting a crop of 1,000,000 pounds a year, 100,000 trees are thus annually destroyed, and the world's consumption is said to be
