Remainder of Saki Six Are Acquitted By Justice Court Jury

The saki six to-wit: M. Shirahama, I. Mayos, T. Mayos, T. Kawin, T. Umino and I. Okasaka, apprehended along with 250 gallons of Japanese "hooch", last Saturday following a raid made upon the premises where they were working near Broadacres, were again before the public eye yesterday when they all appeared for trial in the justice court.

Before a crowded court room composed mainly of those affiliated with the legal fraternity and Japanese, the state unfolded its case against the Nipponese moonshiners, which consisted mainly of the following facts:

A total of 250 gallons of Japanese saki had been found on the premises, 150 gallons of which, found 75 feet from the house, was in a fermented condition. The Japs, who had been working in hop fields nearby, declared vehemently that they knew nothing of the whereabouts of the liquor.

"Do you speak English," Judge Kuntz asked the Nipponese when he took the witness stand. "No," was the assertion. "Do you understand what I am talking about?" the judge again attempted.

"No," was the immediate response. "Do you promise that you will tell the whole truth and the judge again began. But the quick-witted Papanese beat him to it.

"No," he promptly cut in. After due consultation behind closed doors the jury finally reached a verdict of acquittal for five of the Japanese but found the sixth, M. Shirahama, the ringleader, guilty. He was sentenced by Judge Kuntz to pay a fine of $300.

Interest Rate Bill Is Again to Be Initiated

J. F. Albright of Oregon City is again attempting to initiate his interest rate bill, which would make 6 per cent "and no more" the legal rate of interest in Oregon unless otherwise agreed upon by the parties to the transaction.

The measure would be voted on at the regular election in November, 1924. It was submitted to the voters in 1920 and defeated by a vote of 158,673 to 28,967. Albright attempted to initiate it again in 1922, but it was one of the measures that was knocked out by injunction on grounds that names had not been procured in a legitimate way.

Bonnet Can't Come, and Shearer Will Play Organ

The treat promised to organ lovers in the concert announced to be given by Bonnet, the famous French organist, fell through because of a confusion of dates elsewhere. But another organist is now in sight, who is expected to give the great new organ at the First Methodist church a masterly try-out.

Mrs. Shearer, rated as a dramatic soprano singer of unusual ability, is with her husband; they put on a concert that offers fine variety and artistic skill in both vocal and instrumental lines. They are to appear at the First Methodist church, Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. The proceeds go to help pay for the recent rebuilding of the church organ, which is rated as the best in Oregon outside of Portland.

HOP MEN LEAVE FOR VANCOUVER

Notable Litigation Between Livesley and Horts Will Have Hearing

T. A. Livesley, Salem hop grower and dealer; John H. McNary, his attorney, and a number of hop growers and dealers from Salem, Portland, San Francisco and other coast cities will leave today for Vancouver, B. C., to attend the court hearing of litigation between the Livesley company and the E. Clements Horst company, in which large sums of money are involved.

Horst demands $225,000 from Livesley and Livesley demands $156,000 from Horst. The hop contract involved is said to be one of the biggest in the history of the hop industry.

He accused Mr. Rubien of distorting the swimmers' appeal by suppressing some of the vital correspondence in the pamphlet issued on the controversy. That the women have agreed not to appear in exhibitions if they go abroad, that their amateur standing will be protected and that none of them would be permitted to compete when physically unable, Mr. Reilly said, was omitted from the AAU pamphlet.

Paddock Must Quit Contest

French Athletic Federation Bans American Sprinter From Participation

PARIS, May 4.—(By the Associated Press).—The French athletic federation tonight, after a full discussion, decided to prohibit the holding of the remainder of the international university championship games if Charles Paddock, the American sprinter, continues to compete in them.

The federation, however, announced that it would permit Paddock to give exhibitions. On being informed of the federation's decision, the organizers of the championship games, which are in progress at the Porto Dorcas stadium, declared that Paddock would run as had been arranged, notwithstanding the federation's ban.

Uncle Sam Sends Salem Postoffice Furniture By Way of Isthmus

If anybody wonders why the Salem postoffice hasn't redistricted itself, and turned all its insides upside down for the promised change in postal delivery, he can blame it all to Uncle Sam. Several months ago, the postoffice, seeing the need of redistricting because the carrier business had grown so large, sent in its requisitions for some new mailing cases. Uncle Sam, peering over his spectacles while he thoughtfully combed his whiskers, told the boys "Oh, yes—ah—that is—ah—yes, I'll send 'em." He is sending 'em from his own postoffice factory on the Atlantic coast, sending 'em by tramp steamer around through his own isthmus route.

So the sorting tables and racks are worrying their way down the east banana coast, through the typhoid-mosquitoed land of the Manana of Panama, up to the bleak west coast infested by typhoons and sharks and Palmito del Verdes, and the Salem people who have been waiting for the changes are still waiting.

THREATENS SUIT AGAINST A. A. U.

Attorney for Woman's Swimming Association Against Decisions Made

NEW YORK, May 4.—Legal action against the Amateur Athletic union was threatened tonight by Joseph A. Reilly, attorney for the Women's Swimming association of New York, in connection with the AAU decision on the appeal of women from a general order barring all American amateurs from competition abroad.

The women's petition should be considered apart from the general controversy over the AAU's jurisdiction upon which the regional officers are voting, Mr. Reilly wrote Frederick W. Rubien, national secretary of the AAU. The attorney complained that the form of ballot used is unfair.

BLIGH Four-act Hippodrome Vaudeville, and T. Roy Barnes in "See My Lawyer."

Movie fans are in for a treat when "See My Lawyer," the new super-special release starring T. Roy Barnes, opens at the Bligh theater today for a run of two days. The scenario of the new comedy drama was written by W. Scott Darling from the famous play of the same name by Max Marcin.

Vaudeville patrons are promised an entertaining program at the Bligh theater today and tomorrow of semi-classical, popular character comedy, songs and gymnastic evolutions.

The Paramount picturization of Edith Wharton's novel, "Glimpses of the Moon," had its premier presentation at the Oregon theater last night and was cordially received by a large audience.

The story tells of the married life of a young couple, Susan Branch (Bebe Daniels), one of society's "poor sisters," and Nick Lansing, her husband, played by David Powell, a struggling writer. "Nick" and Susan became involved in the domestic affairs of Mr. and Mrs. Vanderlyn. The latter, played by Ruby de Remer, has been helpful, financially, to Susan, and in return for her kindness, she demands the aid of Susan in a scheme that almost results in her separation from her husband.

Consistency in direction, story and acting is the keynote of Anita Stewart's latest photoplay, "The Woman He Married," which will begin a two-day engagement at the Oregon theater Monday.

Marion Davies, Cosmopolitan star in Paramount pictures, drew a large audience to the Liberty theater last night, the occasion being the presentation of her new picture, "Adam and Eva." The photoplay, produced by the same artists who made "When Knighthood Was in Flower," was heartily received. It is an excellent comedy. T. Roy Barnes and William Norris head the excellent supporting cast.
