Bring Prisoner Home—
R. E. Mantor, deputy warden, is expected back in Salem Saturday night or Sunday, bringing with him George Griffith, who was arrested in Chicago after having escaped from the Oregon penitentiary back in 1911. They stopped over at Stillwater, Minn., for a day to investigate the great state flax plant that is maintaining the state prison at no cost to the state, and piling up a surplus like an oil well or a national bank. The officer and his prisoner were delayed by the opening of the summer tourist season, with the low rates that brought travelers west in swarms, and filled up the trains with prior-order reservations. The casual traveler was strictly out of luck for traveling during the first few days.

Denial Made—
Denials that he operated his car on the left side of the Pacific highway on October 26, 1922 or that he was driving at an excessive rate of speed are made in an answer filed to the complaint of Archie Holt against H. Kurz, by the defendant in the circuit court yesterday. To the contrary the defendant asserts, it was the plaintiff who was operating his car on the left side of the highway and it was he who was driving his car at an excessive rate of speed. One hundred dollars dismissal of the plaintiff complaint is asked by the defendant.

Mr. Chambers is near the geographical and population heart of America, and he is expected to have some real stuff to say. The nomination of officers is to be one of the features that takes place in June.

Flowers to Portland—
Salem has bought many flowers from Portland, and elsewhere even this spring. But it goes the other way, part of the time. It will, this morning, when a whole truck-load of beautiful Salem blooms are to be shipped up to the Rose City from the Breithaupt greenhouses. The local florist has been almost flowerless since Mothers' day, when the demand practically cleaned out every flower in his houses, but they are coming back strong, right now, and will contribute heavily to the Portland market hereafter.

Iris Show Opens—
The Salem iris show is to begin this morning at 10:30, at the Breithaupt floral store on North Liberty street. Last year the show was held at the Hotel Marion, and this year before at the city library. Approximately 200 displays were made last year with about 100 named varieties. The flowers are believed to be brighter this year than either of the two previous years, though that would seem almost an impossibility to those who reveled in the splendid beauties of the other two showings. Those who have iris of any of the rarer varieties are urged to join in the exhibit.

fried BACON on that fishing trip

Pack a generous supply of

Frye's Delicious Bacon

everything the name implies.

You'll want to fry it for breakfast with the fish you catch at sunrise, and you'll want it again with the supper fish. You'll appreciate the sweet, mild flavor that comes only when prime cuts from young pork are sugar cured just right.

Keep a side of Frye's Delicious Bacon hanging in your cooler, ready to slice for the home breakfast, ready to give a good campfire meal when the family takes supper outdoors.

Light and airy—yet filled with solid nutriment

All of the wheat—10 minutes and it's ready to eat

Open a box of Sperry Wheat Flakes. Hold a few of the crisp, golden flakes in your hand. How light they look! How airy they feel! Yet each Flake is filled with solid nutriment.

The Sperry process that rolls plump, full-ripe wheat kernels into wafer-thin flakes does not roll out any of the nutriment. On the contrary, Sperry Wheat Flakes give you all of the wheat, all of the wheat-flavor, all of the wheat-nourishment.

That's where and why it gets its breakfast-importance. Your grocer has it.
