Y CLUB LOSES TO LEGIONERS

Long Hit Into Field Allows Four Runs—Ball Hasn't Been Found Yet

A long fly hit that lost the ball in the tall grass just back of Waller hall, brought in a whole book full of runs for the American Legion team in the Twilight league game last night with the YMCA. It happened at the psychological moment when the bases were full. When the ball burrowed down into the grass and wriggled out of human ken, all the runners scored. The ball hasn't been found even yet. It is a total casualty.

The Legionnaires didn't score again; they didn't have to, though this was in the very first inning, they didn't have to, for the Y gathered in only two runs, both of them in the second. Phinney, the Salem Indian school pitcher, put up a fine brand of ball after the first unlucky inning, and he had good support, but the four-run lead was too much to overcome.

A fine crowd attended and saw about the fastest, most interesting and closest game of the whole series. The grounds were the best yet, and the light was the best, making better play than usual. During the cloudy weather, the twilight hour was very unkind to ballplayers. But now that summer seems to have come, the rest of the series, all this week and next, ought to be gilt-edged ball.

There are three games that had to be postponed because of rain or other reasons. It had been intended to sandwich them in on the odd nights this week, but as they couldn't all go into this week, anyhow, they will be held and made into a full extra playing week starting next Monday. After that will come the series between the highest two teams for the championship.

EMPLOYERS WILL TURN MEN LOOSE

No Trouble Getting Releases For Members of Oregon National Guard

Oregon employers are showing a better spirit of cooperation this year in arranging for attendance of young men at the national guard field training camps than in any previous year since the war, according to Brigadier General George A. White, adjutant general of the state.

More than a thousand letters to employers of national guardsmen have been sent out in the past 10 days by General White and from the hundreds of replies received so far, practically all are highly favorable, employers taking the stand that they are willing to share the sacrifice made by the men who are training themselves as first-line national defenders.

General White has completed all arrangements for what is expected to be the largest training force ever sent to camp from Oregon, the arrangements including the chartering of five special passenger trains and two special freight trains.

Baggage cars will be turned in-field kitchens by the coast artillery on its long journey south to Fort Barry as the command will have a no-stop train. The problem of feeding the battalion will be solved by erecting field ranges of the cars and a mess line will be fed from the kitchens which will be furnished to each of the four companies on the expedition.

The coast artillery movement begins the night of June 12 while all other organizations, including the infantry, field artillery, engineers, field hospital, medical troops and supply sections, will begin moving towards camp June 15.
