Armington Brings Suit—Recovery of $15,000, which he had pledged as security for another, is sought by Warren Armington in a suit against Harold Mallett, executor of the estate of C. W. Mallett and the Vale Milling & Elevator company. The plaintiff declares that on January 7, 1920, he owned 200 shares of stock, with par value of $100 each, in the company. Owing to a need of finances the company borrowed $15,000 from C. W. Mallett, the plaintiff pledging his stock for the purpose of securing Mallett's lifetime Armington charges that Mallett created the assignment as absolute as had the executor of the estate after Mallett's death. For the past three years Armington declares he has had no connection with the company, but that his security is still held, creating earnings. He asks that the defendants be required to render an accounting of that the stock be returned, with payments of dividends and profits earned in the meantime.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

About Dr. Steiner—The grand jury report touching on affairs at the asylum for the insane probably conveys to some minds the idea that matters at that institution are badly managed.

The report says the officers have chicken every Sunday or oftener, while the patients have chicken only once or twice a year. But there are a good many of the patients—some 1700 of them—and a flock of even 7000 to 10,000 hens would not go very far towards giving the patients chicken dinners very often; that is, all the patients.

Chicken, for either officers or patients is the cheapest meat they get there—because they raise the chickens. But there is not enough of it to go far around with the numbers that have to be fed.

The idea of the grand jurymen that employees of the state institutions should live away from the institutions, if carried out, would be expensive to the taxpayers. The present way is the cheaper way.

The officers of these institutions should have comfortable quarters and they should have decent livings. They work hard. And their presence right there is necessary to the welfare of their charges. It would not do for them to live away from the institutions.

Dr. Steiner has given long service, at a small salary. The wonder is that he has been willing to remain for so long. He receives $3000 a year and his living. It would be a difficult matter to get another high class physician to take his place, at that salary. It would be still more difficult to get one who is also a good manager. Dr. Steiner has been a good manager for the state. He made a mistake in contracting with the state to work his farm. It was bound to bring on criticism. But those who ought to know say a showing can be made of profit to the state from the transaction, in the securing of a large amount of farm and garden products at a low cost.

The grand jury report, though it criticizes Dr. Steiner, does not change the opinion of those who have observed his work for many years that he is a high class, honest and efficient servant of the state, working at a small salary.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage Tea and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.—Adv.
