Two Prisoners Escape—Ed Canning and Frank Bay, two trustees of the state penitentiary who were employed in a prison logging camp at Mehama, escaped some time Saturday night after stealing an automobile belonging to a citizen in that vicinity whose name is not known at the prison. The automobile was found yesterday morning near Oregon City, according to word received from the sheriff there. The two men are believed to have abandoned the car and taken to the brush. Canning was received June 28, 1922, from Clackamas county to do not to exceed four years for obtaining money under false pretenses. Bay was received December 14, 1921, from Clatsop county to do five years for assault with intent to rob.

Many Find Jobs—Finding jobs for 245 people, and that many people already hard at work on these jobs, is the record of the Salem federal employment office for the week ending June 30. That is more than 40 a day for every week day. Of this number 189 were men and 55 women. The men were fairly well scattered in their employment, there being a number of general farm hands, one carpenter, and a few woodmen. The women were all placed in farm work, which means berry picking. Despite the agitation over the loganberry situation, the agency has not been able to fill the demands for loganberry pickers. Demands have come in for many more pickers than have been registered with the department. There seems to be no probability of the demand falling, as the canneries are receiving enough berries to insure considerable employment.

Salem has as a guest the biggest man in the sugar industry in the Philippines. He is Montague Lord, son of Mrs. W. P. Lord, whose father was supreme judge and governor of Oregon. Montague Lord is visiting at the home of his mother in Salem, and incidentally spending a well earned vacation in the state of his birth, after nineteen years of hard work in the Philippines. Before going to the Philippines, Mr. Lord was interested in sugar production and manufacturing in Hawaii, with relatives who are pioneers in the industry there. He sends to the Hawaii sugar men 8000 laborers a year, from the island of Cebu, 400 miles south of Manila, where he lives half the year, the other half in Manila.

Mr. Lord has been noting the efforts to get a beet sugar factory in Salem. He thinks this effort might succeed, if it were not for the difficulty in securing suitable and cheap labor in thinning the beets. The labor problem is the big one, even in cane sugar growing and manufacturing. A beet sugar factory costs very much less than a cane sugar factory. The cane sugar factory in which he is interested in the Philippines cost five and a half million dollars, and it has 75 miles of railroad, to bring in the cane from the fields.

There is now growing in the Salem district flax that is six feet tall. More about this tomorrow.

PARK REGISTER BREAKS RECORD

Over 300 More Autos in June This Year Than Same Month Last Year

More than 300 more cars registered at the Salem auto park during June, 1923, than during June, 1922, according to T. G. Albert, superintendent. The total for the month just closed was 758 while during the same period last year only 451 registered.

Dividing the cars according to the places where the licenses were granted, California leads all the states in this thriving business with 240 to its credit. Washington comes next with 185 and Oregon third with 125. Thirty states were represented in the total registrations. A number of Canadian cars were also listed.

One Harley-Davidson motorcycle, one side car, a man, a woman, a boy and a dog, with the necessary equipment with which to make a camp for the night, arrived at the Salem camp last night from Philadelphia, Penn. Mr. and Mrs. P. Marsh and son were occupants of the outfit.

Among the popular tents with the tourists this year the "bug proof" tent is gaining in favor, according to those frequenting the camp ground. This tent is square, raises somewhat after the manner of an umbrella and has a floor of the canvas material securely to the walls of the tent.

Those registering last night at the camp for the first time were: Mr. and Mrs. E. Wanley, Oakland; A. Miller, Groveland, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. D. Adams, of San Diego; Mr. and Mrs. E. Requier, Clyde, Kans.; Mr. and Mrs. M. McKinnon, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dudley, Earlson, Ia.; Mr. W. Owdly, Coquille; N. H. Brown, Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. F. Browning, and Mr. and Mrs. L. Blythe, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Meyers, Independence; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Suter, Fort Morgan, Colo.; J. Flynn, Redwood, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Strobe, Weiser, Ida.; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Schaber, Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gay, Seattle; I. B. Neill, Spokane; J. M. Fairchild, E. N. Sterling, San Francisco; S. W. Pache, Bozeman; R. Gilmore, Seattle.

REALTORS WILL TAKE VACATION
No More Weekly Meetings Until September, Says Resolution Adopted

No more weekly dinners are to be held by the Marion-Polk Realtors until September, according to the resolution passed by the association at the last meeting. They are to scatter for the summer, and come back in the fall with a new supply of enthusiasm and pep.

One of the important actions taken at the Thursday meeting was the canvass for visitors to the great Realtors' convention at Portland July 18, 19 and 20. Practically the whole membership of the local association will be there. Officers from the National Realtors' association will be present, some of the biggest and most far-seeing men in the whole real estate game anywhere in the United States. The multiple listing system, that organizes the realtors so that any property listed by any dealer may be sold by others of the association, will be discussed to a finish at the Portland convention, and will probably come up for final adoption or rejection.

BOYS GOING HOME, FATHER IS HAPPY
Hood River Man Soon to Receive Sons From State Training School

There was one happy father in Salem Friday night. He came in during the day from Hood River and was to leave early this morning for his home. He failed to get exactly what he came for, but he will get it next week, and better than he had dreamed.

It starts with a domestic tragedy over at Astoria a year ago, in which the mother and the father failed to agree. The two boys stayed with the father, who loved them. He kept them for a little while. Then, finding it impossible to care for them properly, he applied to the county court. Judge Cornelius told him to send them to the state school, here in Salem, and this was done, and the little home was a total wreck, with everybody gone but the father.

He moved over to Hood River where he found a permanent place with real home possibilities on a big fruit farm. He has a few acres of his own, and a house, and work on the farm, and the school bus passes his door every day during the school year, to take his boys to the city schools. He wanted the boys back to help enjoy it all.

So he came to Salem for them. He didn't quite know the rules, which call for a definite length of stay for all who come into the school. The boys had done no wrong—their only crime was that of being motherless and not having a home of their own; but they can't go just yet, because of the rules.

But Albert, 12 years old, will be free next week, and his father doesn't have to come over again and waste the family's slender resources in traveling. The boy will be put on the train, and he's going to be one of the gladdest little boys in the history of Oregon. He has been building up for a real home coming to the father who loves home. He has made the highest record in the whole school in his classes, and he's ready to be promoted to home.

Lloyd, a year younger, came to the school a few months later than his brother. He will not be released until September. But he, too, is working for a home of their own, in which he is to be a partner. They've had hard luck, but dad and the two boys are going to come back to happiness and good citizenship.

The father, A. C. Schlappi, visited the boys yesterday.

"I wish I could take them now," he said regretfully. "But," and his face lighted up, "they are in good hands. Superintendent Gilbert is one of the best men I ever knew, and he knows boys, and what to do to make them better."

My boys were good boys; their only wrong was in that we didn't have a home. They've had a mighty good home there with Mr. Gilbert, and we're mighty thankful for it. We're going to have a good home of our own from now on, and the boys will go on with their school work and be a joy to those who know them. I don't have to wait for them, or come back. They'll come on the first train after Mr. Gilbert shakes their hands for a goodbye and wishes them godspeed—and the Schlappi home will be happy again."

Last Week Prolific in Building Permit Issuances

Thirty-six building permits, representing a total valuation of $122,132, were issued by Martin Poulsen, city recorder, during June. While nearly all of these were for dwellings, the greatest investment will be in the addition to the high school, with a cost of $48,000. Dwellings and repairs to the extent of $74,132 are either under construction at present, or will be in a short time.

The past week was one of the heaviest of this period, dwellings to the extent of $15,532 being planned. Permits for one-story dwellings issued at the close of the week's reports Saturday were to W. F. Mosher, $1200, 365 Richmond; H. J. Waite, $3000, 2194 State; Henry J. Millie, $2,000, 450 North Capitol; S. R. Bond, $3000, 1080 North Winter; Albert Cox, $1000, 1270 North Commercial; J. W.
