Council Crest Protests—
D. A. Norton, claiming to represent about 18 residents of the west slope of Council Crest, beginning half a mile north of Wood's nursery, has written the public service commission asking if a formal complaint will have to be filed to compel the North Coast Power company to furnish electrical service to that district. He claims that the residents had signed a contract with the company whereby it was agreed that electricity would be furnished, but that the company has not complied with the contract.

Accident Record Broken—
Accidents reported to the state industrial accident commission for the month of June exceeded those of any other month in the nine years that the commission has been in existence, according to Chairman W. A. Marshall. The number was 3060. The number of fatalities, which was 22, was exceeded only by October, 1913, when the number was 23.

Missionary Society Meets—
It would have seemed more appropriate weather for a good Baptist picnic—but it was really the Presbyterian Missionary society that held its annual picnic Friday. The event, scheduled for the green woods, was staged in the waterproof parlors of the church. Two talks were given to the women during the afternoon by Miss Cone, who has been teaching for years among the poor mountain whites of the south, and by Miss Brooks, a teacher among the negroes of the south. A play, "Cindy's Chance," the story of a poor little white girl from the mountain cracker country of the south, was presented by Mrs. Hester and one or two of the girls of the church. The annual dinner was served, with the men of the congregation helping in to join in the festivities.

Well Furnished Flat for Rent—
Modern; first floor; large five rooms. Immediate possession; $45 a month, at 666 Ferry street. Call at Statesman business office, or phone 23.

Streets Slippery—
Autos on the streets Friday afternoon gave up the old fashioned stately straight lines usually laid out for driving, and took up the tango and the dog-chasing-his-tail trot and the whirligig and the wabble and the snake-track shimmy as their owners turned on the juice and the brakes. Cars prouetted around like kaleidoscopes or hop-o-my-thumbs, and changed ends in the twinkling of an eye. They skidded like toboggans; they slid like roller skates; they whirled round and round like prize tops; they defied the road laws. Few serious accidents were reported, but that was mere "bull-luck," and not all good judgment.

Douglas MacLean and Edith Roberts in "The Sunshine Trail"

Playground Program Cancelled—
Because of the extremely inclement weather the program that was to open formally the Salem public playgrounds last night was cancelled. The program will be given at a later date that is yet to be announced.

Rained all Day—
And it rained all day. That expresses the sentiment of Salem folks, although they may express it with varying inflections. Some were glad that it rained and cooled the atmosphere; some wanted it to brighten up, and felt that sufficient water had fallen to last for some time. The total precipitation for the day was .53 of an inch, and during the time the temperature varied only six degrees. The highest point reached during the day was 60 and the lowest point was 54 above zero. The old cry, "unusual weather" was among the most frequently used by the inhabitants, from the oldest to the youngest of those who have lived here long enough to find the expression the handiest with which to level anything in the line of weather which they cannot explain.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Wanted, badly, sunshine.
Mr. Weather Man, please take away this left-over sample of winter.

The picnic party of Salem people at Taylor's grove above Mehma that listened in by radio on President Harding's speech at Portland and the big prize fight on the roof of the continent in Montana had rare privileges. But the great idea of a picnic is to get away some where out of sight and hearing of the busy world.

General Grant, when he started on his historic trip around the world, as he boarded the ship at New York, said he was glad to think of the next ten days, when he would be out of reach of the telegraph and all the others and troubles of the outside world.

But President Harding could not say this now, on his way to Alaska. The radio has killed privacy, even away out at sea—and even on picnic parties. It has made the wide world just one big neighborhood.

The next thing, they will be reading our thoughts. Then we will all have to be decent, even in private. One thing, though, this will do away with scandal. That will be something.

The Indiana woman who was sentenced to a day in jail for reading other people's letters may regard the information as all worth the price.

Henry Ford may think he has something about bumps, but until he detour into the editorial pike.

Parrots may now be bought for as little as $6.95, according to a St. Louis paper, but probably one must expect a parrot of the sixtiety-five grade to have a college education.

Many paragraphs write in leged jokes about the mother-in-law and then take a spin in the high-powered automobile owned by his wife's folks. We often wonder where he gets the nerve.—Exchange.
