

Congresswoman Huck Writes of Experiences in Washington Work

Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, congresswoman from Illinois, writes an interesting account of her first days in the lower house of the national congress in a like magazine. She asserts that an important necessary was omitted by the man who planned the congressional offices—he did not leave a place where a woman member might powder her nose. Mrs. Huck says she found a place but is not telling anyone, advising those women who desire to know to be elected to congress.

She was one of a party which went to Crater lake yesterday and which will go down into northern California next week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Erickson and John Christensen, in Arlington, Or., Monday.

The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion with summer flowers. The bride wore satin crepe and all-over lace. Her wedding veil was held with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, lilies of the valley and Cecil Bruner roses. There were no attendants. The ring ceremony was read by Rev. A. J. Neufeld of the First Methodist church. Only intimate friends of the bride and parents of the bridegroom were present. A wedding breakfast was served following the ceremony. After the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Ransom will make their home in La Grande, Or., where the bridegroom is a civil engineer for the state highway department. The bride is a graduate nurse of the Spokane Dispensary hospital.

SHRINE TRAFFIC EASILY HANDLED

Future Will Bring No Traffic Condition That Can Not Be Handled Well

By successfully handling an overnight increase of more than 50 per cent of its normal quota of automobiles during the Shrine convention, Washington, D. C., may be said to have successfully refuted the idea that the number of automobiles in the United States may reach the point where an impossible traffic situation would be created, according to officials of the American Automobile Association. Success in handling this sudden increase in traffic is all the more remarkable, it is pointed out, when it is considered that Pennsylvania Avenue, the main artery of the city, was closed to vehicular traffic in order to provide a playground for the Shriners.

Much of the success in handling the difficult Shrine situation is due to advance plans made by the Washington Police department, the merchants of the city and the various civic organizations, who cooperated wholeheartedly in "making Washington safe for the Shriners." A few one-way streets were established, and the American Automobile Association aided in handling the vast number of sight-seers by carefully mapping two routes, showing the principal points of interest and avoiding the congested section. The conglomerate result was a minimum of accidents.

"We have no fear of the future bringing traffic problems beyond the ability of the cities to handle," declares M. O. Eldridge, executive chairman of the A. A. A. "As the number of cars increases, ability to handle traffic problems will also increase. This association now has over 300 clubs affiliated with it and every club is bending its best thought and efforts to the solution of traffic problems. That the help of the clubs is appreciated is demonstrated by the fact that police departments in many of the cities call club officials into conference whenever changes in traffic regulations are contemplated.

"Co-operation of the automobile clubs and other civic organizations with the police departments, together with the civic organizations constantly being taught by automobile clubs, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the Highways Education Board and similar associations, will tend to make the traffic problem of the future no more intricate than that of the present, even though the number of cars is greatly increased."

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Acuff and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. L. Pugh of Boise, and Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hurd, Miss Lola Riggen and Ralph W. Snider of Salem all spent the Fourth in Silverton the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gerhke, former residents of Boise.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sykes and Mrs. Sykes' cousin, Miss Volena Smith of Albany, have returned from an outing at Netarts and other points on the Tillamook beaches.

A delightful musical evening was provided by a "Mother Goose" program given in the First Christian church Friday, June 29. The children were music pupils of Mrs. Cora Hendry.

The pupils taking part were: Kathryn Young, Freddie Dewey, William Mattson, Lorraine Bouffler, Ruth Ritchie, William Mattson, Vera Steward, Grace Gillespie, Ruth Powell, Viola Duval, Helen Putnam, Doris Steward, Lena May Mattson, Doris Duval, Daisy Gillespie, Florence Ritchie, Claudine Gillespie, Hazel Pro, Billie St. Clair, Florence Turner, Bessie St. Clair, Leona Gillespie, June Steward, Doris Ross, Ruth Koehler, Beryl Hulsey, Kenneth Abbott, Taylor Cooper, Helen Jones, Robert Carpenter, Mildred Abbott, Jesse Lankin, Millissa Adsett, Stanley Wilkinson, Donald Grassfield, Neva Spencer, Charles Barnard, Cleo Seely, John Spencer and George Stoner.

Mrs. Vic H. Beckman drove to Medford Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Shreve of that city. Mrs. Beckman will also visit her brother, Loren R. White, while in Medford, and a trip to Crater lake will be taken next week.

An interesting social event of the coming week will be an elaborate dinner, program and dance given Wednesday evening in the parish house of St. Paul's Episcopal church, by El Karas Grotto, in celebration of the granting of their charter. The evening will begin with a dinner, during the course of which a delightful musical program will be rendered, together with some specialty stunts and some short, interesting toasts followed by dancing. This is the first of a series of social affairs which will be sponsored by the Grotto, composed of Master Masons only.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Marguerite Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Edwards of Honor, Mich., to Walter M. Ransom, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Ransom of Salem, took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theo-

San Francisco Vocalist to Entertain Salem Audience At Tuesday's Band Concert

In these days when most any picnic party of the recent Fourth of July boasted of President Harding as the speaker of the day, and George Olsen's orchestra furnished snappy strains for those who delight in up-to-the-minute hits, all a la radio—under these conditions little introduction is necessary for Leila Gordon Saling, San Francisco concert soprano soloist, whose voice has carried from KPO broadcasting station in San Francisco to the Samoan islands, 3000 miles across the Pacific ocean. This is the long distance radio singing record from San Francisco.

An Oregon girl, with many happy memories of the Oregon country, she is just now visiting with relatives in Salem and should the weather man consent to smile next Tuesday, she will sing with the Chervian band at the regular concert in Willson park. Singing with the Salem band will not be a new experience for Mrs. Saling, since she sang with it in Silverton, July 4.

This charming and talented woman is not unknown to Oregon music lovers since she sang in concert work in Portland and eastern Oregon before going to San Francisco three years ago. Her home was in eastern Oregon and she has just now been vacationing in her home state.

The vacation has been broken into repeatedly, since she has sung at several musicals in Portland and also for the Oregonian broadcasting station last week. She will sing with the Portland band Monday and hopes to be able to sing for Salem folks next Tuesday night in Willson park.

Mrs. Saling opened the Hale Brothers broadcasting station, KPO, in San Francisco, January 16. This is the station in conjunction with the San Francisco Call. Appreciations of her singing have come to the station or to herself personally from the Samoan islands, Minneapolis, Seattle, Portland, Des Moines and numerous other points. A message received from the station by Mrs. Saling since coming north suggests that she will need a secretary to take care of her mail.

One of the unusual numbers which she sang for KPO was with an accompaniment of flue and guitar, the first time these instruments had been tried in broadcasting. The program was Spanish and one of the letters coming in later speaking of that particular program came from Des Moines, Iowa.

Mrs. Saling sang three years ago at the commencement program at Oregon Agricultural college. A feature of her singing at that time was the competition offered by birds in the auditorium of the men's gymnasium who helped her along with the coloratura parts.

Mrs. Saling returns to San Francisco to resume rehearsals with the San Francisco Opera company which was recently organized and which will give 10 operas between the last of September and October 1. Following the close of the opera season, Mrs. Saling will go east to study. She desires to do operatic work but has no definite plans for her future.

Regarding the comparatively new field of singing, that of radio broadcasting, Mrs. Saling feels that some day must be found to pay the artists who sing since otherwise, once the novelty has worn off and the singers have established reputations, they cannot sing for the joy of singing when they earn their living with their music.

"The plane of the entertainment offered will be lowered," Mrs. Saling said, "unless some remuneration is offered. Since the artists cannot afford to do it for nothing and music teachers are always glad to have their star pupils perform, I do not know how this is to be accomplished but I do know that it must come soon."

While in Salem Mrs. Saling is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. D. B. Jarman on North Cottage street. She visited last week in Silverton as the guest of old school friends.

Possessed of a charming personality, interested not only in her work and art, but in all which pertains to it, Mrs. Saling is a delightful woman to meet. She says she is enjoying Oregon and renewing friendships and acquaintances with those she knew several years ago.

Many Salem women had the pleasure of meeting this delightful guest last week when she sang at Mrs. M. C. Woodard's tea in Silverton.

Skeleton of Prehistoric Monster Found in China

PEKING, July 8.—Practically a complete fossilized skeleton of a dinosaur has been discovered by members of the third Asiatic expedition sent out by the American Museum of Natural History under the leadership of Roy Chapman Andrews.

The expedition left Peking early in April for a point near Ebrlin, 270 miles beyond Kalgan on the Ugra route, where last year's excavations gave promise of further valuable finds.

Working in what appears to have been a bend in a river-bed the searchers found the skeleton at a depth of three feet.

In spite of the presence of numerous bones of other animals it has been possible to distinguish those of the huge creature. The ribs on the upper side are nearly all in place and a fossilized tail about 10 feet in length is entirely complete. The work of excavating and covering the bones with preservatives has been going on for two weeks. Word reaches Peking that the locality is rich in prospects and promises an entire summer's occupation.
