THREE CLUBS TO DINE TOGETHER

Salem Hospital Will Be Boosted at Big Luncheon at Marion Today

Three of Salem's leading business men's organizations will meet in joint luncheon at the Marion today noon for the purpose of getting behind the Salem hospital. This is the first time that the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs have dined together, and the meeting today will take the place of the individual weekly luncheons of the different organizations.

The object of the meeting is to place before the members of each what has been and what remains to be done in the construction of the Salem hospital and the great need in the community for such an institution.

For the purpose of furthering the movement to raise $35,000 to aid the hospital, Tom Kay and Fred Erizon have been named the two captains. These will elect their lieutenants who will be assigned from 10 to 15 men each.

Judge George H. Burnett of the supreme court, will be the principal speaker at the luncheon today, while two minute talks will be given by Tom Kay, R. J. Hendricks, George Putnam, Frank Durbin, Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner, Rev. W. W. Long and William Ochsford.

This general meeting of the three clubs is held preparatory to the drive for $35,000 for the Salem hospital, which will be launched next Monday morning, July 16.

As it now stands, the Salem hospital is said not to be excluded in planning by any other institution of its kind in the United States.

Dr. H. E. Morris will preside.
