WITH OREGON and the northwest hostess to more than 2,000 women from all parts of the United States and Canada, Salem women are planning on assisting as much as possible with the convention of the Business and Professional Women's clubs, in Portland.

Salem has a special booth at the auditorium, with also booths for each of the clubs within the state. Mrs. Ella Wilson, assistant secretary of the state fair board, is in charge of the Oregon exhibit and has special charge of the Salem section.

Delegates began arriving in Portland yesterday at 6:05. Several special trains and numerous special coaches attached to the regular trains were routed by the transportation committee so that all arrived within a short time of one another.

The national officers and the general committee of the convention has been in Portland since last Thursday and with the officers of the Portland club and the state federation met the incoming women at the Hotel Multnomah, which is convention headquarters.

Mrs. Ethel Smith of Eugene is the house guest of Mrs. Gertrude J. M. Page. She will be here for a month. Mrs. Gertrude J. M. Page entertained yesterday at luncheon for Mrs. A. L. Smalley of Seattle, a guest in Salem.

Friends and relatives have received word from Miss Helen Pearce and Miss Frances Richards following their arrival on the continent. They were to cross the English channel Saturday and go into Belgium. They will go to France last, sailing from there for home late in August.

A record number of books, 411, were checked out at the loan desk of the library last Saturday, according to Miss Flora Case, local librarian. This is the greatest number checked out since last March, and more than have ever been loaned any day in the month of July, according to the records.

The Great Blue Heron, painted by R. Bruce Horsfall, which has been purchased by the Salem library, will be framed this week by the Monroe Gilbert art studio. The picture was given to the library at the reduced price of $75 by the artist.

Those who have given toward the picture so far are Sibyl Spears, Edwin and Frank Cross, Mrs. Hugh McCammon, Mrs. D. W. Eyre, Paul Wallace, Russell Catlin and Wanda York.

In listing the women attending the specially called meeting of the Salem Woman's club Saturday, a few names were inadvertently omitted. The complete list of those present is as follows: Mrs. J. C. Nelson, Mrs. Gertrude J. M. Page, Mrs. George J. Pearce, Miss Dorothy Pearce, Mrs. W. W. Rosebraugh, Mrs. G. E. Schuneman, Mrs. U. G. Shipley, Mrs. John Albert, Mrs. Mark Skiff, Mrs. Harley White, Mrs. W. E. Anderson, Mrs. George Arbuckle, Mrs. C. P. Bishop, Miss Mattie Beatty, Mrs. Frank Bowser, Mrs. C. S. Clark, Miss Flora Case, Mrs. H. J. Clements, Mrs. W. J. Culver, Mrs. Alice H. Dodd, Mrs. S. C. Dyer, Mrs. F. A. Elliott, Mrs. W. F. Fargo, Mrs. C. T. Harris, Miss Edith Hazard, Mrs. R. J. Hendricks, Mrs. Seymour Jones, Mrs. N. C. Kafoury, Mrs. W. E. Kirk, Mrs. E. A. Kurtz, Mrs. Harry Love, Mrs. A. N. Moores, Mrs. C. K. Spaulding, Mrs. W. I. Staley, Mrs. Fred H. Thompson, Mrs. R. J. Yastlow, Mrs. A. M. Vassar, Mrs. Charles Weiler, Mrs. G. A. White, Mrs. David Wright and Mrs. H. R. Worth.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ramseys of Pratum was the scene of an informal gathering on Sunday, honoring their daughter Miss Lena Ramseyer of San Luis Obispo, Cal., who is spending her two weeks' vacation with them. The guests who spent the day at the Ramseyer home were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beardsey, Mr. and Mrs. George Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. William Perlich, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Perlich, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Currie, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Blackerby, Mr. and Mrs. David Ramseyer, Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Ramseyer, Ben Ramseyer, Carl Ramseyer, Maude Savage, Clara Miller, Lola Schultz, Julia Currie, Irene Blackerby, Gordon Perlich, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ramseyer and the honor guest.

Mrs. W. L. Beauveau will entertain Mrs. G. A. White on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Beauveau are in the H. S. Gile house, 535 North Winter street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Condit left yesterday for Cascadia where it is their plan to remain until August 1.

Mrs. E. S. Tillinghast and son Edward are guests at the home of Mrs. Emma Murphy Brown. Mrs. Tillinghast was matron at the deft school here before leaving for Fulton, Mo., where her husband is superintendent of the school for the deaf at that place. Mrs. Tillinghast has many friends here who will be glad to welcome her.

Mrs. William Hughes entertained the members of chapters G and AB, of the PEO Sisterhood last Thursday, honoring Mrs. J. B. Littler, who leaves this week for California where she will reside. Additional guests invited were Mrs. E. E. Upmeyer, Mrs. W. L. Kuser, Miss Ella Moody and Mrs. W. S. Low.

Mrs. Littler, who is a member of chapter G, was presented with a silver cake plate by her sisters of that chapter as a token of their love and appreciation.

If a sufficient number of Salem women desire to attend the Thursday night banquet and return to Salem the same night, a special bus may be arranged for, according to Miss Grace Taylor, president of the Salem club. Any desiring to attend in this way are being asked to call either Miss Taylor, 1251-M, or Miss Mirpah Blair.

Delegates from the Salem club are Dr. Mary Rowland and Mrs. J. H. Brewer and alternates are Mrs. LeMoine R. Clark and Mrs. Ella Shultz Wilson. Miss Grace Taylor is a delegate at large but because of a sprained ankle may not be able to attend all of the sessions.

Others who are attending sessions of the convention as guests are Mrs. F. E. Barker, Mrs. A. E. Lyons, Mrs. Louise Arthur, Miss Ella Hodson, Mrs. Fawk and Miss Wagner.

Miss Grace Smith, assistant attorney general, will attend a meeting and dinner for lawyer members of the convention tonight. She will go down later in the week for other sessions. Judge Allen will be one of the guests at tonight's meeting of lawyers.

LOGANBERRY JUICE

That is a great product. Quite a lot of it is being squeezed now in Salem. What is the matter with the reorganization of the Phez interests, providing a market for a lot of loganberries? If this cannot be done, what is the matter with cooperative squeezing of loganberries for the juice? There are many ways in which loganberries may be sent to market—but the ways in which loganberry juice can be used are still more numerous. The whole thing is a question of proper merchandising, and the mere ways of sending loganberries...

SENTENCED 25 TO DEATH.

With twenty-five deaths upon her soul, aged 23 and looking at least a decade older—Anna Gluzman, the Moscow Soviet judge, who has sentenced a quarter of a hundred men to the gallows within the past few months. Note the right hand closed over the end of a cigarette—an inveterate and almost continuous smoker. Picture taken when she was 19, before she had passed any death sentences. Shows that only four years ago she was quite beautiful in a boyish way.

HERE'S A REAL CIRCULATING LIBRARY.

Connecticut College at New London, Conn., has a new library which will be dedicated this spring, and the books have already been moved into their new home by 400 girls, who carried them over by canoe, platform and squads with perfect precision.

YES, THEY ARE SHRINERS.

Flax pullers are about ready for demonstration. They promise to be among the most important machines of all in developing the flax industry in the Salem district. They will provide several jumps ahead of any other flax growing district in the world—for the fiber.

LEVIATHAN BREAKS 3 RADIO RECORDS

War-Time Communication and Constant Touch Are Included in Report

CHICAGO, July 9.—Three records in radio communication have been broken by the Leviathan, according to an announcement made by the Western Electric company here. The ship not only broke all previous wartime communication marks by transmitting 15,000 words a day to and from the shore, but managed to keep in constant touch with land radio stations 100 to 1300 miles away. The announcement says the apparatus especially designed for it, the Leviathan performed an unprecedented radio stunt in operating simultaneously and for long periods two different sending and receiving sets. The steamer carries four antennas, two for sending and two for receiving. The newly developed transmitter installed on the Leviathan is designed to send messages on four different wave lengths. A rotary wave-changing switch operated by means of an automobile steering wheel permits almost instantaneous change to any one of four wave lengths: 1800; 2100; 2400; or 2600 meters on the Leviathan's antenna. Three of these wave lengths were used on the trial trip: 1800; 2100, and 2500 meters—the highest and lowest were used for the transmitting of messages and the intermediate one for calling stations.

Star Roasting

Harold Lloyd and the things he doesn't know about little girls was the topic of conversation of Anna May Blison, 5 years old, who was telling a bevy of youngsters who are appearing in a children's comedy. Anna May was the little girl in Lloyd's "Now or Never," whom he attempts to dress on the train. "Yes," little Miss Blison said, as she held the center of one of the dressing-rooms, "Mr. Lloyd is fine, but he put my dress on wrong side to, with the bow in front and my stockings on wrong side out and something else on with a belt. And he put me in upside down. I guess he never had a little girl of his own."

WATCHING THE WATERS CREEP UP.

Sections of Oklahoma and Arkansas are facing what Weather Bureau officials predict will be the most disastrous flood in recent years. Between 2,000 and 4,000 persons have been reported homeless in the vicinity of Tulsa, while hundreds in Arkansas are flood refugees.

MOVIE GOSSIP

BLIGH Herbert Rawlinson in "The Prisoner." OREGON "The Little Church Around the Corner." LIBERTY "The Sunset Trail." Claire Windsor, featured player in "The Little Church Around the Corner," the screen adaptation from Charles Blaney's play, is a girl who two years ago didn't even know that pictures were made in Hollywood. She had no ambition to become an actress, and only a chance visit in company with a director's wife to a studio is responsible for her rapid rise to stardom. She has the leading part in this Warner Brothers' production, which comes to the Oregon theater for a run of three days, commencing today. The team work of two players on the screen, when perfected and polished, is an interesting thing, pleasing beyond the average qualities of a motion picture attraction. The pictures that established Reginald Denny most firmly in the minds of the majority of fans were "The Leather Pushers," Universal's screening of the H. C. Witwer epics of humor which were published in "Collier's." The applause from these showings has hardly died out, and now comes an elaborate Universal-Jewel special, "The Abysmal Brute," starring Denny. It will be shown at the Oregon theater commencing Friday, for two days only. But Denny, when asked for his own opinion of the remarkably successful short pictures, gives a strong word of praise to Hayden Stevenson, who played the manager of the hero in "The Leather Pushers." Critics in reviewing the pictures declared that the team work of Denny and Stevenson was one of the most attractive things of the film season. Supporting Herbert Rawlinson in "The Prisoner," the Universal photoplay of a George Barr McCutcheon romantic novel which comes to the Bligh theater today are several players of featured or stellar rank. Eileen Percy and June Elvidge, long stars in their own rights, have the two chief feminine roles, while Bertram Grassby, who exemplifies the most polished combination of courtesy and "villainy" on the screen, plays the heavy role. Jack Conway directed. With the grandman bobbing their hair they are likely to be engaged in elopements. It does beat all how entrancing the view is from the rear. One often sees a snappy dresser he thinks is a flapper only to note that the party must be one of the Colonial Dames when she turns around. Such are the times and the fashions. Advice from China are that the people over there are in despair regarding a republican form of government. But, ducks we have no reason to laugh.—Exchange.
