The late Susan B. Anthony, founder of the suffrage movement, Miss Alice Paul, leader of the National Woman's Party, has just announced that the date of July 22 has been set for the world's tribute to the memory of Miss Anthony, when an international wreath will be placed on her grave at Mount Hope Cemetery, Rochester, N. Mr. Shields expects to start for home July 17, making a stop at Oakland to visit friends a day.

One of the between season musical treats which the Monmouth Normal school enjoyed during the last week was the concert given by the Salem Apollo club.

Ten of the choice selections from its large repertoire were sung by the club members and were called upon to repeat several.

Dr. John R. Sites directed the chorus and Miss Ruth Bedford played the accompaniments.

Assisting the club and adding a diversion from the ensemble part of the program were several of Salem's favorite soloists.

Mrs. Naomi Whalen, violinist, pleased her audience with "Schoen Rosmairn" (Kreisler). As an encore she played "Song of India" (Rimsky-Korsakov) and was obliged to come back a third time in which she played "Evening Breeze" (Friml).

Floyd McIntire, tenor, sang "West of the Hills" from "Pagliaccio" (Cavalli) and "The Blind Ploughman" (Clarke.) Responding to an encore, he sang "For You Alone" (Glehl).

Miss Dorothy Larsen has just returned from a trip to Alaska, having gone as far north as An-week where Mr. Steiner has his headquarters as a representative for the Roberts Motor company. They will live at the Tudor Arms apartments.

Miss Marguerite Olinger, formerly a student at the state school for the blind, sang Friday at the Gladstone chautauqua and made a most favorable impression, according to press reports. She shared honors for the afternoon with Campbell's band. Miss Olinger was repeatedly encored. Miss Eva Pittman played her accompaniments.

Mrs. M. F. Shanks has as her house guests Mrs. R. W. Bowers and Mrs. Anne R. Redford of San Diego, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fodkner and C. T. Forkner of Dishman, Wash., are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Fodkner. They have been here for a week.

Mrs. H. M. Styles has been entertaining Miss Lena Duffy of Denver for a few days. Miss Duffy is a member of the faculty of the Wilcox school for girls in Denver and has gone to California for a visit. She and Mrs. Styles were friends while in Pullman, Wash.

Mrs. Carl F. Ruef, formerly Miss Elizabeth Nichols, society editor for several years on the Oregon Statesman, was a visitor in Salem yesterday. She was accompanied by her small daughter, Mary Magdalene.

Kitchen Should Look Like Workshop.
Should be used for preparation of food; the route from kitchen to dining room direct.

The efficient kitchen is one so equipped and arranged that the best results may be obtained with the least expenditure of time and effort according to A. Grace Johnson, professor of household administration at the Oregon Agricultural college.

"A kitchen is a place for the preparation of food, and equipment for other work should be kept out, when possible," says Miss Johnson. "A kitchen should look like a workshop, not like a collection of closed presses." Arrangement has much to do with the efficiency of a kitchen. Arrangement should be made according to two processes, preparation and clearing away.

The preparing process consists of the storage center—the pantry refrigerator and ice-box, the preparation center—the table or kitchen cabinet, the cooking center—the stove or other cooking equipment, and the serving and transporting center—the table, tray on wheels, or other serving surface.

The clearing away process consists of stack surface to right of sink, sink for washing, drain surface to left of sink, and closet and shelves to left of drain.

Working surfaces should be high enough so that the palms of the hands may rest on surface when worker is in erect position.

Small, oblong, compact kitchens concentrate working processes, and save steps. The kitchen should be so arranged that one may work from storage, preparing and service surfaces toward the dining room. This route should be direct. If the equipment is arranged in this fundamental order, it has been proved that the work will be done with a saving of many steps and much energy.

SUMMER TIME in all its glory is of the present, and with August just a few days in the future, vacation pleasures and summer tasks are of prime interest.

The large garden party yesterday at the Homer Smith home was one of the charming summer affairs which was of general interest. Others of a similar nature will be held later this season. A previous party was held at the Lord home on North Church street.

The Salem Floral society was at home for the flower lovers of Salem yesterday afternoon and evening at the Homer Smith home on North Summer street. The beautiful gardens were delightful in the height of summer blooming season.

Hostesses for the afternoon and evening were Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith, Mrs. W. P. Zord, Miss Elizabeth Lord, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Anderson, Mrs. Edward Gillingham, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Deckerbach, Judge and Mrs. Lawrence T. Harris and Mrs. Josie Stewart.

Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Gilbert were honored at an informal reception Thursday evening at the Jason Lee church. Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert had just returned from their wedding trip in southern Oregon.

The church was pretty with summer blooms in shades of orange and white. R. A. Harris was in charge of the program and extended greetings to the church members who came to welcome the Gilberts.

Mrs. F. Fargo and Miss Aileen Riches favored with musical numbers during the evening.

Miss Mary Schultz, talented Salem violinist, has appeared in radio concerts given in the Wannabaker auditorium, New York City.

The numbers played by Miss Schultz July 10 were:

Serenade ..... d'Ambrosio
Romanza-Andalus ..... Sarasate
Melodie ..... Gluck-Kreisler
Danse Legere ..... Pilsner
Album Leaf ..... Wagner-Wilhelmis

The new organ in the Wannabaker Auditorium is the newest and largest concert organ in New York City, and has become famous through the recitals of Marcel Dupre, organist at Notre Dame Cathedral, Paris, and Charles Gounod, formerly organist at Goutwep Cathedral. Dupre played in Salem last fall.

Many Salem folks will attend the showing of the pageant "Americanus" which will be given on the coming week in the University of Washington stadium at Seattle.

Many from here went up last year and it is expected that a number will attend this year's performance.

"The Americanus" traces the history of the United States with the varying elements of the historic times brought into the foreground. Not the least alluring of the many features will be the Spanish dancing girls who will form part of the Monroe Doctrine episode.

Enough electricity to light a city of 60,000 persons will be used for the production. Twenty enormous searchlights will turn the night into day. More than $250,000 worth of scenery and equipment are necessary for the pageant.

Besides the use of infantry and cavalry troops from Camp Lewis and sailors and marines will be used to stage sham battles. The massed band of 1000 pieces will include the best naval and military bands of the west.

The parts of Sacahawea, "The Bird Woman" will be taken by Miss Sophie Braslau, who will sing the "Robin Woman's Song."
