Bottle of Eye-Wash Is Awarded Hapless Player

Exhibition of the Spaulding trophy, donated by Anderson & Brown to the American Legion baseball team, the winner of the Twilight league pennant for 1923 is being made in the window of the Central pharmacy, on State street. The trophy is in the nature of a ball player standing on top of a large sphere, representing a baseball.

In addition to the trophy around with the contests centered, is another, unheralded and unsought. This is a bottle of eye wash, and a placard beneath it states that it was awarded to Carl D. Gabrielson for making no hits during the entire season.

A double, triple and single in the last inning enabled the locals to win out.

Turning to France, Sir Robert pointed out her failure to tax herself adroitly, in fact, her capital debt was 1,400,000,000 francs less than the British debt, and her taxation one-half per head of the British, while she had not only reestablished her trade, but had a greater volume of exports and imports than before the war.

On the other hand, England was struggling along on about 70 per cent of her pre-war trade.

HARDING ABLE TO TALK WITH SISTER

 she spent several minutes in her brother's room but was requested by the physicians not to talk with him as it might tire him. She said there was every indication that the president is "a very sick man." At the request of Mrs. Harding she and her daughters took quarters in the hotel and were the guests of Mrs. Harding at luncheon.

Travel Plans Talked
 Plans for the future following the restoration, continued to be discussed and the plan seemingly most favored at this stage is for a return to Washington by what is commonly known as the overland route as soon as the president is well able to travel. In such an event the presidential train would make no attempt at speed, but run on a schedule that would take it through the heated valleys and across the desert during the cool hours of the night so far as possible, and at other times stop for the night so the rest of the president might not be disturbed. There was no attempt to fix any date for departure from San Francisco for manifestly the president's condition will not permit it, as encouraging as it appears to be. Any plan decided on will be subject to the advice of the physicians.

Return Home Sought

European Wasps TO FIGHT BORER

Scientists Discover That One Insect Preys on Another, Aids Farmer

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—With the release of 1,000,000 tiny wasps, termed habrobracons, in this vicinity, experts of the Bureau of Entomology, United States department of agriculture, hope they have set in motion an agency that will result in the destruction of the corn borer and the saving of millions of dollars to the farmers. The success of the experiment entomologists say, will not be determined until observations have extended over a period of years.

Imported from France, in which country and in Italy the habrobracon has proved a relentless enemy of the corn borer, four colonies of the insects were bred at the government laboratories in Arlington. Whether the wasp can survive and flourish in the colder and more uneven climate of New England and the United States in general is a question still to be determined.

The corn borer itself is an imported species, having come to America in shipments of European broom corn. Its ravages first attracted serious attention in 1917 in eastern Massachusetts. Since that time it has worked steadily westward. Last year the borer caused damage estimated at $1,000,000 in this state alone. The corn borer, which in appearance resembles a caterpillar, not only attacks corn but inflicts injury upon crops of beets, celery, beans, rhubarb, potatoes, peppers, buckwheat, and clover. Altogether, investigators have found the borer guilty of damaging 211 varieties of plants.

The habrobracon is said to injure no crop, confining its attack to the borer, the gypsy and the brown tail moths. The wasps are very small, with bodies about the size of the head of a pin. The female wasp attaches itself to the corn borer and lays its eggs on it. These, when they develop, at first paralyze and later kill the borer.

The battle between borer and habrobracon began with the release of colonies of 250,000 habrobracons each in Saugus, Cambridge, Malden and Arlington. Further experiments are being made by government entomologists with a view to finding other insects which may check the spread of the borer.

Hospitals Find Books Aid To Pills in Curing Sick

CHICAGO, July 31.—Books as well as pills for curing the sick are now being used in the principal hospitals of the country, according to Miss Louise Singley, district manager for the American Library association. "Robinson Crusoe won't cure a case of tuberculosis, but reading does keep a patient's mind off his troubles," Miss Singley said. "Efforts are made to put the right book in a sick man's hands. A librarian in a hospital studies her patrons somewhat as a doctor does. Everything depends on the individual case.

"Some books depress and others excite." Many librarians say that whole classes of books should be tabooed from hospitals for these very reasons. But if a librarian studies her patients like the doctor, she can prescribe books for him without danger. A book that would hurt a person with a certain ailment or with a certain temperament will be all right for another.

"The psychology of the patient must be taken into consideration. A tuberculosis patient can undertake more serious reading than most of the other sick people because his convalescence covers a longer period of time.
