

REICHSTAG TO VOTE MONDAY

Retirement of Cuno and His Cabinet Foreshadowed by Communists' Motion

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—The early retirement of Chancellor Cuno and his ministry seems foreshadowed in consequence of the decision of the Reichstag to support the "no confidence" motion introduced by the communists, which will come up for a vote in the Reichstag on Monday.

Although the United Socialists originally concluded that they would abstain from voting when the issue came, the internal situation is fast drifting to a point where the Socialists face the necessity of saving their political prestige with the workers in order to prevent the workers from deserting to the communists.

The Socialist leaders are conferring with Chancellor Cuno in an effort to induce him to resign. In the event he acquiesces, Dr. Gustav Stresemann, leader of the German People's party, would be asked by President Ebert to reconstruct the government on the basis of a big coalition, which would include the United Socialists.

The public feeling which has marked Germany's internal situation the past few days and which is being converted into political capital by the communists late tonight, seized the Reichstag where symptoms of a Cuno crisis developed because of the decision of the Socialists to retire from their position of "benevolent neutrality" toward the present nonpartisan, or businessmen's cabinet.

Despite the new tax and financial program promised by Chancellor Cuno, the United Socialists leaders on the party's moderate wing, have been unable to stand off their radical comrades, who are clamoring for the chancellor's retirement. The communists very craftily turned the party disunion to their purpose by introducing the "no confidence" motion in the Reichstag late this afternoon. This was so worded that the Socialists either had to accept it in view before their following as having given the bourgeois government their approval.

The motion simply stated that the chancellor's policies do not represent the Reichstag's views.

The parliamentary storm came unexpectedly tonight while the House was still voting the government's tax bills. The United Socialists now have alienated themselves to such an extent from the Cuno cabinet's program that the ministry's retirement appears inevitable.

CHRISTIAN RESIGNS SECRETARIAL POST

Worked With Dead Chief for Nine Years—No Public Offices Wanted

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—George B. Christian, secretary to Warren G. Harding as United States senator and as president, announced tonight he had submitted his resignation as executive secretary to President Coolidge.

Mr. Christian made his announcement soon after he had returned from the final services for his dead chief.

"I entered public life with Warren G. Harding and I leave it now that he has been called away," the announcement said. "For forty-nine years I worked beside him and my present sorrow is somewhat assuaged by the feeling of satisfaction at having been permitted to serve a great president, a most humane and considerate chief, and the finest friend it has ever been given a man to have. I left at Washington my resignation for the acceptance of President Coolidge with a tender of any services I may be able to render him and any assistance I can give his secretary. It is my expectation to enter private business just as soon as I may be able to complete my arrangements therefor."

Mr. Christian added informally that he had no desire to continue in public office and would not look for favor on any federal appointment. The former secretary left here tonight for Washington with Mrs. Harding to assist her in removing personal belongings from the White House and to clear up the desk of the late president. He may continue to live in Washington for a few months but expects to go into private business soon.

Oregon Walnut Growers Will Tour Next Week

Following the lines laid out years ago by the Jersey Jubilee caravans, the Oregon Walnut Growers are to have a Willamette valley tour next week, starting from the Elberton hotel at McMinnville on Wednesday, August 15. Visits are to be made to practically all the important nut orchards of the lower valley, including the famous Ford Groner orchard near Hillsboro.

The caravan will drive 25 miles the first day, stopping at several important nurseries and

SALEM OFFERS FINAL TRIBUTE

Harding Memorial Services at Willson Park Jointly With Band Concert

Governor Pierce yesterday sent the following telegram to Mrs. Harding at Marion, Ohio: "Oregon, in common with other states, today bowed in grief on the occasion of the last sad rites for your beloved husband and late illustrious president of the United States. Business was suspended, and memorial services held in every part of the state, evincing plainly the high esteem in which the late president was held by the people of this commonwealth.

"Again Oregon joins its sister states in extending sympathy. God bless you and may you survive the sad bereavement that has befallen you and the people of this nation."

Salem citizens stood with bowed heads last night as the buglers sounded taps and the final memorial service for Warren G. Harding, late president of the United States, was at an end. The silent crowd scattered to its work and play, the day's work was finished and the morrow would bring its own cares. Services were held in Willson park in conjunction with the band concert.

Could the departed president, so recently a guest of the northwest, speak to Salem citizens he would desire that they go on with life's work and play and last night's concert was altogether fitting and proper, was the statement of Rev. Ward Willis Long who spoke following the concert.

The favorite hymn of the late president, "Lead Kindly Light" was sung by Miss Lena Belle Tartar and then the great audience sang the hymn under her direction. Rev. Mr. Long then spoke of the president, his work unfinished but the day's work done. Mr. Long quoted from the late writings of Victor Hugo and Robert Browning—with their messages of hope at the close of lives spent in service to the world. Mr. Long then asked the audience to join in saying the Lord's prayer, the prayer which President Harding asked those at the tomb of the unknown soldier, regardless of creed, to say together.

The brief service was closed with the congregational singing of the hymn, "Abide With Me," and sounding of taps.

Salem paused briefly yesterday during the hour of the funeral in Marion. Stores were closed and blinds drawn, shops were stilled and the town was quiet. The kids at the public playground gathered for a short memorial service of their own and Rev. Ward Willis Long spoke to them.

A memorial program was broadcast last night from the Salem Electric company's station and a brief prayer was offered with a short talk given.

Two weeks ago today in the early hours of the morning, the president's special speed through Salem and Salem folk were sorry that the hour was too early to greet the distinguished guest. Last night they paid him the last honor possible.

FIRST MONEY ON HOSPITAL IS DUE

Early Payments Urged—Building Likely to Be Opened About Oct. 1

The first payments on all the pledges secured in the recent campaign for the Salem hospital, were due on August 1. This of course does not apply to payments that were made in cash—only to those made on the two-year basis. The hospital committee is very anxious that this money shall come in, at once, so that the hospital can be finished.

Finishing is going on steadily, however, on the money already paid in. This week, the two elevators provided for in former contracts, were ordered to be installed at once. This includes the big main elevator, on which patients can be carried up on wheeled cots, direct from the ambulance or as transfers from one floor to another. The other is the dumb waiter that serves the patients their food from the kitchen in the basement. The grounds are being cleared up, and the whole place is being made ready for the expected opening, about October 1.

There is still about $900 unprovided for, from the original estimates. There will be some shrinkage, in all probability, on pledges made perhaps in good faith but not carried out, so the committee still hopes for the coming of the big-hearted man or woman who will take up the last of the financial slack in one gracious benefaction, and start the hospital into service free of debt and with a glad smile of thanks for the past and of hope for the future.

HANLEY TURNS IN HIS RESIGNATION

President of State Chamber of Commerce Forced to Abandon Office

PORTLAND, Or., Aug. 10.—William Hanley of Burns, Or., today tendered his resignation as president of the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce to the board of directors in session here on the ground that he is unable properly to handle the affairs of the position because of private business.

The directors met to formulate a plan for the state development in cooperation with the state development program of the Portland chamber.

A. S. Dudley, recently appointed executive manager, outlined in detail his policy, which met with approval.

SOLDIERS WILL GUARD VAULT CONTAINING HARDING'S BODY FOR PERIOD OF SIX MONTHS

MARION, O., Aug. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—For six months the vault in which Warren G. Harding is sleeping his last sleep will be guarded by a detail of 30 United States army "regulars" from Fort Hayes, Columbus. The "regulars" will take up the death watch next Monday. Until then the tomb will be guarded by Ohio national guard troops.

A mighty hush fell over the throngs that packed the streets as the funeral procession slowly wended its way from the Harding home to the cemetery. The only noise was the quiet chug of the automobile engines in the procession.

The funeral procession passed by the office of the Marion Star published for years by Harding. Not an employe of the Star was in the building, the front windows of which had been darkened. The employes marched as a body in the procession the only gathering given this permission.

Estimates by secret service men were that between 50,000 and 75,000 persons passed in the line yesterday and today for a last look at the face all knew so well.

Mrs. Harding rode to the cemetery in the fifth automobile behind the hearse. In the car with her were George Christian, her husband's private secretary and for years their next door neighbor in Marion and Brigadier General C. E. Sawyer who was the president's personal physician and intimate friend, Dr. Harding. The president's father, rode in another car.

As the body of the late president was placed in the vault, an army bugler sounded "taps." For a moment there was silence and then the crowd began its sorrowful journey back to the center of the city.

PROHIBITION MEN TAKE 3 LIQUOR RUNNERS

Bullet-Riddled and Whiskey-Laden Automobiles are Confiscated

PORT ANGELES, Wash., Aug. 10.—Winfield M. Huggert, Arthur Jerome and F. R. Brady, alleged pilots of three booze running automobiles, are in the county jail here tonight, three bullet-riddled and whiskey-laden automobiles are under lock and key and the running of 55 cases of bonded whiskey to Seattle was halted at 4:45 this morning after a thrilling chase around Hood's canal in which Walter M. Just and J. C. Linville, prohibition enforcement men of Seattle were forced to puncture the booze runners' cars with bullets before they would stop. Just and Linville were driving toward Port Angeles from Seattle and had reached a point 12 miles east of Hoodsport when they were forced from the road by a car loaded to the brim with whiskey and piloted by Winfield Huggert, they said. The officers gave chase and finally stopped Huggert's car by puncturing the rear tire with a bullet.

While they were placing Huggert under arrest Arthur Jerome passed them, speeding at 65 miles an hour, the officers declared. Linville gave chase while Just stayed with Huggert and the first haul. After a 12-mile chase around Hood canal Linville finally stopped Jerome. If took five bullet holes in the rear of Jerome's car to do it, however.

While Linville was chasing Jerome, F. R. Brady, came in sight of Just who put Huggert within range of his gun and held up Brady at the same time. Brady refused to open the rear end of his car until Just started to open it with an axe. Then Brady confessed it was filled with whiskey, it is said.

Then Just and Linville drove here where they were due to appear at the hearing of the alleged rum runners.

He took her hand in his and gazed proudly at the engagement ring he had placed on her finger only three days before. "Did your friends admire it?" he inquired, tenderly.

"They did more than that," she replied, coldly. "Two of them recognized it."

NEIGHBORS OF WOODCRAFT HOLD DISTRICT MEETING

An open meeting will be held tonight by the Neighbors of Woodcraft who have been holding a district meeting in Salem. The meeting will be featured by a drill by 16 guards in uniform. Mrs. Mina Olmstead of Salem, is district captain and will be in charge of the drill.

The sessions will close with the evening meeting. Officers for the coming two years will be chosen today and other business details completed.

A banquet was given last night with a business meeting following. A memorial program for President Harding was held yesterday with special music by Miss Lena Belle Tartar.

The morning session was given over to an address of welcome by Mrs. F. B. Southwick with the response by Mrs. Minnie Hiner of Portland, grand guard. Alice Falk of Spokane and Mabel Hawkins of Toledo, also spoke. This evening is the closing session.

McARTHUR SPEAKS AT TWO MEETINGS

Former Representative Takes Active Part in Polk County Memorials

C. N. McArthur, of Portland, was the principal speaker at two Harding memorial exercises in Polk county yesterday. In the morning he addressed a meeting at the Isis theater in Independence which was presided over by Mayor Ray M. Walter. An appropriate musical program was rendered and short speeches were made by D. E. Fletcher, representative in the state legislature from Polk county and Dr. H. Charles Densmore, pastor of the Independence Presbyterian church.

In the afternoon Mr. McArthur reviewed the life, character and public services of Warren G. Harding and paid a beautiful tribute to the late president.

"Warren G. Harding always had in mind the welfare of his country," Mr. McArthur said. "His votes and public acts were not those of a politician but a statesman. He never considered whether or not he was on the popular side, but was always striving to be on the right side. He stood high in the affections of the American people and when the history of these times is written he will be accorded the distinction so justly due him."

Mr. McArthur served in the house of representatives during the entire term of Mr. Harding's senatorial term and for the two years of his presidential term. He was a member of a joint congressional committee of which Senator Harding was chairman, and was a strong supporter of the Harding policies when the Senator became president.

Four Acts Vaudeville. "The Power of a Lie." With an all-star cast.

Mabel Julienne Scott, Maude George, June Elvidge, Earl Metcalf, David Terrance, Phillips Smalley, Ruby LaFayette, Winston Miller and Stanton Heck are the notable artists who handle principal roles in the Universal all star production that will be shown at the Bligh theater beginning today. The story is "The Power of a Lie," originally a novel and play by Johann Bojer, a brilliant Norwegian thinker, who expressed his convictions on the subject of deceit dramatically and frankly.

It is seldom that the motion picture arts lends itself to so simple a phenomenon of life as deceit, in picturing faults and foibles of the human race. But Universal City executives felt confident that in the dramatic and strange story there was material which would lend itself to pictorial effect beautifully and convincingly.

The cast is assurance of the quality of interpretation. George Archinbaud, a gifted young French director who is conversant with the Continental viewpoint on stories, handled the filming of Bojer's plot. The scenario was prepared by Charles Kenyon, whose fame as a screen writer was preceded by the authorship of such successful plays as "Kindling," which the Drama League judged one of America's five greatest stage pieces.

A new four act vaudeville road opens at the Bligh theater for two days starting today.

If there is anything to be told by titles, "Who Are My Parents?" should be filled with heart interest. This William Fox Corporation feature comes to the Liberty theater tomorrow.

Here is a monster screen drama which presents a problem of the ages. It is a splendid photoplay that should appeal to those who care for good clean dramatic material. The author of the story, "Mr. X," has worked with the single idea of holding the interest of the spectator from start to finish. To accomplish this he has diversified the action by the introduction of a number of appealing

The screen adaptation of Sinclair Lewis' novel, "Main Street," will be shown at the Oregon theater beginning today, according to an announcement of this theater's management.

The picturization of the novel is declared to have made an unusual picture wherein the characters of the story live vividly. It is said that the producers spared no time or experience in giving the picture the last perfect touches, even going to the extent of studying Main Street conditions and peculiarities. Harry Beaumont, who directed the picture, is himself a Main Street product, having been born in a small town.

Florence Vidor and Monte Blue play the feature roles, with a strong supporting cast made up of Harry Myers, Noah Berry, Louise Fazenda, Robert Gordon, Josephine Crowell, Gordon Griffiths, Otis Harlan and Alan Hale.

"Main Street" is the story of Carol Kennicott, who comes to Gopher Prairie, a small mid-western town, and instinctively sets to changing it to her heart's desire—at least she tries to. She starts with her husband, Doctor Kennicott, whom she considers boorish and crude, because he is practical.

"Sir, I am a bill collector."

"Then I can furnish you with one of the most choice collections in the world, all authentic, thought you were after money."
