Big Demand for Silver May Result in Shortage
 N. YORK, Aug. 11.—The use of silver in the motion picture industry and amateur photography and the great demand for silver jewelry are responsible for a growing demand of such huge proportions that Robert Linton, president of the North Butte Mining company, predicts a shortage of the metal in the future.

In a statement on the subject Mr. Linton declares that 5,000,000 ounces of silver are used in photography each year. This is the largest single factor in the increased demand in the United States.

The Orientals take great quantities of silver for adornments, the white metal being favored by them for use in jewelry. Linton acts as a crafty trader in silver, buying up immense supplies of it on a low market and holding them until the price soars again, Mr. Linton says.

In the face of this increased demand comes the intelligence that the world's production is declining. The rich silver mines are nearly exhausted and no new ones have been struck. Silver is now a product of copper and lead mines, and the larger copper and lead mines are producing less silver.

Have you ever stopped to think that this would be a mighty old world if all the bunk was eliminated?
